McDonald Asks Bargaining On Company Basis

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government Thursday suspended steel labor peace talks. It did so because they weren't getting anywhere and because United Steelworkers leaders are leaving to join aluminum industry labor negotiations.

Director Joseph F. Finnegan of the Federal Mediation Service said the steel talks have seen "no progress of substance."

He said stepped - up mediation efforts in response to President Eisenhower's recent appeal failed to budge the basic attitudes of the steel antagonists.

May Help Set Pattern

The government's chief labor peacemaker indicated a hope that if an aluminum settlement is achieved it could help point the way to a steel agreement.

It was noted that Kaiser Steel Corp., which has settled with the union for its steelmaking operations, has a major voice in the aluminum industry negotiations. Steelworkers President David J. McDonald is due to join the aluminum talks in Chicago on Monday.

Finnegan's suspension move came after a brief joint session with top steel industry and union negotiators.

Shortly before Finnegan's announcement, McDonald made public letters to 95 steel companies calling for direct individual talks with union committees.

McDonald said industrywide talks have been totally unproductive. He maintained that terms of federal law and the court order which halted the 116 - day steel strike require separate company bargaining.

Industry Reply Awaited

Individual company bargaining units are the ones legally recognized by the government. The industrywide talks have been carried on by common consent.

R. Conrad Cooper, executive vice president of U.S. Steel Corp. and head of the industry bargaining team, promised a reply to McDonald's call for company bargaining.

Under the court order, the Steelworkers are forbidden to strike for a maximum 80-day period expiring on Jan. 26. If the dispute hasn't been settled by that date, the workers will be free to walk out again.

Strikers Stone Packing Plant Workers' Cars

ALBERT LEA, Minn. (AP) — Jeering strikers turned loose a barrage of stones on cars carrying nonunion workers out of the Wilson & Co. meatpacking plant Thursday night in a fresh outbreak of violence.

Hundreds of pickets and sympathizers took part in the demonstration despite appeals for restraint by union leaders earlier in the day.

As tensions mounted, Gov. Orville Freeman announced in St. Paul that he will meet Friday with Wilson's president, James C. Cooney of Chicago, to discuss the strike situation.

Thursday night's disturbance was not as severe as Wednesday's eruption in which nearly a thousand pickets and sympathizers blocked plant exits, smashing and overturning cars to keep nonunion workers inside the gates for three hours.

But each car of company workers that emerged through the gates Thursday night was met by a bombardment of stones. Windows were smashed on many.

There were no immediate reports of injuries.

Earlier in the day company officials said they were determined to stay in operation at the plant and it was up to law enforcement agencies to maintain order.

There were suggestions that Freeman might be required to order out the National Guard. Union leaders told a mass gathering of members they should avoid any action that would force such an order.

The 1,050 members of United Packinghouse Workers of America Local 6 have been on strike since Nov. 3. Since then the company has hired more than 500 employes to replace striking production workers.

Foley Indicted For Tax Evasion

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Red Foley, television and country music star, was indicted by a federal grand jury Thursday on two counts of income tax evasion.

The jury charged that Foley, who stages the nationally-televised Ozark Jubilee program, reported his income for 1954 and 1955 at about $65,000 less than what it actually was.

The indictment said that in 1954 Foley claimed his taxable income was $10,972.34 when he well knew it was $36,423.95 and that in 1955 he claimed his taxable income was $11,677.92 when in fact it was $50,987.40.

Seven Of Score Who Fled N.C. Prison Still At Large

IVY BLUFF, N.C. (AP)—Thirteen Ivy Bluff escapees were behind bars Thursday night, but seven others remained at large and presumably were heavily armed.

That was the score as police throughout the East hunted the remainder of a convict gang that fled from the maximum security prison here Tuesday.

The seven still at large included one of the ringleaders, Charles W. Stewart, 52, of Wilmington. He was serving 25 years for armed robbery and storebreaking.

Authorities suspect the seven are well-armed. Eleven of the 17 weapons taken in the escape still are missing. The weapons include a submachine gun.

The latest to be taken into custody was Robert Lee Council, 30, a Negro from Fayetteville, N.C. Council, who was serving 20 to 25 years for armed robbery, was arrested Thursday as he walked along a highway near Rustburg, Va., 15 miles south of Lynchburg.

Council and the other 12 surrendered without resistance.

The convicts escaped from the so-called Alcatraz of North Carolina, a prison camp maintained for incorrigibles, and theoretically escape-proof.

Meanwhile, police at Memphis, Tenn., have discounted the theory that four men who broke into a home early Wednesday were Ivy Bluff escapees.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wortham first told officers the four bound Wortham with neckties and raped Mrs. Wortham.

Police Chief James C. MacDonald said the hospital examination of Mrs. Wortham showed no evidence of rape, and she later said she was not attacked.

American Who Escaped Cuban Jail Recaptured

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban military intelligence agents Thursday captured Frank Austin Young of Miami, who fled a military jail Wednesday to avoid serving a 30-year prison sentence.

Minutes after Young was seized, agents arrested James Buchanan, a reporter for the Miami (Fla.) Herald, and charged he was carrying medical aid to Young.

Both men were taken into custody in a Havana tourist hotel.

The National Broadcasting Co. announced meanwhile that two of its Cuban photographers also had been detained by military authorities. The two, Charles Santos and Luis Rivas, were taken into custody in Pinar del Rio, where they had gone to make pictures dealing with Young's escape.

Young was sentenced Tuesday by a military tribunal in Pinar del Rio. He surrendered quietly Thursday to an army intelligence agent in the hotel in downtown Havana.

An intelligence spokesman said Young probably will face a new military trial on escape from custody charges.

Young, who with 19 others was sentenced by the Pinar del Rio military tribunal for counterrevolutionary activities Tuesday, had 36 hours of freedom before a hotel waitress betrayed him.

"I escaped from jail in Pinar del Rio and that's all I have to say," Young told newsmen permitted to interview him briefly at Havana arm headquarters. He appeared to be in good shape and not physically injured.

The 38-year-old adventurer, a native of Indianapolis, had boasted after he was sentenced that he would not serve more than 30 weeks imprisonment. He escaped by cutting a hole in the cell wall.

He was alone when an intelligence officer, gun in hand, broke into his seventh-floor room at the downtown St. John's Hotel.

Young registered at the hotel under the name of Jack Morton Wednesday morning after riding from eastern Pinar del Rio province in a "jitney."

He told authorities he separated in Havana from his fellow escapee and cellmate, Sergio Hernandez Reyes, who was to have faced trial Saturday as a counterrevolutionist.

Hormone Use In Fattening Fowl Halted

May Cause Cancer; Treated Poultry Taken Off Market

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government Thursday announced steps to halt the use in poultry of a fattening hormone suspected of causing cancer.

Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming outlined a voluntary program to remove from the market birds treated with the synthetic hormone called diethylstilbestrol, or stilbestrol.

Last month, the welfare secretary alerted the country against some cranberries found contaminated with a weed killer thought to produce cancer. A government-industry testing program then was put into effect to screen out the tainted berries.

Flemming told a news conference Thursday's action was taken because stilbestrol induces cancer in test animals when it is included in their diet over comparatively long periods of time.

Found In Skin, Liver, Kidneys

He said minute residues of the chemical have been found in market poultry. The residues have been confined to the skins, livers and kidneys of the slaughtered birds, Flemming added, and none was found in the white or dark meat.

Therefore, Food and Drug Administrator George P. Larrick said, a housewife with a chicken in her refrigerator could feel safe if she discards the skin, liver and kidneys.

The hormone has been used to fatten poultry and beef. Flemming said it was cleared by the Food and Drug Administration 12 years ago, but has been used in only about 1 per cent of the poultry grown in the United States.

None Found In Other Meats

In his statement, Flemming said Larrick had advised him no residues of the hormone have been found in beef, mutton or lamb and that the chemical is not used in hogs.

"The American people, therefore," Flemming said, "can purchase beef, mutton, lamb and pork—and with the voluntary actions that are described in this statement can also purchase poultry—with the assurance that such foods contain no detectable residues of stilbestrol."

The actions involve:

1. Agreement by authorized manufacturers of stilbestrol for use in poultry immediately to suspend its sale.

2. Requesting representatives of the poultry industry and the retail food industry to arrange for immediate halt in the sale of treated birds.

U.S. Will Pull Army Troops Out Of Iceland

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army said Thursday it is ordering its 1,200 troops out of Iceland in the next six months.

The Defense Department said some 4,000 other U.S. military personnel, of the Air Force and the Navy, will remain in the strategically located country.

Informed sources said the Air Force also may withdraw some of its strength in the near future but the Navy may increase its forces somewhat.

On this score the Defense Department, in reporting plans for reorganizing U.S. forces in Iceland, said only that the United States had discussed plans with the Iceland government which included possible expansion of other defense activities there.

The Defense Department and the Army denied that the withdrawal of the 1,200-man battalion combat team, which had been stationed there since 1951, had any bearing on recent difficulties with civilians, or represented a cutback in North Atlantic Treaty Organization commitments.

The Army said it was a normal redeployment, and had been under consideration for at least 2½ years.

Bigger Defense Load For Allies U.S. Objective

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is planning to ask its European allies to carry a greater share of the burden of defending Western Europe against the threat of Soviet power.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, reporting this at a news conference Thursday, indicated the first step would be to propose an immediate study of the cost-sharing problem within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The 15-nation NATO Council will meet in Paris next Tuesday, that session being followed Dec. 19-21 by a Western summit session which President Eisenhower will attend.

Herter also told his news conference that President Eisenhower's current 11-nation tour so far has produced "extremely satisfactory" conferences between the President and the chiefs of other nations.

Herter also said Eisenhower has very much in mind the possibility of a visit to Latin America later on.

In response to questions, Herter made these other points:

1. The United States has been rebuffed in efforts to improve relations with Cuba. In this connection Herter said there are a number of claimants for Cuba's share in sugar sales to the United States. His words intimated that the hostile attitude of the Fidel Castro government may injure Cuba's position int he U.S. sugar market.

2. The United States is taking steps to improve the conditions of Panamanian workers in the Panama Canal Zone and is studying "with considerable sympathy" Panama's request that it be allowed to fly its flag in the zone.

PARIS (UPI) — French movie idol Henri Vidal, who once complained that he was too healthy, died Thursday of a heart attack at the age of 40.

Vidal was the husband of actress Michele Morgan. They met and married 10 years ago when she was playing a Roman noblewoman and he a gladiator in the Italian film "Fabiola."

He is the second French matinee idol to die recently. Gerard Philipe died of a heart attack Nov. 5 at the age of 37.

Douglas Named Deputy Secretary Of Defense

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Air Force Secretary James H. Douglas was named by President Eisenhower Thursday as deputy secretary of defense.

Dudley C. Sharp was promoted from undersecretary of the Air Force to secretary, succeeding Douglas.

Douglas takes over the post held by Thomas S. Gates Jr., who recently became secretary of defense succeeding Neil H. McElroy.

Hopkins Professor Hits Drug Industry "Numbers Routine"

Specialist Charges Many New Medicines Of Inferior Quality, May Harm Patients

WASHINGTON (AP) — A university specialist in pharmacy told Senate investigators Thursday many new drugs are of miserable quality and "may harm the patients with serious side effects."

Dr. Louis Lasagna of Johns Hopkins University severely criticized the introduction of what he called a "plethora of new compounds" each year.

Lasagna, chief of the university's division of clinical pharmacology, struck at drug manufacturers who he said engage in a "pharmaceutical numbers racket." Without naming any manufacturers, he said they produce new brand name drugs and represent them as being more potent than others.

The difference between the old and new models, Lasagna said, is something like saying "a dime is more potent than two nickles" because the dime is in one piece.

"I am ashamed to say that physicians do fall for this numbers routine," he said.

Lasagna's testimony was something of a departure for the Senate Antitrust subcommittee which has concentrated on pricing practices in the drug industry.

Earlier witnesses, speaking for the drug houses, contended new medicines are costly in part because they quickly become obsolete and new compounds replace them.

"One reason for this is the miserable quality of drugs issued each year," Lasagna commented.

Before Lasagna testified, John T. Connor, president of Merck & Co. Inc., Rahway, N.J., denied that new type drugs are introduced by his and other drug firms for the purpose of keeping prices and profits from dropping.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) challenged Merck to "give the public a little break like you do the government" in setting the price of an arthritis remedy.

Kefauver said this after figures were introduced at a Senate hearing picturing Merck & Co., Inc., as offering to sell the drug Prednisone to the Military Medical Service Agency for about one-third of the price Merck charges druggists.

Connor replied that competitive conditions are different in government business and the retail trade.

Connor said Merck couldn't stay in operation long if it had to rely on profits from prices it gets from such bulk buyers as the government and hospitals.

'Most Wanted' Bank Robber Nabbed In S.C.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Joseph Lloyd Thomas, 48, one of the FBI's 10 most wanted fugitives, was captured Thursday night at a Pelzer, S. C., service station, the FBI announced.

Thomas had a loaded .38 caliber pistol in his car, but FBI agents arrested him before he had a chance to use it. An unidentified citizen notified the FBI of Thomas' presence after identifying the fugitive from FBI posters.

Thomas was wanted for the armed robbery of a Shreveport, La., bank on Feb. 13, 1959, in which $34,000 was stolen. A female employe of the bank was shot and wounded by one of Thomas' accomplices in the holdup, the FBI said.

Thomas, who made the 10 most wanted list on Oct. 21, has lived with his wife and two children in Pelzer for the past year under the name of George Clark Ashley, the FBI said.

Businessmen Give More Yule Gifts But Value Down

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— Christmas gifts by businessmen are running an estimated 22 per cent above last year but their value is down sharply, a trade expert said Thursday.

The trend in the delicate field of corporate gift - giving, said Joseph M. Segel, is toward the inexpensive Christmas present. "The present that means something and represents a thoughtful gesture—not a bribe."

When is a business gift a bribe?

Segel said salesmen in his field have a rough rule: "If the present runs more than $100 it would tend to be a bribe. Most of ours are under $10."

Segel is president of the Advertising Specialty Institute, a private firm that describes itself as the authoritative source of information about the industry. The company, he said, receives regular reports from the nation's 2,100 firms handling advertising specialties; firms that employ 15,000 salesmen and will do a 300-million dollar business this year.

"The average cost of a 1959 business gift is about $7.50, down from $14 only five years ago, but the number of individual gifts is estimated to be running 22 per cent above last year," Segel said.

Have recent congressional probes of payola and similar things hurt the selling of items to businessmen for gifts to clients or prospective clients

Segel said no. This year's estimate of 300 million is nearly 50 million above 1957. And, he said, the trend for years has been toward inexpensive gifts.

Declares U.S. Ready To Aid Its Friends

Legislators Told Military Weakness Invites Aggression

By MARVIN ARROWSMITH

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — President Eisenhower declared Friday nations must accept the rule of international law to provide a sound basis for peace. He spoke in an academic followup to his speech Thursday in parliament implying strong American support for India in its conflict with Red China.

"It is better to lose a point now and then in an international tribunal," he said, "and gain a world in which everyone lives at peace under the rule of law."

The President thus renewed his plea for peace in a speech at Delhi University on the acceptance of an honorary degree.

Eisenhower delivers another speech later Friday at the World Agriculture Fair. He will cut a ribbon to open the five-acre American pavilion, one of the highlights of his visit to India.

Expecting a vast turnout, Indian authorities marshaled thousands of extra police to keep crowds in check.

Thursday night the President assured India that U.S. military power is ready to help defend its friends. In a major speech he warned Indian legislators—jittery over Red Chinese border threats—that military weakness invites aggression.

Assurance Follows Warning

He coupled this warning with assurances of American friendship and a plea for universal controlled disarmament so that progress can be made in richer harvests and better living.

The American chief executive got a deafening ovation when he appeared before 600 members of the Indian Parliament at a joint session.

But the members were silent when the President spoke of the dangers of military weakness, a point that has been sinking in here since August when Red China made the first of her incursions across the Himalayan line India has long considered her border.

The President coupled his warning with an eloquent plea that universal controlled disarmament is imperative and for a "5-year or 50-year plan" to rid the world of fear-begetting tensions, fixations and propaganda pressures.

The half-hour speech was perhaps the most important the American chief executive will deliver in his 11 - nation, 22,000 - mile tour.

U.S. Committed To Disarm

He got his biggest applause when he declared the United States is committed to a ceaseless search for ways to end the "vicious circle" of the arms race—that "controlled universal disarmament is the imperative of our time."

"The demand for it by the hundreds of millions whose chief concern is the long future of themselves and their children will, I hope, become so universal and insistent that no man, no government can withstand it," he asserted.

But, he said, "weakness in arms often invites aggression or subversion or externally manipulated revolution." He did not mention Red China or communism by name, but his meaning was plain.

Referring to the high price the United States paid in Korea, he said a long series of harsh alarms had been caused by "the aggressive intentions of an alien philosophy, backed by great military might."

"Faced with this fact, we in America have felt it necessary to make clear our own determination to resist aggression through the provision of adequate forces," he continued.

"They serve not only ourselves, but those of our friends and allies, who, like us, have perceived this danger. But they serve for defensive purposes only."

India Protests China Aircraft Violations

NEW DELHI (UPI)—India has protested to Red China against violations of Indian air space by Chinese Communist aircraft, it was announced Thursday.

As President Eisenhower was addressing the Indian parliament and warning against Communism's "alien philosophy," Indian officials announced that a formal protest had been delivered two days ago to Peiping.

The note charged that Communist planes from bases in Tibet had been flying over India's Northeast Frontier Agency.

U.S. Will Pull Army Troops Out Of Iceland

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army said Thursday it is ordering its 1,200 troops out of Iceland in the next six months.

The Defense Department said some 4,000 other U.S. military personnel, of the Air Force and the Navy, will remain in the strategically located country.

Informed sources said the Air Force also may withdraw some of its strength in the near future but the Navy may increase its forces somewhat.

On this score the Defense Department, in reporting plans for reorganizing U.S. forces in Iceland, said only that the United States had discussed plans with the Iceland government which included possible expansion of other defense activities there.

The Defense Department and the Army denied that the withdrawal of the 1,200-man battalion combat team, which had been stationed there since 1951, had any bearing on recent difficulties with civilians, or represented a cutback in North Atlantic Treaty Organization commitments.

The Army said it was a normal redeployment, and had been under consideration for at least 2½ years.

Bigger Defense Load For Allies U.S. Objective

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is planning to ask its European allies to carry a greater share of the burden of defending Western Europe against the threat of Soviet power.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, reporting this at a news conference Thursday, indicated the first step would be to propose an immediate study of the cost-sharing problem within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The 15-nation NATO Council will meet in Paris next Tuesday, that session being followed Dec. 19-21 by a Western summit session which President Eisenhower will attend.

Herter also told his news conference that President Eisenhower's current 11-nation tour so far has produced "extremely satisfactory" conferences between the President and the chiefs of other nations.

Herter also said Eisenhower has very much in mind the possibility of a visit to Latin America later on.

In response to questions, Herter made these other points:

1. The United States has been rebuffed in efforts to improve relations with Cuba. In this connection Herter said there are a number of claimants for Cuba's share in sugar sales to the United States. His words intimated that the hostile attitude of the Fidel Castro government may injure Cuba's position int he U.S. sugar market.

2. The United States is taking steps to improve the conditions of Panamanian workers in the Panama Canal Zone and is studying "with considerable sympathy" Panama's request that it be allowed to fly its flag in the zone.

Hopkins Professor Hits Drug Industry "Numbers Routine"

Specialist Charges Many New Medicines Of Inferior Quality, May Harm Patients

WASHINGTON (AP) — A university specialist in pharmacy told Senate investigators Thursday many new drugs are of miserable quality and "may harm the patients with serious side effects."

Dr. Louis Lasagna of Johns Hopkins University severely criticized the introduction of what he called a "plethora of new compounds" each year.

Lasagna, chief of the university's division of clinical pharmacology, struck at drug manufacturers who he said engage in a "pharmaceutical numbers racket." Without naming any manufacturers, he said they produce new brand name drugs and represent them as being more potent than others.

The difference between the old and new models, Lasagna said, is something like saying "a dime is more potent than two nickles" because the dime is in one piece.

"I am ashamed to say that physicians do fall for this numbers routine," he said.

Lasagna's testimony was something of a departure for the Senate Antitrust subcommittee which has concentrated on pricing practices in the drug industry.

Earlier witnesses, speaking for the drug houses, contended new medicines are costly in part because they quickly become obsolete and new compounds replace them.

"One reason for this is the miserable quality of drugs issued each year," Lasagna commented.

Before Lasagna testified, John T. Connor, president of Merck & Co. Inc., Rahway, N.J., denied that new type drugs are introduced by his and other drug firms for the purpose of keeping prices and profits from dropping.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) challenged Merck to "give the public a little break like you do the government" in setting the price of an arthritis remedy.

Kefauver said this after figures were introduced at a Senate hearing picturing Merck & Co., Inc., as offering to sell the drug Prednisone to the Military Medical Service Agency for about one-third of the price Merck charges druggists.

Connor replied that competitive conditions are different in government business and the retail trade.

Connor said Merck couldn't stay in operation long if it had to rely on profits from prices it gets from such bulk buyers as the government and hospitals.

'Most Wanted' Bank Robber Nabbed In S.C.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Joseph Lloyd Thomas, 48, one of the FBI's 10 most wanted fugitives, was captured Thursday night at a Pelzer, S. C., service station, the FBI announced.

Thomas had a loaded .38 caliber pistol in his car, but FBI agents arrested him before he had a chance to use it. An unidentified citizen notified the FBI of Thomas' presence after identifying the fugitive from FBI posters.

Thomas was wanted for the armed robbery of a Shreveport, La., bank on Feb. 13, 1959, in which $34,000 was stolen. A female employe of the bank was shot and wounded by one of Thomas' accomplices in the holdup, the FBI said.

Thomas, who made the 10 most wanted list on Oct. 21, has lived with his wife and two children in Pelzer for the past year under the name of George Clark Ashley, the FBI said.

Businessmen Give More Yule Gifts But Value Down

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— Christmas gifts by businessmen are running an estimated 22 per cent above last year but their value is down sharply, a trade expert said Thursday.

The trend in the delicate field of corporate gift - giving, said Joseph M. Segel, is toward the inexpensive Christmas present. "The present that means something and represents a thoughtful gesture—not a bribe."

When is a business gift a bribe?

Segel said salesmen in his field have a rough rule: "If the present runs more than $100 it would tend to be a bribe. Most of ours are under $10."

Segel is president of the Advertising Specialty Institute, a private firm that describes itself as the authoritative source of information about the industry. The company, he said, receives regular reports from the nation's 2,100 firms handling advertising specialties; firms that employ 15,000 salesmen and will do a 300-million dollar business this year.

"The average cost of a 1959 business gift is about $7.50, down from $14 only five years ago, but the number of individual gifts is estimated to be running 22 per cent above last year," Segel said.

Have recent congressional probes of payola and similar things hurt the selling of items to businessmen for gifts to clients or prospective clients

Segel said no. This year's estimate of 300 million is nearly 50 million above 1957. And, he said, the trend for years has been toward inexpensive gifts.

Declares U.S. Ready To Aid Its Friends

By MARVIN ARROWSMITH

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — President Eisenhower declared Friday nations must accept the rule of international law to provide a sound basis for peace. He spoke in an academic followup to his speech Thursday in parliament implying strong American support for India in its conflict with Red China.

"It is better to lose a point now and then in an international tribunal," he said, "and gain a world in which everyone lives at peace under the rule of law."

The President thus renewed his plea for peace in a speech at Delhi University on the acceptance of an honorary degree.

Eisenhower delivers another speech later Friday at the World Agriculture Fair. He will cut a ribbon to open the five-acre American pavilion, one of the highlights of his visit to India.

Expecting a vast turnout, Indian authorities marshaled thousands of extra police to keep crowds in check.

Thursday night the President assured India that U.S. military power is ready to help defend its friends. In a major speech he warned Indian legislators—jittery over Red Chinese border threats—that military weakness invites aggression.

Assurance Follows Warning

He coupled this warning with assurances of American friendship and a plea for universal controlled disarmament so that progress can be made in richer harvests and better living.

The American chief executive got a deafening ovation when he appeared before 600 members of the Indian Parliament at a joint session.

But the members were silent when the President spoke of the dangers of military weakness, a point that has been sinking in here since August when Red China made the first of her incursions across the Himalayan line India has long considered her border.

The President coupled his warning with an eloquent plea that universal controlled disarmament is imperative and for a "5-year or 50-year plan" to rid the world of fear-begetting tensions, fixations and propaganda pressures.

The half-hour speech was perhaps the most important the American chief executive will deliver in his 11 - nation, 22,000 - mile tour.

U.S. Committed To Disarm

He got his biggest applause when he declared the United States is committed to a ceaseless search for ways to end the "vicious circle" of the arms race—that "controlled universal disarmament is the imperative of our time."

"The demand for it by the hundreds of millions whose chief concern is the long future of themselves and their children will, I hope, become so universal and insistent that no man, no government can withstand it," he asserted.

But, he said, "weakness in arms often invites aggression or subversion or externally manipulated revolution." He did not mention Red China or communism by name, but his meaning was plain.

Referring to the high price the United States paid in Korea, he said a long series of harsh alarms had been caused by "the aggressive intentions of an alien philosophy, backed by great military might."

"Faced with this fact, we in America have felt it necessary to make clear our own determination to resist aggression through the provision of adequate forces," he continued.

"They serve not only ourselves, but those of our friends and allies, who, like us, have perceived this danger. But they serve for defensive purposes only."

India Protests China Aircraft Violations

NEW DELHI (UPI)—India has protested to Red China against violations of Indian air space by Chinese Communist aircraft, it was announced Thursday.

As President Eisenhower was addressing the Indian parliament and warning against Communism's "alien philosophy," Indian officials announced that a formal protest had been delivered two days ago to Peiping.

The note charged that Communist planes from bases in Tibet had been flying over India's Northeast Frontier Agency.

State Rests In Petrou Murder Trial

CLARKSBURG, W. Va. (UPI)—The state Thursday rested its case in the murder trial of Nick Petrou, 54, charged with the 1955 slaying of Mrs. Joan Bland, a maid at the home of Dr. Carl Laughlin, Clarksburg dental surgeon.

Laughlin's wife, Frances, also was slain during a robbery attempt.

Defense attorney Donald R. Wilson moved for a directed verdict of acquittal but it was denied by Harrison County Criminal Court Judge Arlos J. Harbert.

Wilson was considering placing Petrou on the witness stand Friday. However, if Petrou does not testify, final arguments probably will begin and then the case will go to the jury.

The jury listened Thursday to statements attributed to the Chicago convict in which he allegedly admitted killing the two Clarksburg women April 27, 1955.

Three different statements said to have been made by Petrou to officers while he was being held in a Chicago jail were read to the jury. Judge Harbert Wednesday had held them as admissable evidence.

Baltimore Case Tests Maryland Anti-Smut Law

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Superior Court judge has taken under advisement a test case attacking the constitutional validity of Maryland's new laws aimed at banning the sale of obscene literature to minors.

Siegel Enterprises Inc., the Siegel Book and Magazine Store and the Charles Book Center told Judge Reuben Oppenheimer Thursday the state law amounts to illegal and unconstitutional censorship.

Asst. Atty. Gen. James H. Norris Jr., assisted by Del. Francis X. Gallagher (D-Balto 3rd), defended the new laws as valid.

Cornelius P. Mundy, one of the attorneys representing the book firms, said many sections of Maryland laws already have been invalidated by past rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court, in cases dealing with similar statutes in other states.

Mundy argued that some sections of the Maryland law are invalid under the "equal protection clause" of the U.S. Constitution because the state laws exempt newspapers and certain other publications from the requirements of the law.

Norris contended that the court decisions give the states the power to regulate obscenity unless the state laws conflict with other standards.

He said the Maryland law was drafted to be valid under the state police power of the states and that it only prohibits acts which the state feels would injure children.

Prints On Stolen Car Those Of Escapees

WASHINGTON (AP)—The FBI identified fingerprints found in a stolen automobile abandoned in Arlington, Va. Thursday morning as those of three of the convicts who escaped from the Ivy Bluff, N.C. prison Tuesday.

The FBI said the fingerprints were those of Wiley Frank Cummings, 25, John Lee Miller, 27 and John R. Kilbourne, 34.

The abandoned car had been stolen from Edward R. Witt Sr. of Lynchburg, Va.

Another car was stolen during the night in the Arlington vicinity where the abandoned car was found.

Trucker Damage Award Against Railroads Upheld

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The U.S. Third Circuit Court of Appeal Thursday upheld an $852,074 damage verdict against 24 eastern railroads.

The suit had been brought against the Eastern Railroads President's Conference and Carl Byoir and Associates, Inc., a New York public relations firm, by the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Assn.

The court, in a 2-1 decision, upheld an opinion by U.S. District Judge Thomas J. Clary, who awarded the damages on July 22, 1958.

The Pennsylvania Railroad, one of the 24 lines involved, said it would appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Judge Clary's opinion ordered the railroads and the public relations firm to pay $652,074 in treble damages and $200,000 in counsel fees.

The truckers accused the railroad with conspiracy in the restraint of trade.

They argued the railroads, with the assistance of the publicity firm, had conducted a campaign of vilification against the truckers.

Gasoline Stockpiling Cuts State Tax Take

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Dealers stocking up on gasoline before the price increase Oct. 1 cut into the state's tax revenues for last month, Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced Thursday.

The motor vehicle fuel tax receipts for November totaled $4,457,747, and after refunds of $235,607, netted $4,222,139.

The net receipts were $151,280 below that of November, 1958.

Goldstein noted that dealers bought large quantities of gas in advance of the federal tax hike and this resulted in lower purchases.

The combined gross receipts for July through November, the first five months of the current fiscal year, totaled $24,217,066. Refunds of $1,298,101 were made to taxpayers.

The net receipts of $22,918,964 exceeded by $1,199,165 that of the corresponding period last year.

Battle-Ready Troops Quell Fiji Race Riot

SUVA, Fiji Islands (UPI) — Rioting Fiji islanders, shouting "down with whites," smashed property and stoned Europeans' cars Thursday before being subdued by troops and an appeal from their union leader.

Authorities quickly imposed a dusk-to-dawn curfew and called out battle-equipped troops to aid outnumbered police in quelling the race riot. Suva and the neighboring city of Lautoka quieted down to a tense calm, but only after telephone booths had been smashed and several stores damaged so heavily that they were forced to close.

An appeal by union leader Dee Lakshaman at the height of the rioting also was credited with calming the mobs. Many of the rioters were Indians like Lakshaman. He promised to get police to call off their extra forces and stop their smoke bombing if he assured them the rioting would end.

Lakshman also told the crowd that the oil workers' strike that touched off the clashes was under negotiation again.

'Platters' Acquitted Of Morals Charge

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Platters, four internationally known Negro night club and recording singers, were acquitted in Municipal Court Thursday of a morals charge.

But Judge Gilbert Bettman, who heard the case without a jury Oct. 1, called their conduct and that of four girls, also acquitted, "reprehensible" and "loose and lustful."

The singers and the 19-year-old girls—three white and one Negro—were arrested here last Aug. 10 in a downtown hotel.

The men were charged with aiding and abetting prostitution, lewdness and assignation and the girls with prostitution, lewdness and assignation.

NEW YORK (AP) — The electric utility industry should make its greatest gains next year, barring a renewal of the steel strike, the Wall Street brokerage firm of H. Heintz & Co. predicts.

And the stocks of many companies should be unusually good investments, it said.

"This is not likely to be a temporary phenomena, but the result of increased demand for energy from technological advances in industry, plus the rapid acceptance of new appliances," Heintz commented.

"Added to these tremendous stimuli will be an extraordinary expansion of the residential market caused by marriages of the so-called crop of war and postwar babies, which promises to keep energy demand growing at a dynamic pace for the next 20 years.

"Energy production for the industry as a whole in 1960 should show an above-average gain of better than 15 per cent to 825 billion kilowatt hours.

"Entering into this new era of growth, most utilities find capitalization ratios in better shape than at any time in history. Therefore, while financing requirements will be heavy, stockholders will be assured of participation in the tremendous advances promised by the future of this all-important industry.

"Of some 825 million dollars of new financing announced for the next 12 months by electric utilities, over 90 per cent is in the form of debt and preferred stock. With most major electric company issues currently available at around 17.5 times latest reported earnings and offering relatively high yields, many appear to offer unusual buying opportunities."

Automobile Traffic Nightmare Almost Paralyzes John Bull

By JAY AXELBANK
United Press International

LONDON (UPI) — Great Britain is battling manfully to keep its two-mile-an-hour lead over the horse and buggy days.

John Bull, who has successfully coped with wars, shrinking empires and austerity, today finds himself almost paralyzed by a traffic nightmare:

—8,000,000 vehicle on roads built in 1939 or before to handle 3,000,000 cars.

—A booming auto industry which is churning out so many new cars for now-able-to-afford-'em Britons that there is one auto for every 40 yards or so of British roads.

London Transport's J .H. Griffin, who keeps London's buses snaking through the capital's horrendous traffic, told United Press International:

"This is a terrible and crucial problem for London and the country. If we don't solve it, all London is going to come ot a complete standstill."

With the opening of a 72-mile superhighway between London and Birmingham—Britain's "first decent road since the Romans" —the nation is facing a new headache:

How to strike a happy medium between the death-defying speeds of more than 100 miles an hour that are travelled on the superhighway and the eight miles an hour that is average for crawling through rush-hour central London.

According to Griffin, the eight miles an hour compares with the six miles an hour "and often much faster" that a horse-drawn bus could trot through London in 1911. And if that isn't enough to make Londoners do a slow burn—in 1856 a horse - drawn vehicle could gallop through London's wide open spaces at a terryfing 10 miles an hour, according to Griffin.

Get that taste of excitement in your drink, too...with the smooth-as-silk whiskey... No bite, no burn and a smooth low price.

AAUW Unit Discusses Lucretius

"On the Nature of the Universe" by Titus Lucretius Carus, Roman philosopher and poet who died in 55 B. C., was the topic of discussion at the meeting of the Great Books Group of Cumberland Branch, American Association of University Women, Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Max Bastian, Louisiana Avenue.

Mrs. J. Russell Cook, in introducing the material, referred to it as didactic poetry, or poetry which uses beauty of expression for the purpose of teaching a moral lesson or setting forth the principles of some science. In this long poem, Lucretius sought to free man from fear of the gods and from superstition. It was his conviction that "the quiet mind can be attained by understanding the universe." Therefore, he undertook to explain the composition of the universe and its relation to man and his short span of life. For Lucretius, this was a logical approach since he was a follower of Epicurus who preached the gospel of common sense.

As Mrs. Amer Suter pointed out, it is amazing to the modern reader to find that a Latin poet could speak so eloquently on subjects which would seem to belong to today's Atomic Age. According to Lucretius, the universe consists of matter and vacuity. The matter exists in the form of invisible particles which he calls atoms, which are indestructible. He cannot conceive that the atom will ever be split. He sees the universe constantly changing within itself because of the atoms breaking away and rearranging themselves in different patterns. Some atoms, he thinks, move faster than light, a theory which modern science has disproved. On the other hand, in discussing weights of falling objects, Lucretius comes very close to Newton's theory of gravity.

The poet-philosopher informs his readers that the knowledge of natural phenomena helps to banish superstition. Mrs. George Griffith discussed his theories concerning the cause of thunder and lightning, clouds, the rainbow, earthquakes. In many instances, Lucretius was correct in his reasoning, but it is doubtful that his contemporaries understood or tried to understand his explanations, since some of the same superstitions are alive even today.

She noted that the poet was not satisfied merely to state his views, but correlated them with the development of the universe and of human society. He has attempted to explain the beginning of the world, believes that the world is one of an infinite number, and speculates on the approaching end of the world. The end of the world should hold no terror for man, he says, because he does not believe in the continuing existence of a soul. Mind and spirit are born and die together, so that to Lucretius, fear of death and of what comes after death is the root of evil. He thinks that men do foolish things to appease the gods and that there is an unexplainable Greater Force guiding and directing all.

General discussion of the views of the ancient poet followed.

Mrs. Ralph Webster, chairman, announced that the next meeting will be held January 19 at the home of Mrs. W. Earle Cobey, 819 Windsor Road, with Stevenson's Essays as the discussion topic. Other members attending the meeting were Mrs. Cobey, Mrs. Paul Castelle, Mrs. Milton Beneman, Mrs. W. Royce Hodges, Mrs. William A. Frailey, Mrs. Gordon Bowie, Mrs. Milton Bernstein, Mrs. Hollis Seavey, Mrs. Granville Shirley and Mrs. G. Mrogan Smith. Mrs. Samuel Wertheimer was a guest. Mrs. George Hazelwood was assistant hostess.

Games Party Planned

Plans for a games party in conjunction with the meeting January 8 were formulated at the Christmas party of the Hap-O-Happy Club, at the Girl Scout house. Mrs. Shirley Short presided and appointed Mrs. Angela Wade, Mrs. Pearl Payne, Mrs. Doris Dean, Mrs. Mary Twigg and Mrs. Lelia Gould in charge of arrangements. Mrs. Verona Kiiffner, Mrs. Edith Gellner and Mrs. Helen O'Toole were welcomed as members.

Entertainment consisted of piano selections by Christina Costa; a jitterbug dance by Robert Seifers and Nancy Kiiffner; pantomime by John Davidson and a polka by Barbara Davidson and Robert Siefers. The group sang carols and refreshments were served.

Navy Mothers Club 514 will hold its meeting tonight in the form of a birthday party and Christmas celebration. It will be at 7:30 in the American Legion Home. Members are reminded to bring groceries for the Christmas baskets.

AAUW Unit Discusses Lucretius

"On the Nature of the Universe" by Titus Lucretius Carus, Roman philosopher and poet who died in 55 B. C., was the topic of discussion at the meeting of the Great Books Group of Cumberland Branch, American Association of University Women, Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Max Bastian, Louisiana Avenue.

Mrs. J. Russell Cook, in introducing the material, referred to it as didactic poetry, or poetry which uses beauty of expression for the purpose of teaching a moral lesson or setting forth the principles of some science. In this long poem, Lucretius sought to free man from fear of the gods and from superstition. It was his conviction that "the quiet mind can be attained by understanding the universe." Therefore, he undertook to explain the composition of the universe and its relation to man and his short span of life. For Lucretius, this was a logical approach since he was a follower of Epicurus who preached the gospel of common sense.

As Mrs. Amer Suter pointed out, it is amazing to the modern reader to find that a Latin poet could speak so eloquently on subjects which would seem to belong to today's Atomic Age. According to Lucretius, the universe consists of matter and vacuity. The matter exists in the form of invisible particles which he calls atoms, which are indestructible. He cannot conceive that the atom will ever be split. He sees the universe constantly changing within itself because of the atoms breaking away and rearranging themselves in different patterns. Some atoms, he thinks, move faster than light, a theory which modern science has disproved. On the other hand, in discussing weights of falling objects, Lucretius comes very close to Newton's theory of gravity.

The poet-philosopher informs his readers that the knowledge of natural phenomena helps to banish superstition. Mrs. George Griffith discussed his theories concerning the cause of thunder and lightning, clouds, the rainbow, earthquakes. In many instances, Lucretius was correct in his reasoning, but it is doubtful that his contemporaries understood or tried to understand his explanations, since some of the same superstitions are alive even today.

She noted that the poet was not satisfied merely to state his views, but correlated them with the development of the universe and of human society. He has attempted to explain the beginning of the world, believes that the world is one of an infinite number, and speculates on the approaching end of the world. The end of the world should hold no terror for man, he says, because he does not believe in the continuing existence of a soul. Mind and spirit are born and die together, so that to Lucretius, fear of death and of what comes after death is the root of evil. He thinks that men do foolish things to appease the gods and that there is an unexplainable Greater Force guiding and directing all.

General discussion of the views of the ancient poet followed.

Mrs. Ralph Webster, chairman, announced that the next meeting will be held January 19 at the home of Mrs. W. Earle Cobey, 819 Windsor Road, with Stevenson's Essays as the discussion topic. Other members attending the meeting were Mrs. Cobey, Mrs. Paul Castelle, Mrs. Milton Beneman, Mrs. W. Royce Hodges, Mrs. William A. Frailey, Mrs. Gordon Bowie, Mrs. Milton Bernstein, Mrs. Hollis Seavey, Mrs. Granville Shirley and Mrs. G. Mrogan Smith. Mrs. Samuel Wertheimer was a guest. Mrs. George Hazelwood was assistant hostess.

Program Presented

Christmas selections featured the program at the annual party of the LaVale Century Club, earlier in the week at LaVale Methodist Church. For the second year the club's choral group presented a program and sang with the group. Soloists were Mrs. Jack Higgins, Mrs. Alan Macy and Mrs. James Perry. Mrs. John Nicklin gave a reading.

Approximately 110 attended and contributed cash and toys for welfare baskets.

Eric Fable Installed By Cumberland DeMolay

Cumberland Chapter DeMolay had public installation and discussed its Christmas dance at the meeting Wednesday evening at the Masonic Temple. James Hosack and George Bishop were installing officers.

The dance is to be held at Ali Ghan Country Club December 28.

Concluding the meeting the DeMolay Mothers entertained with a Christmas party. Each boy received a present and refreshments were served.

Bride-Elect Honored

Mrs. Charles Clites Jr. entertained in compliment to Miss Betty Mae Dixon with a miscellaneous shower Monday evening at her home, Ridgeley. The daughter of Mrs. Myrtle Dixon, Route 28, Miss Dixon is to become the bride of Gary Lee Clites, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Clites Sr., Ridgeley, December 27. The ceremony is to be performed at 2:30 in Calvary Methodist Church.

Games were played and prizes were won by Mrs. Francis Orndorff, Mrs. Ruth Comer, Mrs. Doris Henaghan and Mrs. Dixon. A blue sprinkling can was suspended above the shower gifts. A miniature wedding party adorned the mantle. Approximately 16 attended.

Patients To Receive Slippers

Members of the North Branch Homemakers Club reported on bedroom slippers they are making for Christmas distribution to patients at the County Home. The Christmas party was in the form of a luncheon at Davis Memorial Church. Miniature trees, pine and colored ornaments were used in the decorations.

Mrs. Harry White was installed as president; Mrs. Frank Bloss, treasurer; and Mrs. Russell Valentine, vice president. Carols were sung and jingles were exchanged.

Today is the deadline for making reservations for the Mapleside Homemakers Club Christmas party, which will be held December 14 at Central YMCA. They are to be made with Mrs. Glenn Diehl or Mrs. Dolan Lewis.

Doctors-Hospital Feud Splits Cambridge Town

Squabble May Close Medical Center

By JACK DAVIS

CAMBRIDGE (AP)—This farming and fishing community on Chesapeake Bay's eastern shoreline normally is a friendly, peaceful town, with "howdy" and "mornin', ma'am," bouncing back and forth across the streets all day long.

But not now.

A feud between the doctors and the directors of the 89-bed Cambridge - Maryland Hospital has split the town of some 10,000 folks right down the middle. Residents fear the heated squabble may close the hospital at any hour, leaving Dorchester County's 30,000 residents without a medical center.

The feud has been developing for several years, and as a result the original cause of friction is lost among mountains of added complaints, charges and countercharges.

Generally, the main issue centers around the hospital's chief administrator, Harold Coston.

The doctors contend that Coston interferes with their proper duties and obligations to their patients.

Coston, on the other hand, says the doctors want to run the hospital any way they see fit and won't follow hospital directives.

The non-salaried board of 18 directors have supported Coston.

A few months ago the doctors asked for a Circuit Court injunction to prevent Coston from what they termed "unwarranted interference" with their duties at the hospital. Judge W. Laird Henry Jr. turned them down, saying the directors had the right to run the hospital as they saw fit.

This week, in rapid succession:

The doctors appealed Judge Henry's decision to the Court of Appeals—the state's highest.

The directors indefinitely suspended the chief surgeon, Dr. John Mace. The reasons were not made public.

The doctors gave the directors 24 hours to reinstate Dr. Mace, or they would begin a boycott of the hospital.

The directors refused.

The doctors announced Thursday they would begin taking their patients to Easton, 15 miles to the north, or Salisbury, 30 miles to the southeast. They said they would enter the Cambridge hospital only for acute emergency cases.

The directors have threatened that if the boycott became effective, they probably would put the hospital up for sale.

About 40 patients are now in the 61-year-old medical center, technically a private institution but for years partially supported by public funds. Whether they will be moved or continue to be treated there was up in the air.

Long-time friendships are being strained. Fictitious charges pulled from out of thin air are flying back and forth among the unknowing, feeding more fuel to the fire.

It's the biggest rupture of ties around these parts since '61.

Hit-Run Woman Motorist Fined $1,200, Jailed

ODENTON, Md. (AP) — Fines totaling $1,200 and jail sentences of 4 years and three months were imposed Wednesday night on a 26-year-old Earleigh Heights woman who drove on after striking two boys and their bicycles Nov. 20.

John Stephen Hill, 10, and his 8-year-old brother, Clifford, both of Gambrills, were injured in the accident which occurred on Maryland 175 while they were en route to school. They were standing on the shoulder of the road with their bicycles and one of the bikes was dragged six miles underneath the car.

Delores Hanson pleaded guilty before Magistrate Nelson J. Clark to all of the charges against her except drunken driving. The magistrate also convicted her of that.

He imposed the following fines and sentences:

Leaving the scene of the accident in which someone was injured, $500 and one year; drunken driving, $250 and one year; reckless driving, $100 and one year; unauthorized use of an automobile, $250 and one year; operating after driving privilege had been refused, $100 and three months.

All of the sentences are to run consecutively.

Indicted For Murder

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A 16-year-old Greenock youth has been indicted for first-degree murder in the slaying of his father.

An Anne Arundel County grand jury returned the indictment against Bernard Smith Jr., Wednesday. He was accused of shooting his father, 40-year-old Bernard Smith Sr., last Oct. 25.

Tavern Keeper's Killing Blamed On Slain Hood

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — Baltimore County police today blamed the murder of Albert Yarema, a 64-year-old tavern keeper, last Aug. 15 on a hoodlum killed while trying to rob a general store north of Harrisburg, Pa.

Chief Gilbert L. Deyle of the county police bureau said evidence produced by the FBI and county detectives implicated John Wilbur Davis, 49-year-old Negro, in the slaying of Yarema.

Davis fell under a hail of 25 bullets fired by Pennsylvania State troopers who surprised him and another man trying to enter a store in Middle Paxton township north of Harrisburg Nov. 25.

Deyle said his department is closing the Yarema murder case that led to the questioning of more than 400 persons.

Yarema was killed early the morning of Aug. 15 by a burglar who surprised the tavernkeeper in his home on the Hanover pike north of Reisterstown.

Deyle said FBI comparison of bullets fired by the rifle found near Davis' body last month with that of the slug which killed Yarema showed they were fired by the same gun.

Police said Davis had a record of burglary, assault with intent to maim, and violation of prohibition laws dating back to 1931.

Cerebral Palsy Campaign Poster Girl Meets Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five-year-old Paula M. Suter of Baltimore received a warm greeting Thursday from Vice President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon. It occurred in a reception room outside Nixon's office.

"Look at those blue eyes," Nixon observed as he stooped to shake hands with the little blonde, who is the national poster girl for the United Cerebral Palsy Campaign.

Accompanied by William Clay Ford, vice president of the Ford Motor Co. and 1960 chairman for UCP campaign, Paula presented Mrs. Nixon with a special award for her service as honorary chairman of the drive.

Using a tiny cane, Paula walked to Mrs. Nixon and gave her an Associated Press photograph taken last May of Mrs. Nixon, Paula and Marvin Fields Jr. of Miami, 1959 poster boy.

FTC Accuses Firm Of Fake Advertising

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pati-Port, Inc., Baltimore, was accused by the Federal Trade Commission Thursday of using false advertising as customer bait in the sale of carports and patios.

The company and Al B. Wolf, an official, were given 30 days to answer the complaint.

The commission's complaint challenged the firm's offer to sell regular $249 all-aluminum carports or patios, including a supporting foundation wall and a completed floor pictured in the advertisements, for $77.

The complaint said the offer is not genuine but designed to get leads for salesmen promoting higher priced merchandise.

The FTC said the advertised carport or patio is not all-aluminum but has wooden supporting rafters and posts, neither the depicted wall or floor is included, and $77 is not a reduction but the regular price. The complaint added that the items are not unconditionally guaranteed as claimed.

Lobsters, which once were thought to do very little ocean traveling, drift hundreds of miles as tiny spiderlike lobsterlings before settling down to the sea bottom.

A sea breeze blows to the land from the sea.

New Cardinals Will Increase College To 79

(This is the second of two dispatches on the new cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church.)

By DANIEL F. GILMORE

ROME (UPI) — The appointment of eight new "princes" of the Roman Catholic Church by Pope John will bring the number of cardinals to 79, the greatest number in the history of the College of Cardinals.

With a world population of more than half a billion, new archdioceses and entire countries are without cardinal representation even counting the increases the Pope has made.

These include the Philippines, the Netherlands and most of the continent of Africa where the only cardinal representative is Teodosio Clemente De Gouvei, a Portuguese with his see at Lourenco Marques, Mozambique.

In four days of ceremonies Dec. 14-17, the new cardinals, including two Americans, will receive the blessing of the Pope, the scarlet hat and golden ring of their offices and prostrate themselves on the floor of St. Peter's cathedral in an act of humility.

May Need Bull

Pope John may have to issue a special document, called a "Papal Bull," to legalize his unique move. The "Papal Bull" is the most solemn form of a papal letter. It would be required to abrogate the previous bull issues by Pope Sixtus V in 1586 fixing the number of cardinals at 70.

According to legend, the number was fixed to coincide with the number of advisers to Moses.

The pontiff exceeded this number last year when he broke precedent and nominated 23 new cardinals and brought the strength for the first time up to 75.

But in the year that followed, four cardinals died, reducing the college to 70 members.

Sources Doubtful

Church sources said it was not likely that the Pope would formalize his precedent-setting appointments, and perhaps leave the door open to further increases in the future.

Cardinals are appointed for life. They are aides and advisers to the Pope and in a sense they form the "senate" of the Roman Catholic Church.

Only a Pope can create a cardinal and only the College of Cardinals can create a pope.

The word cardinal comes from the Latin word "cardo," meaning "hinge." In the early days of the church, every cathedral was designated a "cardo" and was the see of the bishop. But even some priests assigned to the cathedrals were referred to as cardinals.

The cardinals alone address the Pope as "Brother," all others as "Your Eminence."

Mailman Arrested For Non-Deliveries

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Brooklyn mailman was arrested Wednesday and charged with failure to carry out the swift completion of his appointed rounds.

In fact after 14 years as a mailman, 44-year-old Horace W. Carpenter was not completing his daily deliveries at all, authorities said.

He was charged with throwing 15,000 letters and other pieces of mail into the trunk of his car instead of delivering them. Some bore postmarks a year old, officials said.

Carpenter had an explanation. He said his route was too long and his feet hurt.

Petrified trees have been found 300 miles from the South Pole, indicating that Antarctica once was a fertile continent.

New Cardinals Will Increase College To 79

(This is the second of two dispatches on the new cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church.)

By DANIEL F. GILMORE

ROME (UPI) — The appointment of eight new "princes" of the Roman Catholic Church by Pope John will bring the number of cardinals to 79, the greatest number in the history of the College of Cardinals.

With a world population of more than half a billion, new archdioceses and entire countries are without cardinal representation even counting the increases the Pope has made.

These include the Philippines, the Netherlands and most of the continent of Africa where the only cardinal representative is Teodosio Clemente De Gouvei, a Portuguese with his see at Lourenco Marques, Mozambique.

In four days of ceremonies Dec. 14-17, the new cardinals, including two Americans, will receive the blessing of the Pope, the scarlet hat and golden ring of their offices and prostrate themselves on the floor of St. Peter's cathedral in an act of humility.

May Need Bull

Pope John may have to issue a special document, called a "Papal Bull," to legalize his unique move. The "Papal Bull" is the most solemn form of a papal letter. It would be required to abrogate the previous bull issues by Pope Sixtus V in 1586 fixing the number of cardinals at 70.

According to legend, the number was fixed to coincide with the number of advisers to Moses.

The pontiff exceeded this number last year when he broke precedent and nominated 23 new cardinals and brought the strength for the first time up to 75.

But in the year that followed, four cardinals died, reducing the college to 70 members.

Sources Doubtful

Church sources said it was not likely that the Pope would formalize his precedent-setting appointments, and perhaps leave the door open to further increases in the future.

Cardinals are appointed for life. They are aides and advisers to the Pope and in a sense they form the "senate" of the Roman Catholic Church.

Only a Pope can create a cardinal and only the College of Cardinals can create a pope.

The word cardinal comes from the Latin word "cardo," meaning "hinge." In the early days of the church, every cathedral was designated a "cardo" and was the see of the bishop. But even some priests assigned to the cathedrals were referred to as cardinals.

The cardinals alone address the pope as "Brother," all others as "Your Eminence."

Mailman Arrested For Non-Deliveries

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Brooklyn mailman was arrested Wednesday and charged with failure to carry out the swift completion of his appointed rounds.

In fact after 14 years as a mailman, 44-year-old Horace W. Carpenter was not completing his daily deliveries at all, authorities said.

He was charged with throwing 15,000 letters and other pieces of mail into the trunk of his car instead of delivering them. Some bore postmarks a year old, officials said.

Carpenter had an explanation. He said his route was too long and his feet hurt.

Hirohito Is Only Poet Who Can Claim Guaranteed Audience Of 30,000,000

By DONALD P. KRESS
United Press International

TOKYO (UPI) — There's probably only one poet in the world today who can claim a guaranteed audience of 30,000,000 readers every time he dashes off a few lines.

That poet is a shy, slight, conservatively - dressed man named Hirohito, Emperor of Japan.

Hirohito was introduced as a poet to American magazine readers recently with the publication of one of his pre-war efforts.

For more than three decades, however, Japanese newspaper readers have been poring over his entries in the annual Imperial Poetry Contest. Newspapers with a circulation of more than 30,000,000 invariably print the Emperor's pieces.

Despite his enormous readership, Hirohito, a graying, mustached man of 58, is not a poet at heart. Marine biology is more to his taste, and he spends as much time as he can examining and classifying rare specimens in his laboratories around Japan.

Nevertheless, he often produces a poem that captures a mood perfectly. Here is what he wrote early in 1946, a few months after his scarred, battered nation surrendered unconditionally to end World War II:

Be like pine trees
Which do not change color
Although they bear the weight
Of continuously falling snow.

The following year, as Japan struggled with the gigantic task of reconstruction, he wrote:

The day dawns hopefully
Upon the town of Mito
The sound of the hammer
Is heard clearly.

Because tradition demands it, Hirohito has been writing poems ever since he came of age, sometimes with an ordinary pen, sometimes with brush and ink.

"He writes whenever he's in the mood," said an official of the Imperial household agency. But that isn't too often.

The Emperor's total output for a year is often only one poem—and that one is a mandatory contribution to the Imperial Poetry Contest in January.

The contest is a major event here. Last year, 22,427 contestants submitted poems to the Imperial household on the theme of "windows." Each entry must be 31 syllables long, the highly stylized, carefully polished "tanka" form of Japanese poetry. Each must be written on a delicate sheet of folded rice paper.

This year's subject is "ihkari," or light. Entries closed Nov. 10.

At the annual poetry party, during which the writers of the best dozen or so poems are invited to the palace, the Emperor nervously clears his throat and, in a high-pitched voice, reads his own poem not once, not twice, but five times. The Empress Nagako follows, but she is required to run through her poem only three times.

In his entry on "windows," the Emperor wrote:

'Tis spring at last.
As by the window I stand
Watching the pheasants playing happily.

Mitchell Rules For Yule Parties

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell Wednesday ruled in favor of Christmas parties.

Mitchell said the new labor reform law was not intended to bar employers or unions from staging holiday parties and providing entertainment or gifts for their workers or members.

Officials said this put Mitchell's okay on the practice of giving employes a turkey, ham or other gift at Christmas time.

Mitchell also ruled that the anti-corruption section of the new statute did not prohibit a union leader and company official from exchanging yuletide gifts.

Mitchell likewise gave unions a green light to play Santa Claus to orphans, old-age institutions and poor persons. He said the law's new restrictions on spending union money do not bar charity contributions.

Indian Villagers Acclaim Ike As Reincarnation Of Vishnu

By Rangasawamy Satakopan

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Indian villagers Wednesday acclaimed President Eisenhower as a reincarnation of Vishnu, protector in the Hindu trinity. And perhaps as a yogi like Prime Minister Nehru, who does headstands.

A cross section of views from seven simple country folk showed they all considered the visitor Vishnu reborn.

"Do you think we were fools to travel from 10 to 100 miles to see anyone but Vishnu ka avatar," said Kanthi a 70-year-old woman from Mehrauli village 10 miles south of Delhi. (Like many Hindus, Kanthi has only one name).

Hearing that this avatar—reincarnation—was coming she summoned her daughter and grandchildren from Ramzila village 100 miles away.

Kanthi gave two reasons for considering Eisenhower the avatar of Vishnu.

First, Eisenhower had the might of Vishnu—to destroy the world by a mere wish but like Vishnu never used it and instead kept it as a final trump card against evil.

Secondly, like Vishnu, he was a great benefactor.

"Did he not send us wheat when we needed it and build us dams?" she asked.

Her family clustering around her in a bullock cart nodded assent and her daughter Shanthu added, "Does not this avatar also smile like Vishnu—a divine, radiant smile?"

The 45-year-old Ramchandani from Soni village, 30 miles north of Delhi, said he thought both Eisenhower and Nehru were karma yogis—the highest form in Yoga and dearest to God.

Karma yogis serve God's will through action as compared with those who serve God through mere piety or knowledge or wisdom, Ramchandani said.

Ramchandani could not bring his wife, who is ill, but he made sure to collect some sand from the road over which the Cadillac taking both leaders passed. "I shall apply this on my wife's forehead and she is sure to be cured," he said.

Twenty-year-old Ram Swarup from Gurgaon, 20 miles southwest of Delhi, said he was moved to tears by Eisenhower's speech. "I do not understand English, but I can sense the depth of sincerity in his speech—he spoke from his heart," Ram Swarup said.

In the Hindu trinity are Brahma—the creator — Vishnu — the preserver or protector, and Shiva —the destroyer.

Yoga, or union, as practiced by Indian yogis is a Hindu system of philosophical mediation and asceticism having the aim of combining sublime thought with suspension of physical tensions. Prime minister Nehru is a pandit, meaning the highest of the high-born Hindus although he does not practice any religion; he does daily morning headstands in the yoga belief that a rushing stimulation of blood helps clear the brain for the day's tasks.

Plans Construction

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Eastman Kodak Co. announced plans for construction of a 20-million - pound - a - year polypropylene plastics plant in Longview, Tex. Financial details were not disclosed. Operations are slated to begin in the fourth quarter of 1960.

Home owners in the United States are spending six billion, 600 million dollars for home repairs and improvements.

Gets Subcontract

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Lear Inc. said it has been awarded a $1,250,000 subcontract from Republic Aviation Corp. for control systems for the Republic F-105B fighter-bomber.

Harmonica Virtuoso May Turn To Jazz

By DOC QUIGG
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Larry Adler, the virtuoso who can make a harmonica speak classical music so sweetly that 15 composers have written compositions expressly for him, is moving toward pure jazz — a move which he says should be completed in two more years.

"I don't want to give up the classics," he said. "But I want to get more into jazz than in the past. I'd like to do a mixture in concerts across the country. I like playing in the jazz world, and I've had a lot of experience in it, because I like free improvisation of music.

"Most concert musicians adore jazz. Rachmaninoff and Toscanini liked it. For me, Bach is a much greater challenge than 'How High the Moon' without study. In jazz you play just what you feel at the time."

Not Yet

After listening to his just-issued record album, "Larry Adler," a high fidelity stereophonic issue on the Audio Fidelity label, this correspondent was ready to label Adler a true jazzman.

"Not yet," he said. "Give me another two years. Why not now? Because I've still got the inhibitions. I can feel them while I'm playing. But I'm closer to the jazz world than ever before."

All right. Let him think what he thinks. Adler always has been an outspoken man. He's writing his autobiography — every last word himself, and no ghosts — and he can write.

And Why Not?

The book will be titled "From Hand to Mouth." Someone suggested it should be called "And Why Not?" because of an incident involving Fiorello H. La Guardia which occurred in the days when the Little Flower was on the radio every Sunday reviewing in his excitable way the problems attendant to the mayor's office in New York.

Adler and Paul Draper were scheduling a performance in City Center and wanted some publicity. They finally got La Guardia, a music lover, to mention it on the air.

The mayor said: "And now I want to tell you that next Friday, at our City Center, there will be a performance by Paul Draper and Larry Adler, a tap dancer and a harmonica player. . ."

There was a pause. Then La Guardia screamed: "— and why-y-y Not!"

Mitchell Rules For Yule Parties

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell Wednesday ruled in favor of Christmas parties.

Mitchell said the new labor reform law was not intended to bar employers or unions from staging holiday parties and providing entertainment or gifts for their workers or members.

Officials said this put Mitchell's okay on the practice of giving employes a turkey, ham or other gift at Christmas time.

Mitchell also ruled that the anti-corruption section of the new statute did not prohibit a union leader and company official from exchanging yuletide gifts.

Mitchell likewise gave unions a green light to play Santa Claus to orphans, old-age institutions and poor persons. He said the law's new restrictions on spending union money do not bar charity contributions.

Indian Villagers Acclaim Ike As Reincarnation Of Vishnu

By Rangasawamy Satakopan

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Indian villagers Wednesday acclaimed President Eisenhower as a reincarnation of Vishnu, protector in the Hindu trinity. And perhaps as a yogi like Prime Minister Nehru, who does headstands.

A cross section of views from seven simple country folk showed they all considered the visitor Vishnu reborn.

"Do you think we were fools to travel from 10 to 100 miles to see anyone but Vishnu ka avatar," said Kanthi a 70-year-old woman from Mehrauli village 10 miles south of Delhi. (Like many Hindus, Kanthi has only one name).

Hearing that this avatar—reincarnation—was coming she summoned her daughter and grandchildren from Ramzila village 100 miles away.

Kanthi gave two reasons for considering Eisenhower the avatar of Vishnu.

First, Eisenhower had the might of Vishnu—to destroy the world by a mere wish but like Vishnu never used it and instead kept it as a final trump card against evil.

Secondly, like Vishnu, he was a great benefactor.

"Did he not send us wheat when we needed it and build us dams?" she asked.

Her family clustering around her in a bullock cart nodded assent and her daughter Shanthu added. "Does not this avatar also smile like Vishnu—a divine, radiant smile?"

The 45-year-old Ramchandani from Soni village, 30 miles north of Delhi, said he thought both Eisenhower and Nehru were karma yogis—the highest form in Yoga and dearest to God.

Karma yogis serve God's will through action as compared with those who serve God through mere piety or knowledge or wisdom, Ramchandani said.

Ramchandani could not bring his wife, who is ill, but he made sure to collect some sand from the road over which the Cadillac taking both leaders passed. "I shall apply this on my wife's forehead and she is sure to be cured," he said.

Twenty-year-old Ram Swarup from Gurgaon, 20 miles southwest of Delhi, said he was moved to tears by Eisenhower's speech. "I do not understand English, but I can sense the depth of sincerity in his speech—he spoke from his heart," Ram Swarup said.

In the Hindu trinity are Brahma—the creator — Vishnu — the preserver or protector, and Shiva —the destroyer.

Yoga, or union, as practiced by Indian yogis is a Hindu system of philosophical mediation and asceticism having the aim of combining sublime thought with suspension of physical tensions. Prime minister Nehru is a pandit, meaning the highest of the high-born Hindus although he does not practice any religion; he does daily morning headstands in the yoga belief that a rushing stimulation of blood helps clear the brain for the day's tasks.

Hands tell the story of your life, so give them the daily attention they need!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Personal Hand Out

Can you imagine having to wash your hands over 50 times a day? Many busy mothers do.

Nurses working in a hospital nursery wash their hands 90 to 100 times a day. That means a complete soaping and rinsing every five minutes during an eight hour working day. They must wash their hands after feeding, changing, or lifting each baby, or after touching a non-sterile object such as a telephone, chair, or doorknob.

Cleanliness, always desirable, is absolutely essential in the care of babies. Despite many dousings, a woman can manage to keep her hands soft and well-groomed. It just takes proper hand-washing technique. Also, the nails should be kept short for cleanliness as well as safety.

A good cosmetic soap containing hexachlorophene, the well known disinfectant which builds an antiseptic film on the skin, will not cause excessive drying when used. To prevent dryness, the hands should be rinsed thoroughly until every trace of soap is removed. Don't forget the bar of soap — it should be rinsed after each use so it will be perfectly clean for the next time.

Make it a habit to keep a jar of cream or a bottle of hand lotion near the bathroom basin and kitchen sink. If your hands are particularly dry, you can soften them up by rubbing a rich cream and wearing white cotton gloves to bed for a few nights.

Develop the habit, too, of gently pushing back the cuticle each time hands are dried. This will take only a second or two and can prevent hangnails from ever becoming a problem.

Nails should be cleaned daily with the pointed end of an orange stick to prevent irritation to the soft skin under the nails. So many women complain of eczema of the hands. It is often due to the growth of molds or fungi in the skin around the edges of the nails. They grow most rapidly when the skin is moist.

Stubborn stains beneath the nails can be removed by covering the point of an orange stick with cotton dipped in cuticle oil. Pumice may be used to rub away callouses and rough spots.

Shape your nails with an emery board, which is less likely to damage cuticle than the metal files. Use the fine side of the emery to smooth edges of nail after initial filing with the coarse grain for preventing rough edges.

Beautiful hands are an important part of glamour. Even if you think you don't have time, you should take time during the day to pamper them.

Post Office Seeks Bids For Hauling

The Post Office Department will accept bids until December 31 on a contract to haul all classes of mail between Cumberland and Franklin via the South Branch Valley.

The contract is currently held by Leo J. Keplinger, Wiley Ford, and the service is being re-advertised to run from January 17 to June 30, 1963.

Information and forms may be obtained at any of the post offices along the route or from the Transportation Planning and Procurement Officer, Regional Office, Washington, 50, D. C.

There are two routes leaving Cumberland going to Franklin and returning each day except Sunday when there is only one round trip, from here.

The six-day schedule calls for the truck leaving Cumberland at 4:10 a. m. and arriving at Franklin at 8 a. m. after going through Fort Ashby, Romney, Moorefield and Petersburg.

The return trip leaves Franklin at 3 p. m. and arrives in Cumberland at 7:05 p. m.

The second trip daily leaves here at 2 p. m. and arrives in Franklin at 5:25 p. m. and returns at 6:30 p. m. to get here at 9:40 p. m.

The Sunday and holiday schedule calls for the truck leaving here at 7:45 a. m. and arriving at Franklin at 11:30 a. m. The return trip is made at 12:15 p. m. with arrival time here at 3:30 p. m.

Assistant Postmaster Thomas B. Cumiskey Jr. said the trucks must have no less than 600 cubic feet of space. All classes of mail are handled.

To Design Beacon

Fires in the United States take a toll of more than 10 thousand lives each year.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What has happened to American entertaining? I refer to people who invite you over for a social evening and then put you in the cellar—pardon me—the recreation room.

Why do people have a living room or a dining room if they don't want anyone to go near them? I think it's insulting the way a host or hostess meets guests at the door and proceeds to hustle them right past the good furniture down to the coal hole.

You get to sit on the old makeshift couch or chair with the oil-burner and water-heater in full view. The floor usually has some discarded, ratty-looking rug or homemade linoleum.

Why do reasonably intelligent people do this, Ann? Don't they realize guests want to be entertained in homes not basements? —SEVEN LEAGUES UNDER

DEAR SEVEN: Congratulations for having the courage to say what many others have thought privately.

Now and then you'll find a recreation room which is as nice as the upstairs but chances are better than even that the good furniture is on the ground floor.

As to why people herd guests down to the cellar, I think it's more than an effort to save the rugs and upholstery. Usually the recreation room was fixed up by the guy who owns the house and he's so dingbusted proud that he put in a false pasteboard ceiling to cover the waterpipes that he wants the whole world to know.

DEAR ANN: A neighbor has just brought over your article about the behavior of single girls in apartments.

I managed an apartment house for 23 years. When I learned certain girls had late late callers I DID something about it. According to YOU, Ann Landers, you can't change a girl's morals. Well, maybe not, but I did change a few addresses.

When a young man stays in a girl's apartment past midnight I assure you they aren't playing Chinese checkers.

They called me an old biddy, and worse, but I didn't stand for any canoodlin' on my premises and everyone in Dubuque knew MY building was respectable. —O. R.

DEAR O. R.: Did your friend bring the entire article, or just part of it?

I made it plain in that column that the owner could ask a tenant to move if she didn't approve of her way of life, but she has no right to tell anyone how to live.

DEAR ANN: What do you think of a woman who lives within a block of the grocery store and calls her son up every night at dinner time to ask him to go pick up dog food or some other darned fool thing?

This has been going on for three years and I'm ready to blow my top. It seems that just as we are ready to sit down to supper, the phone rings and it's my mother-in-law with a small request. My husband always goes at once. He says it's his duty.

When he gets home the supper is over-cooked, the kids are ornery from waiting, and I'm mad. What's the solution? — POOR SECOND

DEAR SECOND: Your husband owes his mother respect, but he also has a duty to you and his children.

Tell him to offer to do all Mom's grocery shopping Saturdays because he cannot do it during the week.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teenage Smoking," enclosing with your request 10c in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope).

W.Va. Turnpike Traffic Survey To Check Tolls

Connecticut Firm Awarded Contract

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Turnpike Commission Thursday announced the award of a $13,000 contract to a Connecticut firm to make a traffic survey to determine if toll rates should be increased on the 88-mile highway.

The work will be handled by Wilbur, Smith and Associates, New Haven, Conn. It is to report results to the commission next month.

Within the past year, the commission has twice turned down requests by consulting engineers and trustees for turnpike bondholders to raise tolls.

A spokesman emphasized that the commission will not be bound by findings of the survey, regardless of the study recommendation.

Also discussed at a meeting Thursday was the advisability of opening three additional rest areas for drivers using the Charleston - to - Princeton highway. There are three service areas along the route.

The commission also voted to ask Gov. Cecil H. Underwood to sponsor two bills to provide more revenue for the highway. One would allocate all gasoline taxes collected on the turnpike to the commission. The other would provide that salaries of State Police used on the highway be paid by the Department of Public Safety, instead of the commission as at present.

Preston County Man Files For Senate

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A Preston County man, Dallas Wolfe, Rowlesburg, filed Thursday for Republican nomination to the State Senate from the 15th District.

Meanwhile, Gray Silver Jr., of Martinsburg, also officially filed Thursday for Democratic nomination as Judge of West Virginia's 23rd Judicial Circuit, which includes Berkeley, Jefferson and Morgan Counties.

Republican D. H. Rodgers, also of Martinsburg, now holds down the post.

Five County Health Officers Meet

Five county health officers of Western Maryland met recently in Hagerstown to discuss matters pertaining to the administration of their offices.

Dr. Ton van Strien, Allegany County health officer, said the sessions are held every two months. At the meeting the officials discussed operating costs and staff salary increases.

Dr. van Strien said that when the State Department of Health sets new salary scales the funds which the various counties must supply on a matching basis are not always forthcoming. This creates a problem in maintaining the number of personnel in the counties affected. In some cases the salary increases result in the necessity of eliminating one or two positions, Dr. van Strien said, or else no new personnel are added to the staff.

Also attending the meeting were Dr. Arthur Jones, Garrett County health officer; Dr. W. Ross Cameron, Washington County health officer; Dr. G. S. Shocket, Carroll County health officer, and Dr. Forbes H. Burgess, Frederick County health officer.

City Residents Asked To Check Street Holes

A "postcards for potholes" program has been started by the City Street Department in a campaign to have citizens alert the department on the location of the holes the area foremen may have overlooked.

John J. Long, commissioner of streets and public property, said residents should send a postcard to the department, naming the locations of potholes in streets or alleys.

The department is also welcoming cards stating the street or alley in need of general repair.

He said all cards should be addressed to the City Street Department, Street Warehouse, Cumberland. Residents of the various districts of the city should direct their cards to the foreman in charge of that area.

These are as follows: North End—Clarence R. Dyche; West Side, Robert W. Clark; East Side, William C. Simpson, and South End, Raymond R. Valentine.

Long pointed out the foremen are doing a good job in their districts, but sometimes they inadvertently miss some holes, and ruts that need repairs.

Long emphasized that if any hazard should arise, such as open ditches, broken guard rails or broken tree limbs, the resident should call the Street Warehouse. This is PA 2-2000 from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. and PA 2-4320 the rest of the day and night.

The commissioner said all postcards and complaints will be processed as soon as possible.

Long Featured In Glass Magazine

Cumberland's commissioner of streets and public property is featured in the current issue of People, the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's monthly magazine for its employes.

The article on John J. Long is another in a series appearing in the magazine on PPG workers who are active in politics in communities where the companies have plants.

The three-page story with a number of pictures recounts his nine years of public office as police, finance and now street commissioner.

One picture shows the Mayor and Council at a Monday morning session, another is taken in the Constitution Park, another in front of the Police Headquarters, and others at his offices in the City Hall, also at Works 7 where he is director of safety and plant protection, in his home, and one with Thomas B. Finan, Maryland's secretary of state.

Safety Area Erected By Contractor

Shortly before a deadline imposed by the City Police Department, the contractor building the commercial structure at the intersection of Baltimore and North Centre streets began to erect a boardwalk and install other safety measures.

Philmore F. Fleming, commissioner of police and fire, a week ago had advised the Leonard Pevar Company, of Pottstown and Unionville, Pa., to install a temporary walk even with the sidewalk.

He also informed the contractor that a protective canopy must be erected around the two sides of the building, so that pedestrians would be protected from falling objects during the construction.

Up to yesterday morning, no steps had been taken, and as a result Commissioner Fleming requested the City Engineering Department to revoke the building permit until the precautions were taken.

In regard to the walk, Commissioner Fleming pointed that only Wednesday two fell at the corner.

The commissioner said the action to seek revocation of the permit was taken yesterday only after the contractor had been told repeatedly to remedy the situation.

Fleming said the request to suspend the building permit was held up after the contractor began to take the safety steps.

The Pevar company is erecting on the site of old St. Paul's Lutheran Church at 100 Baltimore Street a 50-by-100-foot, two-sotry brick and concrete block building.

For a time after work started in October, the local building trades unions picketed the job due to use of nonunion labor.

The cost of the building, according to the application for a permit filed with the City Engineering Department, will be $90,000.

Five County Health Officers Meet

Five county health officers of Western Maryland met recently in Hagerstown to discuss matters pertaining to the administration of their offices.

Dr. Ton van Strien, Allegany County health officer, said the sessions are held every two months. At the meeting the officials discussed operating costs and staff salary increases.

Dr. van Strien said that when the State Department of Health sets new salary scales the funds which the various counties must supply on a matching basis are not always forthcoming. This creates a problem in maintaining the number of personnel in the counties affected. In some cases the salary increases result in the necessity of eliminating one or two positions, Dr. van Strien said, or else no new personnel are added to the staff.

Also attending the meeting were Dr. Arthur Jones, Garrett County health officer; Dr. W. Ross Cameron, Washington County health officer; Dr. G. S. Shocket, Carroll County health officer, and Dr. Forbes H. Burgess, Frederick County health officer.

Company Issued Building Permit

The Pittsburgh Auto Equipment Company, 631 North Mechanic Street, has been issued a permit to build an addition to the present building by Charles R. Nuzum, city engineer.

A building on the site of the new addition is now being razed. The new structure to be used for storage and business will front 44 feet on Mechanic Street and 85 feet along an alley.

The 40-by-60-foot concrete block building will have a flat, built-up roof, according to the permit, and will cost about $6,000.

Asks Certification

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI)—Boeing Airplane Co. has asked the Federal Aviation Agency to certify a 400 plus horsepower gas turbine engine the company plans to test next spring in light helicopters and executive aircraft of other companies.

St. Patrick's To Begin Nurse Program At School

A nurse-health program will be inaugurated at St. Patrick's Parochial School after the Christmas holidays, according to Right Rev. Msgr. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor, who said the program is the first of its kind to be started in any school in Allegany County, as well as in the Catholic diocese of Baltimore.

The program, he explained, will provide a full-time health program at the school through the volunteer services of retired and inactive registered nurses.

Msgr. Kilkenny said the plan was evolved following a number of conferences with Sister Lenore, principal of St. Patrick's School, who informed him health problems among students had increased to such an extent that some organized effort must be made to obtain help in combatting the problems.

The pastor said he and Sister Lenore decided to ask all members of the parish who are registered nurses to meet with them and find out if there was a practical solution. Twelve nurses attended the initial meeting during which it was decided there were enough to have a registered nurse on duty during each school day.

Selected as chairman of the nurse-health program was Miss Margaret Morrissey, a retired public health nurse who is familiar with the workings of the school health program of the Allegany County Health Department. Mrs. Isabella Laughlin, also a retired public health nurse, was named vice chairman, and Mrs. Ann Morin, secretary.

Once organized, the nucleus of nurses agreed that if each would volunteer a half-day of duty at the school no hardship would result to any one individual.

Nurses enrolled in the program, besides the officers, are JoAnn Brown, Mrs. Alice Nelson, JoAnn Neubiser, Mrs. Catherine Rhoe, Mrs. Madonna Stitcher, Mrs. Nellie Taylor, Mrs. Patrick Tierney, Phyllis McWhirter and Mrs. Evelyn Williams.

The program will go into effect on Monday, January 4, with Miss Morrissey as the first nurse on duty. She, and the other nurses in turn, will take care of any sickness or such problem which may arise, as well as continue a definite program of school-health work.

The initial major project will be an eye inspection for students of the second, fourth, sixth and eighth grades. Any defects will be reported to the public health nurse from the Allegany County Health Department during her regular visits at the school.

Sister Lenore said that although the school participates in the county program, the visits are spaced so that the students do not obtain the medical protection that is desirable.

Under the volunteer nurses program, she continued, children who need various kinds of medical attention can be "weeded out" and brought to the attention of the public health nurse, thereby relieving her of routine work.

Miss Morrissey also pointed out that the program will be advantageous in the discovery of early symptoms of various defects and diseases that could lead to patient-damage in later years.

The chairman of the parish organization stressed that the nurses group will "feel their way" during the start of the program, adding that the plan will be expanded by asking more nurses to participate.

Graduate nurses who wish to volunteer their services should contact Mrs. Morin either at her home, 513 Regina Avenue, or at PA 4-3887.

A lay organization composed of members of the school's Mother's Club has organized to assist the nurses in the program, Sister Lenore said.

County Backs State Plan

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners have approved the plan for naming an executive secretary for the State Association of County Commissioners.

In order to pay the salary of the official, each county is being assessed an annual sum based on the population of the county. Allegany County's share will be $483.

The share of Garrett County will be $123 and Washington County will pay $493. Frederick County will pay $448. Largest sum in the program will be the $1,844 for Baltimore County and Prince Georges at $1,735 and Montgomery County at $1,691 follow.

The local commissioners say they understand that the executive secretary would be an official at the University of Maryland. The university would pay half the salary under a proposal under which he would work part time for both the educational institution and the association.

Underwood Voices Hope For Coal Areas

LOGAN, W. Va. (UPI) — Gov. Cecil H. Underwood believes that there is still hope the economically depressed southern West Virginia coal fields will show recovery.

Underwood, speaking here Tuesday, said he did not concur "with those who say southern West Virginia has nothing to offer to attract new industries."

"We have an abundance of labor and natural resources and this areas is readily accessible to major markets."

There is no reason, Underwood said, to believe the areas riddled with unemployment, are "without promise, without a brighter future."

Adjutant General Attacks Editorial

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—State Adj. Gen. William E. Blake Wednesday heatedly described as "a deliberate and calculated misrepresentation" a Charleston newspaper's assertion that West Virginia does not need any more National Guard armories.

He accused the Charleston Gazette of "complete irresponsibility" in an editorial Wednesday that said the state should use the matching money it puts into armories for other purposes.

The Gazette said the National Guard "has served its purpose" and "the federal government should retire from this activity and transfer the money saved to more enduring and worthwhile projects."

Gov. Cecil H. Underwood had said in dedicating a new armory at Moundsville Sunday that nine armories were needed in the state.

The first ski train in America arrived at Warner, N. H., from Boston thirty years ago.

More People Visit National Forest

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Monongahela National Forest collected 22 per cent more money during the 1958-59 fiscal year than the previous year, it was announced Wednesday.

Forest supervisor E. M. Olliver said collections totaled $448,697. One-fourth of the income is distributed to the counties for schools and roads in proportion to the acreage of the national forest in each county.

Olliver also noted that the unauthorized cutting of Christmas trees in the forest is prohibited. He said the forest is not in the Christmas tree business. He said it only produces sawtimber and only allows removal of cull trees not suitable for lumber.

PUTTING UP A TREE—A crane lifts the national Christmas tree into place on the White House grounds in Washington. Grown in Presque Isle, Maine, the tree will be lighted by the President on Dec. 23rd.

Post Office Reports Santa Mail Volume Up

The Christmas mailing season has an unusual aspect this year, according to Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon, who said that although there has been no appreciable pickup in regular Yuletide mail the local facility so far has received more letters to Santa Claus than in any single year in the past 20 years.

Conlon said no postal employe has been able to explain the unusually heavy mail to Santa.

Such mail, he explained, is processed and channeled to charitable organizations for possible action. There are quite a few, however, than cannot be deciphered, with the result that some children may be disappointed.

The mail to Santa has a new "wrinkle" also, Conlon stated, adding that some children are pasting pictures of the items they want on their letters, instead of writing out the names of the articles.

To Enlarge Plant

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (UPI)—Phillips Petroleum Co. said its subsidiary, Philips Chemical Co. will enlarge its synthetic plant at Borger, Tex. allowing it to produce 20,000 long tons of CIS-X4, its new synthetic rubber, annually.

University Plans 93rd. Anniversary

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia University said Wednesday it is making elaborate plans for observing its 93rd birthday in February.

President Elvis J. Stahr already has been booked for four speaking engagements before alumni chapters, the first Jan. 22 at Parkersburg. He will appear Feb. 11 before the New York group. Other engagements are Feb. 12 at Martinsburg and Feb. 22 at Williamson.

The university's birthday is Feb. 7. It was created by the Legislature in 1867 as the Agricultural College of West Virginia. The name was changed a year later to West Virginia.

Oh Well, The Kids Won't Mind, Anyway

Some schools there are, spotted around America, that permit the corporal punishment of pupils. One of the places is Stamford, Conn., that well-known habitat of the genus commuter of New York City orientation.

Just what event or events impelled the Stamford Board of Education to authorize corporal punishment several years ago isn't disclosed by the news story. The regulation simply permits use of the paddle in "extreme cases."

The board now confesses it doesn't know what kind of paddles to buy or where to buy them. Of all the instruments used over the centuries for punishing pupils in schools, none is better calculated to warm the britches with less effort, and less risk of physical damage to the pupil, than the paddle. Relatively light impact is distributed effectively over a relatively large surface.

Years ago the lumberyards in many a college town carried in stock, for the fraternity initiation season, adequate supplies of paddles made up ahead of time right in the woodworking shop. Initiates had to go and buy their own paddles with which to be paddled.

The design was one of classic simplicity: nothing fancy, just a light narrow board maybe three inches wide, shaved down to a handle at one end.

Doubtless publication of news of Stamford's quest will bring paddle advice from all over the country—including advice not to. But shouldn't those school authorities expect to find plenty of data as to paddle design?

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Captain 'Josh' Goldberg

It is difficult for me to think of the Navy without Chaplain Joshua L. Goldberg, Chief Chaplain of the Third Naval District. He seemed to be a permanent fixture. He has been in this one post longer than chaplains serve anywhere and he has done so much beyond the call of duty that he is beloved by Catholic and Protestant although he is a rabbi.

Captain Goldberg is a curiosity. He came to the United States during World War I from Russia as an immigrant. He immediately enlisted in the Army and went to war. It was in the Army, during the war, that he learned his English, a language in which he preaches and teaches. After World War I, he continued his rabbinical studies although his knowledge of Hebrew and rabbinics was probably as great as most of his professors. Came World War II and Rabbi Goldberg enlisted for service in the Navy where he has remained ever since.

In the Navy, he is known as "Josh." Everybody knows "Josh" Goldberg because he has served everybody, doing the impossible, creating an esprit de corps which transcended religious differences. It cannot be said and should not be said that there is no difference of view and no bigotry in the Chaplain Services but as one who has seen the growth of this significant body of men, what can be said is that nowhere else in the world is it possible for Catholic, Protestant and Jewish clergymen to work together in such harmony. In fact, if a boy in our armed forces requires the comfort of religion according to the traditions of his Church and his ancestors, he can receive the benefits from a clergyman of any faith and it will be done honestly without an attempt to proselytize.

Chaplain Goldberg played an enormous role in the development of this noble attitude and for his services he has gained respect if no other recognition.

His recent activities have been largely devoted to developing the same attitude and the same service in the military services of all the NATO countries and two conferences have already been held, one in Europe and one in the United States, in which clergymen whose denominations have been antagonistic since the 16th century met together and spent weeks together in mutual consultation and association. In this work no one compromises his own beliefs and principles. In fact, the slogan of the American Chaplain Services is "Cooperation without Compromise."

The time has come, according to the law, for Captain Goldberg to retire. So he must leave the Navy at the end of this year. Being a man of enormous energy, he will continue to serve as an official of the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion, which is the seminary for training Reformed rabbis in this country. But it seems to me that it is a pity that the government of the United States should have an arbitrary retirement system so that a man at the height of his career, able, brilliant, imaginative, leaves it and goes elsewhere. Fortunately, Chaplain Goldberg was quickly co-opted for other work and at a salary which is larger than the Navy pays, but many are not so fortunate and we continue to lose good men because we do not have the sense to keep them.

There are men, like Chaplain Goldberg, who stay on as long as the law will permit because they can afford to underwrite their public service or because they are willing to make sacrifices to serve their country. Then, at the peak of maturity they must retire somewhere to think about what they might have done more had they been permitted to continue.

If any man served this country beyond the call of duty, if any man served in a position all the hours of every day, knowing no time off and no private life, that man is Chaplain Joshua Goldberg, who once was called the religious diplomat of our time. And this can be said of him that every admiral who ever served over Chaplain Goldberg, that every man who was his Boss is turning out to honor him on his retirement. It is a rare quality that wins for a sky-pilot the friendship and respect of hard-boiled Navy admirals.

"Josh" deserves the love he has gained.

Ike And Nehru Greatly Dissimilar But Have Some Goals In Common

By Drew Pearson

NEW DELHI—Four days are allocated to President Eisenhower here—long enough for a very fundamental discussion of world affairs with his host, Jawaharlal Nehru. No two men could be more dissimilar, yet they have certain basic goals in common.

Nehru never held a golf club or a lethal weapon in his hand; Ike is practiced with both. Nehru believes that armies accomplish nothing, that a nation's foreign policy doesn't work if based on force. Eisenhower has spent most of his life in the Army though his mother was a practicing member of Jehovah's Witnesses and a devout pacifist. Ike now commands not only a modern military machine but also the largest stockpile of nuclear weapons in the world.

Nehru used his policy of passive resistance so successfully against the British that, eventually, they evacuated India. Eisenhower believes passive resistance is for the birds.

Nehru hates dictators of all kinds, whether Communist or Fascist. Eisenhower hates Communist dictators only, has supported such Fascist dictators as Trujillo of the Dominican Republic, and is paying calls on two others on this global trip—Ayub in Pakistan and Franco in Spain.

Nehru is a lifelong student of Karl Marx, believes in middle-of-the-road socialism, and has given India's farmers and "untouchables" their greatest break in a thousand years. Ike is a free enterprise man, surrounds himself with Wall Street bankers, steel, whisky, and Coca-Cola executives.

Compassion For Mankind

Nehru has been imprisoned seven times for a total of 13 years; Ike has spent most of his life in the comparative comfort of U. S. Army forts. In prison Nehru learned to think and read, and he developed a great compassion for mankind. "I am not prepared to say that the many years I spent in jail have been the sweetest of my life," wrote Nehru . . . "Solitary confinement is the killing of the spirit by degree, the slow vivisection of the soul . . . I had been amazed to find large numbers of fine types in prison. One of the most saddening features is the large number of boys, most of them bright-looking lads who, if given the chance, might easily make good."

Ike never had this sort of conditioning. He goes to a golf course to think things out; his favorite reading material is Westerns. Nehru relaxes his mind by spinning—something he learned from Mahatma Gandhi. Ike relaxes over a bridge table.

From prison Nehru once wrote his daughter on her birthday, "My presents cannot be very material or solid. They can only be of the mind and spirit, such as the good fairy might bestow upon you—things that even the high walls of a prison cannot stop."

Things In Common

Yet these two men—one the mystic, one the hail-fellow-well-met— have three things in common: 1) Worry over Red China; 2) Belief that Russia is changing for the better and Nikita Khrushchev represents that change; 3) A sincere desire for world peace.

How to translate those common views into concrete action will be difficult, but one way would be to strengthen the Indian economy with more aid. Prime Minister Nehru indicated to me that he expected a battle of rival enonomies, not a battle of rival armies, with China.

"We are not receiving any military aid from the United States," Nehru told me in a tone that meant he didn't want any. "We are buying some. Our greatest need is to help put across our five-year plan."

Towever, will this satisfy Nehru's critics in Parliament who demand action against China now, and vigorous action? Will it satisfy the critical members of his own Congress Party who, during two days of secret debate, demanded action amounting to war, or will it satisfy the Kansangh right-wingers who shout "Nehru, shake off your softness and drive out the Chinese invaders"?

The inescapable fact is that both China and India practiced the same tactics of passive resisitance against the European imperialists to drive them out of their territories. It worked. Now China—a new, tough, modern military power—has decided to use force against its onetime partner in passive resistance. This bitterness between the two countries with the world's greatest populations, 600,000,000 Chinese and 400,000,000 Indians, may bring Eisenhower and Nehru together despite their diametrically different personalities.

Minority Report: Kennedy Grows Stronger

By Joseph Alsop

NEW YORK

A great sea change has transformed the situation in the Democratic Party in the last four months. The fact was not fully acknowledged by the participants in the grandiose and richly entertaining Democratic rally that has just taken place here; but the fact sticks out a mile, nonetheless.

The tide that has altered everything is simply the rising tide of Republican voter-support. The ground swell began last summer. By autumn, after the President's European tour and the Khrushchev visit, the former Democratic expectation of certain victory had been thoroughly undermined.

The President's latest tour may be only "a performance and not a policy," as a guaranteed-impartial observer has remarked. But this new show can be counted on to keep the Republican tide running. Unless Nikita S. Khrushchev disappoints all Republican expectations, the summit meeting in the spring will also help the President's party. Then there is the grisly prospect that the first summit in April or May will lead on to a second summit in October, on the very eve of the election.

It does not matter much that the so-called "peace issue" is probably as phony as a three-dollar bill, as most expert international analysts believe. From the standpoint of domestic politics, what matters is the simple fact that this peace issue has magically revived the Republican Party's drooping fortunes.

So much was admitted by every practical politician who gathered here for the monster dinner for Mrs. Roosevelt on Monday. Yet very few of those present wanted to admit the real meaning of the Republican revival, mainly because they all had their own axes to grind and were too busy to think about anything else. Nonetheless, the meaning is obvious.

Unless there is a new Republican slump, the Democrats are bound to decide in the end that they can no longer afford to pick a candidate just to suit their own tastes. The voters' presumed tastes are bound to be the main consideration. In short, when the party convention finally gathers at Los Angeles, the question generally asked will not be: "Is he a liberal?" It will not be: "Is he a Catholic?" Most certainly it will not be: "Will he make a good President?" It will be, quite bluntly, "Can he possibly win?"

As of now (with strongest emphasis on that "now") this clearly benefits Sen. John F. Kennedy more than anyone else. To be sure, this is a minority view as yet. In fact it is currently fashionable to say that Kennedy has been "finished" by the birth control controversy. In reality, his stand has been handsomely endorsed by Mrs. Roosevelt. It has been quite outdone by the much stricter stand taken by President Eisenhower. This talk of Kennedy being "finished" is nonsense, although Kennedy's Catholicism will no doubt be a handicap, on balance, at Los Angeles.

Despite this handicap, Kennedy looks like being the chief beneficiary of the change in the Democratic situation and for a simple reason. As of now, he seems to have much stronger voter-support than any other Democratic contender. A recent careful poll taken in Ohio, for instance, showed Kennedy beating Vice President Richard M. Nixon in that state, though only by a hair. And it showed Kennedy leading New York's Gov. Nelson D. Rockefeller with 58 per cent of the Ohioans polled.

The same Ohio poll also showed Nixon defeating Adlai Stevenson by a 60-40 margin, and trouncing Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri by an even larger majority. Rockefeller also led Stevenson and Symington, though more narrowly. The poll in question is automatically suspect, because it was taken to gauge Kennedy's chances in an Ohio Democratic primary. But this reporter believes the Ohio results have not been tinkered with, if only because they accord very closely with the findings of the inquiring Dr. Gallup and other pollsters. All who have taken soundings have found Kennedy with substantially more strength than any other Democrat.

In any case, the validity of individual current polling results has no bearing on the central point. The Ohio poll merely symbolizes this point. The point is that Kennedy's rivals will have to gain much ground against him in the months ahead, unless they want the Massachusetts Senator to reach Los Angeles as an odds-on favorite. Maybe they will gain while Kennedy drops back. Maybe Kennedy's strategy of proving his voter-support in the more important pre-convention primaries will end in humiliating failure.

But unless all the many opinion tests are even phonier than the peace issue, the new urgency of the Democratic need for a vote-getting candidate is going to help Kennedy. As of now (and again, remember that "now") the pressure of this need clearly endangers all the complex schemes for securing convention deadlocks, opening the way for compromise candidates, and the like.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

LAST MONTHS—The coming series of events in the field of foreign policy is occupying much attention in Washington. Officials and commentators are becoming increasingly aware of the fact that the climatic events will occur during President Eisenhower's last few months in office.

Much study is being given to the matter of showing Russia that any agreements arrived at will be observed by the succeeding administration, regardless of whether it is Republican or Democratic. However, there are private admissions that Eisenhower, acting as an outgoing President, will be at some disadvantage at the bargaining table.

This is what lay behind Senator Thomas J. Dodd's suggestion to the President that he take former President Harry S. Truman or some other outstanding Democratic leader along with him on his European-Asian good-will tour.

Dodd's proposal, had it been accepted, would have been the forerunner of a revival of bipartisanship in foreign policy negotiations. Administration insiders concede that the Dodd proposal was good in theory, but failed to take into account the clashing personalities of Eisenhower and Truman.

White House rejection of the idea, however, should not be interpreted as discarding the need for a non-political approach to the summit discussions. Both White House and State Department officials are casting about for a formula which will place both American political factions squarely behind any agreements reached at the Summit conference table.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Christmas comes at me like a runaway locomotive. In late November it is a speck on the horizon. Overnight, it is upon me, mowing me down and scattering bits and pieces along the right of way.

Some say that one must be a child to appreciate Christmas. Okay, I'm a child. My daughters do not believe in Santa. I do. On many a Christmas Eve, I've remained awake fretfully, waiting to catch a glimpse of him. I haven't made it yet, but there is still time. I may sleep all day on Christmas Eve and sit up all night.

Christmas in our family has always had its separate traditions. Usually, my mother-in-law Maggy sat in the kitchen on Christmas Eve, pulling loaves of bread apart, chopping up celery, onions, and sprinkling sage and thyme over the mess. She adjusted her five-and-ten-cent store spectacles before plucking the pin feathers from the turkey.

Elinor stirred the fresh cranberries — very little sugar — and poured a fresh eggnog for all hands. I trimmed the tree, and vice versa. I hung each colored ornament with care, and draped the boughs with tinsel, unless I had more than two eggnogs, in which case I stood six feet from the tree and threw it.

The women always made a big sweat out of Christmas. They carried on in the kitchen after mass as though this were the price women had to pay for being women. The little girls were always rushing into the kitchen to demand to know which doll belonged to whom, and how come hers goes to sleep but mine only wets?

Sometimes my mother and father came for dinner. Momma always offered to help, but the word from the kitchen was that everything was under control, although my wife and Maggy looked like pilots in a space ship out of orbit.

The creamed onions, the mashed potatoes, the pumpkin pie, the string beans, the long white slices of turkey, the thick steaming gravy, the turkey dressing (always better the second day than the first) were delicious. Maggy, a plump rascal, always sat perspiring, and lifted her highball with the murmured words: "Thanks be to God."

This Christmas will be different. Gayle and I will go to Ginny's house in Lincroft. We shall exchange gifts and kisses and sit to the same dinner made in the same way.

The focus of attention will be different. This time it will be on twin granddaughters, 16 months old, and Jim Bishop Frechette, who will be four months of age. His father is getting him a set of electric trains, which will give you an idea of who really wants to play.

My father is giving me a player piano, something I would not buy for myself. When I was a little boy, I studied piano and my father was my teacher. Murder.

I know what I'm giving my daughters for Christmas: a complete set of my best regards. If I change my mind between now and the day, it is only because I'm weakminded.

The day after Christmas, Gayle and I will fly to Miami for a week. We'll be going with the Ray Stones of Teaneck and the Jack Paars of NBC. Jack and I have a habit of staying with Bob Neal at the Key Biscayne. There, the Mackle Brothers have a boat and we badger them into lending it to us. This year I wish they'd lend us the one thing we never get—fish.

So that the trip won't be a total loss, I'm renting Gayle out as a baby sitter. She can do this while Paar and Tom Ferris and I go to the track for the annual dry cleaning.

At night, we shall see some of the big shows at Miami Beach. If we can't afford that, we can stop in and see some of the hotel lobbies, some of which look like the second act curtain in the "Burning of Rome."

I'm a late sleeper. I feel that the morning sun was made for grass. However, Mr. Stone and Mr. Paar have bad consciences and arise at dawn. They will take over the pitch-and-putt course with ol' massa Tom Ferris, the friend of poor millionaires. They will beat those inoffensive white pellets all over the inoffensive seascape.

Me, I'll be where mature men ought to be at 10 a. m., with visions of sugar plums dancing in my head. . .

Baby's Irregularity Generally Isn't Serious

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Mothers are less inclined to worry about constipation in their children than did their grandparents. Regularity in bowel movements varies in different infants; one may have several daily, whereas another has one every two days. Each baby has his own rhythm.

The change in attitude toward the subject stems from a more rational approach to the problem. Constipation exists when several days elapse with no movement at all or the stools are so hard there is real difficulty or pain in moving the bowel. In addition, the condition may be expected at the onset of a physical disorder, a disease like a cold, or an emotional upset.

Constipation is not in itself a disease nor is it to be blamed for an upset stomach, fatigue, or headache. Modern mothers are more inclined to treat it with natural means rather than laxatives. Constipation in the breast-fed is encountered rarely since human milk contains a laxative ingredient. Cow's milk may have a tendency along this line, if it is well digested. The fat and casein in the fluid make the stool firm.

In some instances the tot needs more carbohydrates. Occasionally the inclusion of a few teaspoons of malt sugar or the use of prune juice or pureed prunes or of applesauce will prove effective. Bending a baby's knees and pushing them gently upward over the abdomen stimulates a sluggish bowel.

Fruits and vegetables do wonders for older children. A large serving of a whole grain cereal does the same, as well as plenty of fresh air and out of door activity. A sick child may need more help, such as a small lukewarm enema, to promote elimination at this time.

Avoid rigid toilet training of toddlers. It is a major accomplishment to move the bowel at a specific time and place. A small child cannot be rushed; the process of elimination is a coordinated effort and the nerve control of this function rarely is complete before age 2 or 2½ years. If the child is not ready, force brings resentment and, in time, constipation.

(Dr. Van Dellen will send a leaflet on constipation in children if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request).

CRAVING FOR CHOCOLATE

Mrs. J. O. writes: A 17-year-old boy has craved chocolate since he was small. Does this mean he will grow up to crave alcohol?

REPLY

No. Alcohol, opium, and marijuana addicts crave these products because they want to escape from reality. This is not the case with those who crave certain foods, such as chocolate, bananas, or starch.

MOON-FACED

W. T. writes: What would cause excessively puffy cheeks in a healthy 42-year-old woman who is not overweight?

REPLY

This may be normal if other members of the family have the square jaws that produce a box-like appearance of the face. I assume this woman does not have an infection of the salivary glands such as mumps, and that she is not taking cortisone, which rounds out the face in moon-shaped contour. Since you ask about a woman, I assume a cud of chewing tobacco is not rounding out the cheeks.

ROBBING THE CRADLE

Mrs. M. writes: My husband can't keep his eyes off the neighborhood teen-age girls. We live in a small town and I'm afraid their mothers will notice what a fool he is making of himself. Can he have reached the dangerous age at 33?

REPLY

No. There is no harm in looking, but the neighbors might talk if he gives the wolf call.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

A little girl, attending her first church wedding, exclaimed to her mother, "That's a funny bride! She must have changed her mind at the last moment." "Whatever makes you say a thing like that?" wondered the mother. The little girl explained, "Well, she went up the aisle with one man, and here she comes back with another!"

Helen Hayes and Katharine Cornell, two of the great American actresses of all titme, have a little mutual admiration society. The story goes that Miss Cornell attended an opening night of a Hayes starring vehicle and sent this message backstage by an usher: "Katharine Cornell firmly believes Helen Hayes is the best actress in New York."

Miss Hayes read it with delight, added two commas, and sent it back to Miss Cornell: "Katharine Cornell, firmly believes Helen Hayes, is the best actress in New York."

Television and Radio

Human Dynamo

Tony Owen is married to Donna Reed and produces her show (ABC-TV Thursday 8-8:30) and he may yet grow up to be the next Mike Todd. At least in volubility. He looks like a sports announcer, has a voice like a gravel machine, and a four-speed drive. He talks into a telephone with the speed of an IBM machine (Send it to Jack Benny's writers; I don't need it) but with the cherubic expression of a child still incredulous that the darned thing works. The talk goes like this (to be read very fast):

"I started this world wrong—with a gold spoon in my mouth. Then I worked steadily down to the bottom. I was broke in the depression and finally got a job on the "Chicago Herald and Examiner" chasing ambulances for thirty-five dollars a week. Then I did a night life-column with the Hearst paper, the 'Daily News' and it was a helluva job — but then I got fired.

"I felt terrible being fired it was a great newspaper 'The Daily News' wonderful. Then I heard the Detroit Lions were for sale so I bought the team. The war came along and I was in the horse cavalry until I got hurt. As long as I was broke and had to start out all over again. I figured I'd go to California. Let's see that was in '42. Then I got lucky and got a job at Famous Artists for $50 a week.

"I met my wife (Donna Reed, to refresh your memory) while I was working at the agency and said to myself someday I'm going to marry that girl I didn't see her for a year after the first time I met her but she was the only person in the world called me Mr. Owen. I knew that little bitty farm girl just had to marry me I asked her and she said No, Mr. Owen well I asked her again we've been married fifteen years next year.'

Let's everyone pause and catch their breath.

I don't hold much with tape-recorded journalism but sometimes it's the best character study of all. Mr. Owen's life story which pours out of his mouth with a combination of naivete and self-confidence is such a one. It ought to be buried in a cornerstone as a study of our civilization.

"I formed my own company—Todan Productions — and made ten pictures in Africa. Pictures like 'Duel in the Jungle' and 'Beyond Mombassa.' I'm no genius. I just wanted to make commercial films. The last one died the death of a dog at the box office. So I came back and started working in television and I really liked it.

"I got this idea about doing a show where the format would be concerned with the secretary of the Secretary of State. I told my wife she'd be great for it. 'You're always complaining you don't get roles with scope.' So I hired writers and we spent sixteen weeks on the series and none of the scripts smelled right. Finally I thought the best thing would be to make Donna the wife of a pediatrician and leave it to the movies to give her other kinds of roles."

And that in short is how the Donna Reed show came into being. "She isn't acting, you know. She hardly has to learn lines. It's just a repetition of what she goes through at home — playing mother. We've got tough competition this year — Betty Hutton and Bat Masterson — but I know we'll survive for the same reason

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—There's a "double header" surprise for Gina Lollobrigida when she arrives here in three weeks to report to MGM for "Go Naked in the World." She will be told then by Aaron Rosenberg, her producer, that he has signed both Anthony Franciosa and Ernie Borgnine to play opposite the beautiful Italian actress.

Franciosa is one of the most sought-after actors in town since his performance in "Career." I haven't seen "Story On Page One" yet, but from a disinterested source, I am told that he again is just great. Well, Tony certainly fought enough to get what he wanted.

Borgnine plays a featured role in "Go Naked," and since this goes into production the first of the year, it looks unlikely that he'll marry Katy Jurado by that time because he won't be finished with "Pary Or Die" much before Christmas.

The role of the Englishman in "The World of Zusie Wong" will be played by Michael Wilding. William Holden plays the disillusioned hero who has such an influence on the life of Suzie.

Apparently everything is happening at once to Wilding. He was also offered a big television show in New York but chose Ray Stark's offer, which gives him a trip to Hong Kong with all expenses paid and a nice fat salary. Mike is a good actor and well liked. Seems likely France Nuyen will get the "Suzie" plum.

The new book by Francoise Sagan "Do You Like Brahms?" has been bought by Anatole Litvak, who will produce it in Europe next spring for United Artists. Already published in Sagan's native Paris, the book will run as a one-shot in the March issue of Cosmopolitan before coming out in book form in the U.S.A. As with all her stories, this one has plenty of sex.

Her two previous novels "Bonjour Tristesse" and "A Certain Smile" were along the same pattern. "Do You Like Brahms?" deals with a woman about 35 who is torn between two lovers—one a man 10 years younger, the other 10 years older—a triangle of ages, I suppose.

Shelley Winters is a very sick girl, running a high fever, on the verge of pneumonia, and bedded at home with nurses around the clock. She had refused to go to bed and give in to her illness

Opening lead: King of ♠

A reluctance to put all his eggs in one basket led declarer to success in today's slam contract.

A word is in order concerning the auction. North was faced with a difficult rebid. He feared that a jump raise to four clubs would consume valuable bidding space and yet a simple raise to three would not be forcing. So he compromised by giving a jump preference in diamonds and, after his partner's three no trump call, he leaped to five clubs. Possession of key controls in all suits prompted South to go on to six clubs.

West opened the king of spades declarer won with the ace, observing that it would not be safe to draw three rounds of trumps, for the loss of a diamond trick would then spell the defeat of the contract. Declarer saw that if trumps broke favorably he might win the hand without relying solely on a successful diamond finesse. His plan of action was based on the following count: four clubs, four diamonds, two aces, and two spade ruffs in the South hand. In order to retain as many entries as possible in each hand, he led a low diamond from dummy at trick two and finessed the jack, losing to the queen. West attempted to cash the queen of spades, and declarer ruffed in his own hand. He entered dummy with the ace of diamonds and ruffed another spade. Trumps were then drawn in three rounds, and South cashed the remaining three diamond tricks.

On this hand, West's lot was not a happy one. His choice of a spade for the opening lead is above criticism. When he was in at trick two any return but the spade would have defeated the contract, for declarer would be lacking in entries to ruff two spades and then return to dummy to draw trumps. The double dummy artists may quibble with the attempt to cash the spade, but it does seem that it was the natural thing to do.

Human Dynamo

Tony Owen is married to Donna Reed and produces her show (ABC-TV Thursday 8-8:30) and he may yet grow up to be the next Mike Todd. At least in volubility. He looks like a sports announcer, has a voice like a gravel machine, and a four-speed drive. He talks into a telephone with the speed of an IBM machine (Send it to Jack Benny's writers; I don't need it) but with the cherubic expression of a child still incredulous that the darned thing works. The talk goes like this (to be read very fast):

"I started this world wrong—with a gold spoon in my mouth. Then I worked steadily down to the bottom. I was broke in the depression and finally got a job on the "Chicago Herald and Examiner" chasing ambulances for thirty-five dollars a week. Then I did a night life-column with the Hearst paper, the 'Daily News' and it was a helluva job — but then I got fired.

"I felt terrible being fired it was a great newspaper 'The Daily News' wonderful. Then I heard the Detroit Lions were for sale so I bought the team. The war came along and I was in the horse cavalry until I got hurt. As long as I was broke and had to start out all over again. I figured I'd go to California. Let's see that was in '42. Then I got lucky and got a job at Famous Artists for $50 a week.

"I met my wife (Donna Reed, to refresh your memory) while I was working at the agency and said to myself someday I'm going to marry that girl I didn't see her for a year after the first time I met her but she was the only person in the world called me Mr. Owen. I knew that little bitty farm girl just had to marry me I asked her and she said No, Mr. Owen well I asked her again we've been married fifteen years next year.'

Let's everyone pause and catch their breath.

I don't hold much with tape-recorded journalism but sometimes it's the best character study of all. Mr. Owen's life story which pours out of his mouth with a combination of naivete and self-confidence is such a one. It ought to be buried in a cornerstone as a study of our civilization.

"I formed my own company—Todan Productions — and made ten pictures in Africa. Pictures like 'Duel in the Jungle' and 'Beyond Mombassa.' I'm no genius. I just wanted to make commercial films. The last one died the death of a dog at the box office. So I came back and started working in television and I really liked it.

"I got this idea about doing a show where the format would be concerned with the secretary of the Secretary of State. I told my wife she'd be great for it. 'You're always complaining you don't get roles with scope.' So I hired writers and we spent sixteen weeks on the series and none of the scripts smelled right. Finally I thought the best thing would be to make Donna the wife of a pediatrician and leave it to the movies to give her other kinds of roles."

And that in short is how the Donna Reed show came into being. "She isn't acting, you know. She hardly has to learn lines. It's just a repetition of what she goes through at home — playing mother. We've got tough competition this year — Betty Hutton and Bat Masterson — but I know we'll survive for the same reason

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—There's a "double header" surprise for Gina Lollobrigida when she arrives here in three weeks to report to MGM for "Go Naked in the World." She will be told then by Aaron Rosenberg, her producer, that he has signed both Anthony Franciosa and Ernie Borgnine to play opposite the beautiful Italian actress.

Franciosa is one of the most sought-after actors in town since his performance in "Career." I haven't seen "Story On Page One" yet, but from a disinterested source, I am told that he again is just great. Well, Tony certainly fought enough to get what he wanted.

Borgnine plays a featured role in "Go Naked," and since this goes into production the first of the year, it looks unlikely that he'll marry Katy Jurado by that time because he won't be finished with "Pary Or Die" much before Christmas.

The role of the Englishman in "The World of Zusie Wong" will be played by Michael Wilding. William Holden plays the disillusioned hero who has such an influence on the life of Suzie.

Apparently everything is happening at once to Wilding. He was also offered a big television show in New York but chose Ray Stark's offer, which gives him a trip to Hong Kong with all expenses paid and a nice fat salary. Mike is a good actor and well liked. Seems likely France Nuyen will get the "Suzie" plum.

The new book by Francoise Sagan "Do You Like Brahms?" has been bought by Anatole Litvak, who will produce it in Europe next spring for United Artists. Already published in Sagan's native Paris, the book will run as a one-shot in the March issue of Cosmopolitan before coming out in book form in the U.S.A. As with all her stories, this one has plenty of sex.

Her two previous novels "Bonjour Tristesse" and "A Certain Smile" were along the same pattern. "Do You Like Brahms?" deals with a woman about 35 who is torn between two lovers—one a man 10 years younger, the other 10 years older—a triangle of ages, I suppose.

Shelley Winters is a very sick girl, running a high fever, on the verge of pneumonia, and bedded at home with nurses around the clock. She had refused to go to bed and give in to her illness

TOUGHEST SOLDIERS

THE TUSSLE. Enemy bayonets hold little fear for unarmed instructor SP-4 William McCarthy, left, who struggles to take rifle and bayonet (Russian for realism) away from opponent, Cpl. Max Luna. . .

. . .then, with a sudden body twist, McCarthy hurtles Luna seven feet through the air onto his back. He will then impale the enemy with his own weapon.

The Army is quietly training guerrilla forces. In the event of war, they would be sent by submarine, parachute or on foot deep behind the lines to arm, organize and — if necessary — lead native partisans in a campaign of sabotage.

There now are three guerrilla outfits, known as Special Forces Groups — the 1st on Okinawa, the 10th in Germany, and the 77th at Fort Bragg, N. C., where these pictures were taken. They probably number fewer than 2,500 officers and men.

The men are trained to operate exclusively by night. They are qualified parachutists, frogmen and rangers. Any one of them can live off the land whether it be jungle, mountain, desert or arctic waste.

They are experts with bows and arrows and authorities on every type of small arm used in quantity anywhere in the world at any time since World War I.

Most of the guerrillas receive their initial living-off-the-land training in the Pisgah National Forest near Asheville, N. C. They learn to eat snakes, trap and skin small game, and to butcher animals from goats to bears. Before a man is considered qualified as the least trained of the guerrilla team, he must have undergone 33 months of rigorous training.

The end product is a smart, tough and ruthless fighter.

SFC Joseph Lisi practices with bow and arrow, an old but useful weapon. There are times when guerrillas must operate silently, either to gather food or knock over sentries.

Trussing up a patient for vertical descent is part of training at Fort Bragg. Proper lashing method is demonstrated by Lt. John McDonald atop the "repel tower."

Descending the "repel tower," Lt. John McDonald and SFC Thomas Conway help their stretcher-borne comrade Cecil Nickeson to the ground.

Stretcher and patient go over side for vertical descent as comrades on ground observe exercise. In mountain country, this maneuver could lower wounded man 150 feet straight down in an emergency.

Can serves as cooking pot as Glen McNeil and Dan Scotten get meal ready while training to live off the land.

Veal Chops Play Host To Vegetables

The majority of veal dishes take kindly to a special sauce, a nippy spice or an array of different vegetable flavors. Because of the mild flavor of veal, it is often recommended that a flavor accent act as an escort for this meat.

Since veal is actually young beef and doesn't contain much fat this type of meat should be cooked by a moist heat method of meat cookery.

Veal Chop—Vegetable Special

- 6 rib veal chops, cut ½ to ¾ inch thick
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 3 tablespoons lard or drippings
- 3 tablespoons Parmesan cheese
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups thinly sliced potatoes
- 1 cup sliced onion
- ½ cup sliced carrots
- 2 bouillon cubes
- ¾ cup water

Dredge chops in flour and brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Combine cheese, parsley, salt and pepper. Sprinkle half the mixture on chops. Add potatoes, onion, carrots and remaining cheese mixture. Dissolve bouillon cubes in water and add to meat and vegetables. Cover tightly and simmer 1 hour or until meat is tender and vegetables are done: Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

Cabaret Sauce

- ¾ cup butter, divided
- ¼ pound mushrooms, sliced
- 3 medium green peppers, cut in ½-inch squares
- ½ cups dry burgundy or chianti wine
- *2 cups brown sauce or demiglaze
- 3 pimientoes
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley

Melt 6 tablespoons of the butter. Add mushrooms and pepper; cook slowly until tender. Add wine simmer until reduced to approximately one-fourth. Add remaining ingredients and salt and pepper if necessary. Heat to serving temperature. Add remaining 6 tablespoons butter; heat until butter is melted.

Frozen Foods Star At 'Open House'

The Yule season . . . more than any other . . . abounds with "open house" invitations when friends make the rounds to share in the holiday spirit. The hostess is called upon to set the pace for the merrymaking . . . and provide the refreshments. As your turn comes closer, why not plan something novel . . . a "supper of miracles"? With frozen condensed soups and frozen individual dessert pies, you can turn simple fare into elegant proportions with a touch of imagination. This is what you do.

In years past, what ordinarily would have been a time consuming task now becomes a minute chore as you take 5-ounce mince and pumpkin pies from the freezer and bake them about 30 minutes. Cool. Before serving, place a tiny Christmas decoration on the golden-crusted mince pies . . . a pair of tinkly bells, a colored ball, etc. Group the pies around a brightly glowing candle . . . on a gold or silver tray . . . for a smart conversation piece and delicious dessert.

As each frost-nipped guest finds his way to the buffet table, greet him with a bowl of piping hot chowder. Made from 2 frozen condensed soups, bright yellow corn and a touch of green parsley, this is a chowder which finds itself at home in your best tureen. Here is the recipe:

Yuletide Chowder

- 1 can (10¼ ounces) frozen condensed cream of potato soup
- 1 can (10 ounces) frozen condensed cream of shrimp soup
- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup water
- ½ cup cooked whole kernel corn
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- 4 drops Hot Sauce

In saucepan, combine all ingredients; heat. Stir now and then. Makes 4 or 5 generous servings.

Let Olive Varieties Add Zest To Cooking

Try a bit of experimental cookery with olives if you are a lover of this distinctive fruit. Certain olives enhance the flavor of the simplest main dishes, just as they perk up a relish tray.

Mild ripe olives are excellent in highly seasoned dishes. They add elusive flavor as well as texture to many food combinations. The zestier green olives are excellent for bringing out taste in blander foods.

Luckily, you needn't limit yourself to merely two or three types of olives in cooking. They now have the intriguing anchovy stuffed, onion stuffed, Kosher dill, and even salty black Greek olives, with which you can glamorize everyday dishes.

For example, here is a recipe for Mexican Beef and Noodles in which the new Kosher dill olives add piquancy.

Lamb Stew, World Wide Dinner Menu

This lamb stew is one that can be shared by culinary experts all over the world. It highlights no particular exotic vegetable or seasoning that would indicate the recipe originated in a certain locale.

Reba Staggs, a well known home economist, wanted as many readers as possible to have the directions for this stew recipe. It's a wholesome type, meal-in-one dish which features, in addition to the boneless lamb cubes, tomato sauce, sliced onion, curry powder and frozen lima beans.

Certainly, a recipe of this caliber will be a helpful addition when you start your menu planning for those brisk winter meals.

Cosmopolitan Lamb Stew

- 2 pounds boneless lamb, cut in 1-inch pieces
- 2 tablespoons lard
- 1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
- 1 medium onion, thinly sliced
- 1 cup water
- ¾ teaspoon curry powder
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen lima beans

Brown lamb in lard. Pour off drippings. Add remaining ingredients, except lima beans. Cover tightly and simmer 1 hour. Add lima beans and continue to simmer 30 minutes, or until lima beans are done and meat is tender. Yield: 6 servings.

Easy Refreshments For The Holidays

Usually we think of eggnog as the beverage to serve at Christmas time, but there are many other milk punches that go along with festive entertaining that are fun to try. Holiday Punch is a milk-base drink that will have them coming back for more.

It's always more convenient to have a drink that can be served to the children as well as the grownups, and Holiday Punch is the answer. The peppermint stick ice cream not only adds to the creamy goodness but will increase the nutritive value so necessary for good health and growing bodies.

Holiday Punch

- 1 pint peppermint ice cream
- 1 quart milk
- 1 quart gingerale
- Few drops peppermint extract
- Red food coloring

Put semi-soft ice cream in punch bowl. Add milk, gingerale, flavoring and a few drops of coloring. Stir until ice cream floats in small pieces throughout. Makes 8-10 servings.

Christmas Butter Cookies

- 1 cup butter
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 3 eggs, well beaten
- 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- ½ teaspoon salt

Cream butter; add sugar and vanilla and continue creaming until light. Beat eggs and blend into butter mixture. Blend well. Sift flour, measure; sift with salt and add to dough, using more flour if necessary to make stiff dough. Chill 20 to 30 minutes. Roll out to ¼ inch thickness. Cut with cooky cutter and bake on lightly greased cooky sheet in hot oven, 400°, about 10 minutes. Cookies may be sprinkled with colored sugar before baking. Remove from pans to wire racks to cool. Makes 5-6 dozen cookies.

An estimated 112 million new tooth cavities occur each year among Americans above the age of six.

There are 20 times as many murders committed in the United States as there are in Great Britain.

In 1950, for the first time, more that one-half of United States citizens were women.

Tomato Aspic Christmas Wreath

- 3 cups canned tomato juice
- ½ teaspoon celery salt
- ¾ teaspoon onion salt
- ½ teaspoon basil
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons unflavored gelatin
- ¾ cup cold canned tomato juice
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- Mayonnaise

Combine 3 cups tomato juice, celery salt, onion salt, basil and pepper. Cook over medium heat 10 minutes. Meanwhile, sprinkle gelatin over ¾ cup cold tomato juice and lemon juice. Add tomato-spice mixture to gelatin mixture. Stir until gelatin is dissolved. Turn into 8-inch ring mold. Chill until firm. Unmold. Garnish with watercress, if desired. Serve with mayonnaise.

In most parts of the world, the word "locust" or its equivalent designates insects that migrate in swarms. The same species may be called a grasshopper in small numbers. In the United States, outbreaks of grasshoppers are most common in the northern Great Plains, where there are more than 100 varieties.

Veal Chops Play Host To Vegetables

The majority of veal dishes take kindly to a special sauce, a nippy spice or an array of different vegetable flavors. Because of the mild flavor of veal, it is often recommended that a flavor accent act as an escort for this meat.

Since veal is actually young beef and doesn't contain much fat this type of meat should be cooked by a moist heat method of meat cookery.

Veal Chop—Vegetable Special

6 rib veal chops, cut ½ to ¾ inch thick
3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
3 tablespoons Parmesan cheese
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups thinly sliced potatoes
1 cup sliced onion
½ cup sliced carrots
2 bouillon cubes
¾ cup water

Dredge chops in flour and brown in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Combine cheese, parsley, salt and pepper. Sprinkle half the mixture on chops. Add potatoes, onion, carrots and remaining cheese mixture. Dissolve bouillon cubes in water and add to meat and vegetables. Cover tightly and simmer 1 hour or until meat is tender and vegetables are done: Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

Cabaret Sauce

¾ cup butter, divided
¼ pound mushrooms, sliced
3 medium green peppers, cut in ½-inch squares
½ cups dry burgundy or chianti wine
*2 cups brown sauce or demiglaze
3 pimientoes
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley

Melt 6 tablespoons of the butter. Add mushrooms and pepper; cook slowly until tender. Add wine simmer until reduced to approximately one-fourth. Add remaining ingredients and salt and pepper if necessary. Heat to serving temperature. Add remaining 6 tablespoons butter; heat until butter is melted.

Frozen Foods Star At 'Open House'

The Yule season . . . more than any other . . . abounds with "open house" invitations when friends make the rounds to share in the holiday spirit. The hostess is called upon to set the pace for the merrymaking . . . and provide the refreshments. As your turn comes closer, why not plan something novel . . . a "supper of miracles"? With frozen condensed soups and frozen individual dessert pies, you can turn simple fare into elegant proportions with a touch of imagination. This is what you do.

In years past, what ordinarily would have been a time consuming task now becomes a minute chore as you take 5-ounce mince and pumpkin pies from the freezer and bake them about 30 minutes. Cool. Before serving, place a tiny Christmas decoration on the golden-crusted mince pies . . . a pair of tinkly bells, a colored ball, etc. Group the pies around a brightly glowing candle . . . on a gold or silver tray . . . for a smart conversation piece and delicious dessert.

As each frost-nipped guest finds his way to the buffet table, greet him with a bowl of piping hot chowder. Made from 2 frozen condensed soups, bright yellow corn and a touch of green parsley, this is a chowder which finds itself at home in your best tureen. Here is the recipe:

Yuletide Chowder

1 can (10¼ ounces) frozen condensed cream of potato soup
1 can (10 ounces) frozen condensed cream of shrimp soup
1 cup milk
1 cup water
½ cup cooked whole kernel corn
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
4 drops Hot Sauce

In saucepan, combine all ingredients; heat. Stir now and then. Makes 4 or 5 generous servings.

Let Olive Varieties Add Zest To Cooking

Try a bit of experimental cookery with olives if you are a lover of this distinctive fruit. Certain olives enhance the flavor of the simplest main dishes, just as they perk up a relish tray.

Mild ripe olives are excellent in highly seasoned dishes. They add elusive flavor as well as texture to many food combinations. The zestier green olives are excellent for bringing out taste in blander foods.

Luckily, you needn't limit yourself to merely two or three types of olives in cooking. They now have the intriguing anchovy stuffed, onion stuffed, Kosher dill, and even salty black Greek olives, with which you can glamorize everyday dishes.

For example, here is a recipe for Mexican Beef and Noodles in which the new Kosher dill olives add piquancy.

Lamb Stew, World Wide Dinner Menu

This lamb stew is one that can be shared by culinary experts all over the world. It highlights no particular exotic vegetable or seasoning that would indicate the recipe originated in a certain locale.

Reba Staggs, a well known home economist, wanted as many readers as possible to have the directions for this stew recipe. It's a wholesome type, meal-in-one dish which features, in addition to the boneless lamb cubes, tomato sauce, sliced onion, curry powder and frozen lima beans.

Certainly, a recipe of this caliber will be a helpful addition when you start your menu planning for those brisk winter meals.

Cosmopolitan Lamb Stew

2 pounds boneless lamb, cut in 1-inch pieces
2 tablespoons lard
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
1 medium onion, thinly sliced
1 cup water
¾ teaspoon curry powder
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 package (10 ounces) frozen lima beans

Brown lamb in lard. Pour off drippings. Add remaining ingredients, except lima beans. Cover tightly and simmer 1 hour. Add lima beans and continue to simmer 30 minutes, or until lima beans are done and meat is tender. Yield: 6 servings.

Easy Refreshments For The Holidays

Usually we think of eggnog as the beverage to serve at Christmas time, but there are many other milk punches that go along with festive entertaining that are fun to try. Holiday Punch is a milk-base drink that will have them coming back for more.

It's always more convenient to have a drink that can be served to the children as well as the grownups, and Holiday Punch is the answer. The peppermint stick ice cream not only adds to the creamy goodness but will increase the nutritive value so necessary for good health and growing bodies.

Holiday Punch

1 pint peppermint ice cream
1 quart milk
1 quart gingerale
Few drops peppermint extract

Put semi-soft ice cream in punch bowl. Add milk, gingerale, flavoring and a few drops of coloring. Stir until ice cream floats in small pieces throughout. Makes 8-10 servings.

Christmas Butter Cookies

1 cup butter
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 eggs, well beaten
4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt

Cream butter; add sugar and vanilla and continue creaming until light. Beat eggs and blend into butter mixture. Blend well. Sift flour, measure; sift with salt and add to dough, using more flour if necessary to make stiff dough. Chill 20 to 30 minutes. Roll out to ¼ inch thickness. Cut with cooky cutter and bake on lightly greased cooky sheet in hot oven, 400°, about 10 minutes. Cookies may be sprinkled with colored sugar before baking. Remove from pans to wire racks to cool. Makes 5-6 dozen cookies.

An estimated 112 million new tooth cavities occur each year among Americans above the age of six.

There are 20 times as many murders committed in the United States as there are in Great Britain.

In 1950, for the first time, more that one-half of United States citizens were women.

Tomato Aspic Christmas Wreath

3 cups canned tomato juice
½ teaspoon celery salt
¾ teaspoon onion salt
½ teaspoon basil
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons unflavored gelatin
¾ cup cold canned tomato juice
¼ cup lemon juice
Mayonnaise

Combine 3 cups tomato juice, celery salt, onion salt, basil and pepper. Cook over medium heat 10 minutes. Meanwhile, sprinkle gelatin over ¾ cup cold tomato juice and lemon juice. Add tomato-spice mixture to gelatin mixture. Stir until gelatin is dissolved. Turn into 8-inch ring mold. Chill until firm. Unmold. Garnish with watercress, if desired. Serve with mayonnaise.

½ cup boiling water
½ cup cold loganberry nectar
¼ cup sugar
1 cooled baked 8 or 9-inch pie shell

Place mix in large deep mixing bowl. Add boiling water and mix thoroughly. Add loganberry nectar. Then beat vigorously with a rotary beater, or at highest speed of electric mixer, until mixture is very foamy — takes about 1 minute. Add sugar and beat until filling stands in peaks — takes 1 to 3 minutes. Pour into pie shell and chill until set, about 2 hours. Garnish with pastry cut-outs. Serve with whipped cream, if desired.

Turkey Chow Mein

(This dish may be made in advance and reheated)

Cut into cubs ½ lb. lean pork. Melt 3 tblsp. butter in skillet, add 4 tblsp. minced onion. Cook 2 minutes. Brown meat in butter. Stir in until blended, 2½ tblsp. flour. Stir in slowly 2½ cups stock made from turkey carcass.

Add:
3 cups diced left-over turkey
¾ cup diced celery or bean sprouts
¾ cup mushrooms (canned or fresh)

Simmer these ingredients gently for 15 minutes.

Add:
2 tblsp. soy sauce
¾ cup blanched slivered almonds, and seasoning if needed.

Serve chow mein on large deep platter. Surround with mounds of crushed potato chips.

Turkey Orientale

¾ cup sliced onions
1½ cups sliced celery
1 (No. 211) can or 1½ cups pineapple tidbits
1 (4-ounce) can mushrooms
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 chicken bouillon cube
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ cup soy sauce
1 medium-sized green pepper, cut into strips
1 cup cooked turkey or chicken, chopped
8 sandwich bun halves, toasted
2 tablespoons slivered almonds, toasted
2 tablespoons coconut, toasted

Combine in a large saucepan: onion, celery, pineapple (undrained), liquid from mushrooms, salt, pepper, and brown sugar. Cover and bring to a boil. Remove lid. Dissolve bouillon cube in hot liquid. Dissolve cornstarch in soy sauce and stir into vegetable mixture. Simmer until vegetables are tender. Add green pepper, mushrooms and chicken to vegetable mixture. Cook until chicken is heated through, or about 5 minutes longer. Spoon about ½ cup vegetable mixture over each toasted bun half. Sprinkle toasted slivered almonds and coconut over each serving.

Yield: 8 servings.

Santa's Snack

Since Santa is such a busy man on Christmas eve, a snack left "just for him" is sure to please — not a very big one for he hasn't long to tarry — cookies and milk would be just right to eat while he goes busily about his work. Chocolate Drops are a perfect choice — they contain flakes of rolled oats that give a crunchy nut-like flavor, so tasty when combined with melted chocolate and sour cream. Decorate each cooky drop with frosting and festive trimmings and arrange on a plate to await Santa's arrival.

Chocolate Drops

Makes 4 dozen cookies

1 cup butter or margarine, soft
1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
2 cups sifted enriched flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ cup cultured sour cream
3 squares (3 oz.) semi-sweet baking chocolate, melted
2 cups rolled oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
Chocolate frosting
Chocolate shot or silver candy dragees

Heat oven to moderate (350°F.). Beat together butter and sugar until creamy. Add vanilla and eggs; beat well. Sift together flour, salt and baking powder. Add to creamed mixture with sour cream and chocolate. Beat well. Stir in oats. Drop from a teaspoon onto lightly greased cooky sheets. Bake in preheated ove (350°F.) about 12 minutes. Cool. Frost with chocolate or seven minute frosting; sprinkle with chocolate shot or silver dragees.

Materials

Empty coffee can or cottage cheese container, colored construction paper, plastic foam ball (3-in. dia.) Red crepe paper.

An idea for gift-wrapping a jar of cookies or candies for someone special:

1. Cover an empty coffee can or cottage cheese container with aluminum foil.
2. Fit a red construction paper cone over container.
3. Form two long, narrow cones of construction paper and tape to top of larger cone to form arms. Hands cut from construction paper are glued inside cone arms.
4. Decorate figure with foil belt and crushed foil cuffs.
5. A foam ball is the head. Decorate with face features of construction paper and a cotton beard.
6. Hat is a cone of red crepe paper turned up to form a brim and bent down at the point. Feet are cut from black construction paper and glued to the underside of the container.

Belgian Holiday Bread

BELGIAN CARMIQUE

1 package yeast, compressed or dry
1 cup water (lukewarm for compressed yeast, warm for dry)
1 cup milk
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground cardamom
⅓ cup butter or margarine
7 cups sifted enriched flour (about)
1 cup seedless raisins
2 eggs
1 egg, beaten
1 tablespoon water
Confectioners' sugar icing, if desired

Soften yeast in water. Scald milk. Add sugar, salt, cardamom and butter or margarine. Cool to lukewarm. Add 2 cups flour and beat well. Add softened yeast, raisins and 2 eggs. Add enough more flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth and knead until smooth and satiny. Place in greased bowl, cover and let rise in warm place until doubled (about 1½ hours). When light, punch down. Divide dough into 2 equal portions. Let rest 10 minutes. Shape each portion into round loaf. Place in greased 9-inch round pans. Let rise until doubled (about 1 hour). Mix egg and water. Brush lightly over tops of loaves. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 40 to 45 minutes. Cool. Frost with confectioners' sugar icing if desired. Makes 2 round loaves.

Sweet Bundles

(Sweet Rolls Wrapped in Foil)

1. Wrap individual sweet rolls in foil, making neat packages.
2. Place foil packages on baking sheet; bake 15 minutes at 400°F.
3. Decorate each foil package with a piece of pine or holly and red ribbon.
4. Serve these surprise packages to your guests.

Turkey Chow Mein

(This dish may be made in advance and reheated)

Cut into cubs ½ lb. lean pork. Melt 3 tblsp. butter in skillet, add 4 tblsp. minced onion. Cook 2 minutes. Brown meat in butter. Stir in until blended, 2½ tblsp. flour. Stir in slowly 2½ cups stock made from turkey carcass.

Add:

3 cups diced left-over turkey
¾ cup diced celery or bean sprouts
¾ cup mushrooms (canned or fresh)

Simmer these ingredients gently for 15 minutes.

Add:

2 tblsp. soy sauce
¾ cup blanched slivered almonds, and seasoning if needed.

Serve chow mein on large deep platter. Surround with mounds of crushed potato chips.

Turkey Orientale

¾ cup sliced onions
1½ cups sliced celery
1 (No. 211) can or 1½ cups pineapple tidbits
1 (4-ounce) can mushrooms
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 chicken bouillon cube
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ cup soy sauce
1 medium-sized green pepper, cut into strips
1 cup cooked turkey or chicken, chopped
8 sandwich bun halves, toasted
2 tablespoons slivered almonds, toasted
2 tablespoons coconut, toasted

Combine in a large saucepan: onion, celery, pineapple (undrained), liquid from mushrooms, salt, pepper, and brown sugar. Cover and bring to a boil. Remove lid. Dissolve bouillon cube in hot liquid. Dissolve cornstarch in soy sauce and stir into vegetable mixture. Simmer until vegetables are tender. Add green pepper, mushrooms and chicken to vegetable mixture. Cook until chicken is heated through, or about 5 minutes longer. Spoon about ½ cup vegetable mixture over each toasted bun half. Sprinkle toasted slivered almonds and coconut over each serving.

Yield: 8 servings.

Santa's Snack

Since Santa is such a busy man on Christmas eve, a snack left "just for him" is sure to please — not a very big one for he hasn't long to tarry — cookies and milk would be just right to eat while he goes busily about his work. Chocolate Drops are a perfect choice — they contain flakes of rolled oats that give a crunchy nut-like flavor, so tasty when combined with melted chocolate and sour cream. Decorate each cooky drop with frosting and festive trimmings and arrange on a plate to await Santa's arrival.

Chocolate Drops

Makes 4 dozen cookies

1 cup butter or margarine, soft
1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
2 cups sifted enriched flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ cup cultured sour cream
3 squares (3 oz.) semi-sweet baking chocolate, melted
2 cups rolled oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)
Chocolate frosting
Chocolate shot or silver candy dragees

Heat oven to moderate (350°F.). Beat together butter and sugar until creamy. Add vanilla and eggs; beat well. Sift together flour, salt and baking powder. Add to creamed mixture with sour cream and chocolate. Beat well. Stir in oats. Drop from a teaspoon onto lightly greased cooky sheets. Bake in preheated ove (350°F.) about 12 minutes. Cool. Frost with chocolate or seven minute frosting; sprinkle with chocolate shot or silver dragees.

Santa Claus

Materials

Empty coffee can or cottage cheese container, colored construction paper, plastic foam ball (3-in. dia.) Red crepe paper.

An idea for gift-wrapping a jar of cookies or candies for someone special:

1. Cover an empty coffee can or cottage cheese container with aluminum foil.
2. Fit a red construction paper cone over container.
3. Form two long, narrow cones of construction paper and tape to top of larger cone to form arms. Hands cut from construction paper are glued inside cone arms.
4. Decorate figure with foil belt and crushed foil cuffs.
5. A foam ball is the head. Decorate with face features of construction paper and a cotton beard.
6. Hat is a cone of red crepe paper turned up to form a brim and bent down at the point. Feet are cut from black construction paper and glued to the underside of the container.

Belgian Holiday Bread

BELGIAN CARMIQUE

1 package yeast, compressed or dry
1 cup water (lukewarm for compressed yeast, warm for dry)
1 cup milk
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground cardamom
⅓ cup butter or margarine
7 cups sifted enriched flour (about)
1 cup seedless raisins
2 eggs
1 egg, beaten
1 tablespoon water
Confectioners' sugar icing, if desired

Soften yeast in water. Scald milk. Add sugar, salt, cardamom and butter or margarine. Cool to lukewarm. Add 2 cups flour and beat well. Add softened yeast, raisins and 2 eggs. Add enough more flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth and knead until smooth and satiny. Place in greased bowl, cover and let rise in warm place until doubled (about 1½ hours). When light, punch down. Divide dough into 2 equal portions. Let rest 10 minutes. Shape each portion into round loaf. Place in greased 9-inch round pans. Let rise until doubled (about 1 hour). Mix egg and water. Brush lightly over tops of loaves. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 40 to 45 minutes. Cool. Frost with confectioners' sugar icing if desired. Makes 2 round loaves.

Sweet Bundles

(Sweet Rolls Wrapped in Foil)

1. Wrap individual sweet rolls in foil, making neat packages.
2. Place foil packages on baking sheet; bake 15 minutes at 400°F.
3. Decorate each foil package with a piece of pine or holly and red ribbon.
4. Serve these surprise packages to your guests.

Cook Gains Compliments With Oatmeal-Fruit Torte

Creative cookery at its best describes this Luscious Oatmeal-Fruit Torte. The dictionary definition of a torte—a rich cake—fails to adequately describe this dessert. Just imagine how good this would taste—a two-layer cake, the bottom part of each layer made of a rich butter cake with nutlike oatmeal for flavor and texture, the top part a lightly browned meringue. The two-layer torte is filled and topped with sweetened, whipped cream and fresh fruits, such as strawberries, raspberries, or peaches. It's mighty good eatin.'

This torte involves the use of an oven. Pick a cool day and prepare it early in the morning and oven heat will be no problem.

By all means assemble the torte on a pretty cake plate and serve it at the table so that all present can enjoy its attractive appearance and anticipate its good taste. To serve this dessert from the kitchen would deprive the family of a chance to admire a truly beautiful creation and to give the cook the compliments she deserves.

Breakfast cereals, hot and ready to eat, presweetened and regular, offer excellent opportunities for the creative cook to not only add variety, texture and flavor to her cooking, but at the same time to improve the nutritional value by the addition of protein, important B vitamins, essential minerals, and food energy.

Oatmeal Fruit Torte

Cake

1 cup butter or margarine
1⅓ cups sugar
3 egg yolks
2 teaspoons vanilla
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup milk
1½ cups rolled oats, quick or regular, uncooked

Meringue

3 egg whites
⅔ cup sugar

Filling and Topping

1 pint whipping cream, whipped and sweetened
¾ cups sweetened fresh fruit (sliced strawberries, sliced peaches, or raspberries)

Beat butter until creamy; add sugar gradually and beat until well blended. Add egg yolks and vanilla; beat well. Sift together flour, salt, and baking powder. Add to creamed mixture alternately with milk. Stir in rolled oats. Pour into 2 greased and floured, waxed paper lined 9-inch cake pans.

Beat egg whites until frothy. Gradually add sugar, a tablespoon at a time, beating well after each addition. Beat until stiff and glossy. Spread over unbaked batter in pans. (Spread to within 2 inches of sides of pans.)

Bake in slow oven (325°F.) 20 minutes. Increase heat to moderate oven (350°F.) and bake an additional 20 minutes. Cool 5 to 10 minutes. Carefully remove from pans and peel off waxed paper.

To assemble torte, place one layer of cake (meringue side up) on serving plate. Spread with half of whipped cream; spoon on half of strawberries or other fresh fruit. Place other layer of cake (meringue side up) on top of whipped cream and fruits. Spread with remaining whipped cream; top with fruit. Yield: 10 servings.

Turkey Timbales

Stir 1/8 cup bread crumbs, 1/4 cup crushed potato chips, 2 tblsp. melted margarine into 2/3 cup milk, and bring to boil. Add 1 cup finely chopped turkey mixed with 2 slightly beaten eggs, add salt and pepper to taste.

Turn into greased, individual molds and set in a shallow pan of hot water. Bake in a 350° oven for 40 minutes. Unmold and serve.

Q. What is the name of these cuts of meat?

A. Lamb Frenched Rib Chops.

Q. Where do they come from and how are they identified?

A. They come from the rib sections of the carcass and contain a portion of the backbone and rib bone. The meaty area is the eye of the rib. In these "frenched" chops, the meat and fat have been trimmed away from the ends of the ribs.

Q. How are they prepared?

A. They may be prepared by dry heat methods of meat cookery . . . broiling, pan-frying or pan-broiling.

24 Eggs Bakes This Cake

16 egg whites
½ tsp. cream of tartar
4 cups sugar

Cake Batter:

5⅓ cups cake flour, sifted
5 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
2 cups butter or margarine
4 cups sugar
16 egg yolks
1 cup milk
1½ tsp. almond flavoring

(Ingredients for eight 9-inch layers. Reduce in proportion for 4 or 2 9-inch layers. Have all ingredients at room temperature.)

Meringue: Beat egg whites until foamy; beat in cream of tartar; add sugar gradually, continuing to beat until meringue is very stiff. Set aside. Set over temperature to heat to very slow (250°F).

Cake Batter: Cream butter or margarine; add sugar gradually and cream thoroughly. Blend in egg yolks, beaten with rotary beater until thick. Add sifted flour, baking powder and salt alternately with milk and flavoring. Spread batter in 9-inch layer-cake pans that have been greased and floured or prepared as desired. Spread meringue evenly over cake batter. Bake for 20 minutes in preheated oven. Raise oven temperature to moderate (350°F) and bake 20 minutes longer (total baking time 40 minutes). Cool cake on racks until cool enough to handle. Remove from pans and place on racks meringue side up and cool thoroughly. Spread thin layer of chilled lemon filling on meringue top of all layers but one that becomes top of Tower. Set layers atop one another, ending with plain meringue layer. Chill several hours or overnight. Cut in wedges. For ease of handling and service never make Tower Torte higher than 8 layers. If more than 4 layers deep, cut wedge-shaped pieces full depth of Tower, then with spatula or cake knife lift off 2, 3 or 4 layers at a time, carefully separating the serving between meringue and filling. YIELD: 8-layer tower, 32 to 36 servings.

NOTE: High humidity may cause meringue to shrink excessively and become sticky.

Lemon Filling:

8 eggs, well beaten
½ cup (1 stick) butter or margarine
2 cups sugar
2 tsp. lemon rind
¾ cup lemon juice
¼ tsp. salt
Yellow Food Coloring, optional

Put ingredients in top of double boiler and blend well with spoon. Stir constantly 15 to 20 minutes over simmering water until thick and mixture piles. If filling is pale, add few drops of yellow food coloring. Chill before spreading on cake.

It's Plum Good Eating

Fresh purple plums (Italian prunes) are coming into our markets from Idaho—large, firm, tangy-sweet, wonderfully delicious. But for such a short season. So enjoy them to the full. Out of hand for pleasant munching; thin-sliced with cream and a sprinkling of sugar or a drizzle of warmed honey for a different breakfast or dessert, over cereal for a before-going-to-bed snack; in salads of so many kinds. So good too in pies, cobblers, frozen desserts, upsidedown cakes, quick breads; on your canning cupboard shelves as jams, preserves, conserve, spicy relishes.

And, because their season is so short, do stow away in your freezer. No peeling, no blanching, no worry over the fruit turning dark; no fuss in removing seeds, for these plums are freestone and the seeds zip right out with the flick of a paring knife; no fancy syruping. The plum halves, sugared lightly and properly packaged, will keep for months, to enjoy as you do those from today's marketing.

But, fresh or home-frozen, do try this new version of the old favorite "Ambrosia." It's "plum good eating."

Fresh Purple Plum Ambrosia

6 Idaho fresh purple plums
½ cup honey
½ cup orange juice
½ teaspoon grated orange rind
1 sliced firm banana
1 orange, thin-sliced
coconut

Cut fresh purple plums in half, remove seeds. Cut again, if desired. Heat together the honey, orange juice, and rind. While hot, pour over the plum pieces. Cool. Mix in lightly the bananas and the orange slices cut in fourths. Chill for several hours. Sprinkle with coconut just before serving. Serve as dessert with simple cookies or sponge cake. This purple plum ambrosia may also be served as a salad, topped with mayonnaise, cream cheese or fruit salad dressing. Makes 4 servings.

By all means assemble the torte on a pretty cake plate and serve it at the table so that all present can enjoy its attractive appearance and anticipate its good taste. To serve this dessert from the kitchen would deprive the family of a chance to admire a truly beautiful creation and to give the cook the compliments she deserves.

Breakfast cereals, hot and ready to eat, presweetened and regular, offer excellent opportunities for the creative cook to not only add variety, texture and flavor to her cooking, but at the same time to improve the nutritional value by the addition of protein, important B vitamins, essential minerals, and food energy.

Oatmeal Fruit Torte

Cake

1 cup butter or margarine
1⅓ cups sugar
3 egg yolks
2 teaspoons vanilla
1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup milk
1½ cups rolled oats, quick or regular, uncooked

Meringue

3 egg whites
⅔ cup sugar

Filling and Topping

1 pint whipping cream, whipped and sweetened
¾ cups sweetened fresh fruit (sliced strawberries, sliced peaches, or raspberries)

Beat butter until creamy; add sugar gradually and beat until well blended. Add egg yolks and vanilla; beat well. Sift together flour, salt, and baking powder. Add to creamed mixture alternately with milk. Stir in rolled oats. Pour into 2 greased and floured, waxed paper lined 9-inch cake pans.

Beat egg whites until frothy. Gradually add sugar, a tablespoon at a time, beating well after each addition. Beat until stiff and glossy. Spread over unbaked batter in pans. (Spread to within 2 inches of sides of pans.)

Bake in slow oven (325°F.) 20 minutes. Increase heat to moderate oven (350°F.) and bake an additional 20 minutes. Cool 5 to 10 minutes. Carefully remove from pans and peel off waxed paper.

To assemble torte, place one layer of cake (meringue side up) on serving plate. Spread with half of whipped cream; spoon on half of strawberries or other fresh fruit. Place other layer of cake (meringue side up) on top of whipped cream and fruits. Spread with remaining whipped cream; top with fruit. Yield: 10 servings.

Turkey Timbales

Stir 1/8 cup bread crumbs, 1/4 cup crushed potato chips, 2 tblsp. melted margarine into 2/3 cup milk, and bring to boil. Add 1 cup finely chopped turkey mixed with 2 slightly beaten eggs, add salt and pepper to taste.

Turn into greased, individual molds and set in a shallow pan of hot water. Bake in a 350° oven for 40 minutes. Unmold and serve.

Q. What is the name of these cuts of meat?

A. Lamb Frenched Rib Chops.

Q. Where do they come from and how are they identified?

A. They come from the rib sections of the carcass and contain a portion of the backbone and rib bone. The meaty area is the eye of the rib. In these "frenched" chops, the meat and fat have been trimmed away from the ends of the ribs.

Q. How are they prepared?

A. They may be prepared by dry heat methods of meat cookery . . . broiling, panfrying or pan-broiling.

24 Eggs Bakes This Cake

16 egg whites
½ tsp. cream of tartar
4 cups sugar

Cake Batter:

5⅓ cups cake flour, sifted
5 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
2 cups butter or margarine
4 cups sugar
16 egg yolks
1 cup milk
1½ tsp. almond flavoring

(Ingredients for eight 9-inch layers. Reduce in proportion for 4 or 2 9-inch layers. Have all ingredients at room temperature.)

Meringue: Beat egg whites until foamy; beat in cream of tartar; add sugar gradually, continuing to beat until meringue is very stiff. Set aside. Set over temperature to heat to very slow (250°F).

Cake Batter: Cream butter or margarine; add sugar gradually and cream thoroughly. Blend in egg yolks, beaten with rotary beater until thick. Add sifted flour, baking powder and salt alternately with milk and flavoring. Spread batter in 9-inch layer-cake pans that have been greased and floured or prepared as desired. Spread meringue evenly over cake batter. Bake for 20 minutes in preheated oven. Raise oven temperature to moderate (350°F) and bake 20 minutes longer (total baking time 40 minutes). Cool cake on racks until cool enough to handle. Remove from pans and place on racks meringue side up and cool thoroughly. Spread thin layer of chilled lemon filling on meringue top of all layers but one that becomes top of Tower. Set layers atop one another, ending with plain meringue layer. Chill several hours or overnight. Cut in wedges. For ease of handling and service never make Tower Torte higher than 8 layers. If more than 4 layers deep, cut wedge-shaped pieces full depth of Tower, then with spatula or cake knife lift off 2, 3 or 4 layers at a time, carefully separating the serving between meringue and filling. YIELD: 8-layer tower, 32 to 36 servings.

NOTE: High humidity may cause meringue to shrink excessively and become sticky.

Lemon Filling:

8 eggs, well beaten
½ cup (1 stick) butter or margarine
2 cups sugar
2 tsp. lemon rind
¾ cup lemon juice
¼ tsp. salt
Yellow Food Coloring, optional

Put ingredients in top of double boiler and blend well with spoon. Stir constantly 15 to 20 minutes over simmering water until thick and mixture piles. If filling is pale, add few drops of yellow food coloring. Chill before spreading on cake.

It's Plum Good Eating

Fresh purple plums (Italian prunes) are coming into our markets from Idaho—large, firm, tangy-sweet, wonderfully delicious. But for such a short season. So enjoy them to the full. Out of hand for pleasant munching; thin-sliced with cream and a sprinkling of sugar or a drizzle of warmed honey for a different breakfast or dessert, over cereal for a before-going-to-bed snack; in salads of so many kinds. So good too in pies, cobblers, frozen desserts, upsidedown cakes, quick breads; on your canning cupboard shelves as jams, preserves, conserve, spicy relishes.

And, because their season is so short, do stow away in your freezer. No peeling, no blanching, no worry over the fruit turning dark; no fuss in removing seeds, for these plums are freestone and the seeds zip right out with the flick of a paring knife; no fancy syruping. The plum halves, sugared lightly and properly packaged, will keep for months, to enjoy as you do those from today's marketing.

Fresh Purple Plum Ambrosia

6 Idaho fresh purple plums
½ cup honey
½ cup orange juice
½ teaspoon grated orange rind
1 sliced firm banana
1 orange, thin-sliced
coconut

Cut fresh purple plums in half, remove seeds. Cut again, if desired. Heat together the honey, orange juice, and rind. While hot, pour over the plum pieces. Cool. Mix in lightly the bananas and the orange slices cut in fourths. Chill for several hours. Sprinkle with coconut just before serving. Serve as dessert with simple cookies or sponge cake. This purple plum ambrosia may also be served as a salad, topped with mayonnaise, cream cheese or fruit salad dressing. Makes 4 servings.

MCEA And CTA Hear Talk By Dr. Murphy

Puts Emphasis On "Reading"

KEYSER—The Mineral County Education Association met in the Keyser High School Auditorium, Monday. Owen S. Schaeffer, president of MCEA and Mrs. Nelle Smith, president of the Classroom Teachers Association were in charge. The invocation was given by the Rev. Chester Steyer, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Keyser. Group singing was under the direction of Mrs. E. E. Church and Mrs. Clara Kauffman. A brief business meeting was held.

The speaker for the evening was Dr. George Murphy, director of student teachers, Pennsylvania State University. The title of his topic was "Reading." He said, "we need common sense shown in the teaching of reading to our children so that they will want to use reading as recreation."

He stated "reading is a subject is never more important than a child's happiness. A child should not be ridiculed for poor reading." He said, "basic reading books should be based on experiences the child is likely to have." He stressed that children who read and understand will enjoy reading.

He closed by saying that teachers should remember they are teachers of children and should enjoy their work, and more important, make school enjoyable for children.

Each new teacher received a corsage from the CTA. New chairmen appointed are James McLucas, public relations, replacing Parker C. Black; and Lawrence Fout, parliamentarian.

A social hour was held to honor new teachers.

He stated "reading is a subject is never more important than a child's happiness. A child should not be ridiculed for poor reading." He said, "basic reading books should be based on experiences the child is likely to have." He stressed that children who read and understand will enjoy reading.

He closed by saying that teachers should remember they are teachers of children and should enjoy their work, and more important, make school enjoyable for children.

Each new teacher received a corsage from the CTA. New chairmen appointed are James McLucas, public relations, replacing Parker C. Black; and Lawrence Fout, parliamentarian.

Miss Ruth Fox Wins DAR Contest At Southern High

OAKLAND—Miss Ruth Fox, a straight 'A' student the first grading period, was named as Southern High School's winner of the Daughters of the American Revolution good citizenship award. She competed against Patsy Gower and Margaret Fulk. These girls were chosen by the senior class on leadership, service, dependability, and patriotism.

They were required to write an essay of 1,500 words or less on "Faith of our Fathers . . . Living Still."

The teacher committee chose the best paper and it was sent to the D. A. R. chapter sponsoring the contest. Ruth will compete with Lucy Beiler of Northern High School for the Garrett County title.

Students had a day and a half of vacation from school on Monday and Tuesday of last week due to the big snowstorm that hit the Garrett County area. Students were sent home at 10:30 on Monday.

Get Well wishes are extended by students to Robert Leighton, a junior student, who was injured in a car wreck in Oakland recently.

Pencils, with the 1959-60 basketball schedule went on sale on Wednesday. These pencils are red and white and the student Council is sponsoring this project.

DPA Sets New Rules To Assist W.Va. Needy

25,000 More Can Get Surplus Foods

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Department of Public Assistance formally adopted new regulations Wednesday that will make an additional 25,000 West Virginians eligible for surplus commodities.

William Waggy, DPA commodity supervisor, said the food is now received by 250,000 needy West Virginians. The new regulations were adopted by the agency at the conclusion of a three-day workshop for welfare workers and supervisors of seven surplus food warehouses.

The DPA official also said the amounts of flour and meal distributed to the needy would be increased slightly so that the average will be about five pounds per month per person instead of four pounds.

The commodity division also placed an order for 21,000 pounds of frozen lamb for school lunch programs in Boone, Raleigh, Fayette and Nicholas Counties.

This is in connection with a national pilot program to see how lamb would be accepted by school children.

The eligibility changes for surplus food include:

—Changing from three or more to 10 the number of persons in one family who can earn money and raising the total from $130 to $165 per month.

—Setting up a sliding scale for families with four, five or more persons working and making the limit range between $130 and $165.

— Increasing from $100 to $330 the amount of savings can have in the form of bank accounts and stocks and still be eligible for food.

Elected Chairman

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Harrison Lamb, Huntington, has been elected chairman of the Cabell County Republican executive committee, it was announced Wednesday. He replaces attorney Leo J. Meisel who resigned in November.

W.Va. Coal Mine Employment Is On Decline

10,100 Dropped From Payrolls

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The number of persons employed in coal mining in West Virginia dropped 10,100 in the 12 months through October this year, a Department of Employment Security report showed Wednesday.

The department's monthly review of employment trends showed an October employment total of 52,100 in mining, a drop of 400 from the previous month.

Non-agricultural wage and salary employment in general continued downward as a result of secondary effects of the steel strike. A drop of 2,200 in the state's non-farm employment during the month reflected material shortages among steel users and reduced orders among suppliers of the steel industry.

The department gave this summary of the October situation in four labor market areas compared to October last year:

Martinsburg area — Unemployed, 1,550, up 19.2 per cent; employed, 19,800, down 1.2 per cent; non-farm wage and salary employment, 14,600, down 2.3 per cent; manufacturing, 6,850, down 2.1 per cent.

Westernport Asks Grant For Sewage Facilities

WESTERNPORT — Dr. Perry Prather, director of the State Department of Health, has sent an application to the U. S. Public Health Service regional office at Charlottesville, Va., for a federal grant of $64,400 to aid in the sewage facilities at Westernport.

Dr. Prather informed the USPH that Westernport had been served an order some months ago to proceed with surveys and plans for a sewage system to take care of raw sewage which has been dumped into Georges Creek and the Potomac River.

The community will tie-in its sewage facilities with the new treatment plant being erected at Westernport by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. Dr. Prather said that engineering studies and a report have been submitted by Haze and Sawyer, an engineering firm, on the Westernport project.

The entire project at Westernport, including laying of sewage line and tie-in with the paper company's multi-million dollar facility, will cost an estimated $339,500, according to Dr. Prather's report to the USPH.

Miss Ruth Fox Wins DAR Contest At Southern High

OAKLAND—Miss Ruth Fox, a straight 'A' student the first grading period, was named as Southern High School's winner of the Daughters of the American Revolution good citizenship award. She competed against Patsy Gower and Margaret Fulk. These girls were chosen by the senior class on leadership, service, dependability, and patriotism.

They were required to write an essay of 1,500 words or less on "Faith of our Fathers . . . Living Still."

The teacher committee chose the best paper and it was sent to the D. A. R. chapter sponsoring the contest. Ruth will compete with Lucy Beiler of Northern High School for the Garrett County title.

Students had a day and a half of vacation from school on Monday and Tuesday of last week due to the big snowstorm that hit the Garrett County area. Students were sent home at 10:30 on Monday.

Get Well wishes are extended by students to Robert Leighton, a junior student, who was injured in a car wreck in Oakland recently.

Pencils, with the 1959-60 basketball schedule went on sale on Wednesday. These pencils are red and white and the student Council is sponsoring this project.

Nails are weighed in units of "pennies."

25,000 More Can Get Surplus Foods

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Department of Public Assistance formally adopted new regulations Wednesday that will make an additional 25,000 West Virginians eligible for surplus commodities.

William Waggy, DPA commodity supervisor, said the food is now received by 250,000 needy West Virginians. The new regulations were adopted by the agency at the conclusion of a three-day workshop for welfare workers and supervisors of seven surplus food warehouses.

The DPA official also said the amounts of flour and meal distributed to the needy would be increased slightly so that the average will be about five pounds per month per person instead of four pounds.

The commodity division also placed an order for 21,000 pounds of frozen lamb for school lunch programs in Boone, Raleigh, Fayette and Nicholas Counties.

This is in connection with a national pilot program to see how lamb would be accepted by school children.

The eligibility changes for surplus food include:

—Changing from three or more to 10 the number of persons in one family who can earn money and raising the total from $130 to $165 per month.

—Setting up a sliding scale for families with four, five or more persons working and making the limit range between $130 and $165.

— Increasing from $100 to $330 the amount of savings can have in the form of bank accounts and stocks and still be eligible for food.

Elected Chairman

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Harrison Lamb, Huntington, has been elected chairman of the Cabell County Republican executive committee, it was announced Wednesday. He replaces attorney Leo J. Meisel who resigned in November.

W.Va. Coal Mine Employment Is On Decline

10,100 Dropped From Payrolls

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The number of persons employed in coal mining in West Virginia dropped 10,100 in the 12 months through October this year, a Department of Employment Security report showed Wednesday.

The department's monthly review of employment trends showed an October employment total of 52,100 in mining, a drop of 400 from the previous month.

Non-agricultural wage and salary employment in general continued downward as a result of secondary effects of the steel strike. A drop of 2,200 in the state's non-farm employment during the month reflected material shortages among steel users and reduced orders among suppliers of the steel industry.

The department gave this summary of the October situation in four labor market areas compared to October last year:

Martinsburg area — Unemployed, 1,550, up 19.2 per cent; employed, 19,800, down 1.2 per cent; non-farm wage and salary employment, 14,600, down 2.3 per cent; manufacturing, 6,850, down 2.1 per cent.

Named To Staff

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The hiring of Frederick N. Lantz, 35, of Green Bank, Pocahontas County, as a staff member of the State Agriculture Department's farm marketing division was announced Wednesday.

Westernport Asks Grant For Sewage Facilities

WESTERNPORT — Dr. Perry Prather, director of the State Department of Health, has sent an application to the U. S. Public Health Service regional office at Charlottesville, Va., for a federal grant of $64,400 to aid in the sewage facilities at Westernport.

Dr. Prather informed the USPH that Westernport had been served an order some months ago to proceed with surveys and plans for a sewage system to take care of raw sewage which has been dumped into Georges Creek and the Potomac River.

The community will tie-in its sewage facilities with the new treatment plant being erected at Westernport by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. Dr. Prather said that engineering studies and a report have been submitted by Haze and Sawyer, an engineering firm, on the Westernport project.

The entire project at Westernport, including laying of sewage line and tie-in with the paper company's multi-million dollar facility, will cost an estimated $339,500, according to Dr. Prather's report to the USPH.

Costello's Daughter Starts Own Career

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Carole Costello, daughter of the late comedian Lou Costello, is embarking on a show business career with her father's advice — "Be humble" — fixed in her memory.

"I'll never forget how he kept repeating that when he coached me for my first TV appearance," said Miss Costello, a shy but sultry-looking brunette beauty of 21.

"He got me up at four in the morning and said, 'Come on, let's go over your lines.' I mumbled, 'I know them, daddy, I know them.' But he insisted.

"He got me up. And he paced up and down the room in his bathrobe, with a dead cigar in his mouth, his glasses on, shouting and repeating, 'Be humble, be humble'."

Miss Costello, who has been tested by Paramount and who opens a singing engagement at Chicago's Cloister club in February, said her father was proud of her because she tried to be a success on her own.

"I decided to become an actress two years ago, and we made a sort of agreement," she said. "He would give me no money when I started, studying and all. So I sold my car for $1,800 and went to New York.

"My mother kept $500 of my money and it was a good thing because a month after I got to New York, I had about $300 left. So I moved into an apartment with five other girls—a stewardess, two secretaries, a nurse and an actress.

"I appeared on the Jack Paar and Steve Allen shows, and after each one dad called me — never to tell me what was right, just what was wrong. For instance, he'd say, 'Your face was turned the wrong way.' We were very proud of each other."

Miss Costello, who wore blue jeans and a light blue skirt while being interviewed during dinner in the apartment of musical conductor Buddy Bregman, went on:

"My father never took me anywhere to get a job. He never called up anyone and said, 'Could you give my daughter a small part?' Even in high school, I had to try out for parts in his pictures along with everyone else."

Miss Costello, who was in five of her father's comedies, explained:

"A couple of times, I thought I had parts sewed up, and I didn't get them. I just plain flopped. The main reason I tried for the parts was so I could earn summer vacation money."

The actress said that although she is proud of being Lou Costello's daughter, "I get irritated when I walk into a producer's office and he spends almost our entire interview talking about my father.

"I'd like people to realize I can get by on my own.

"It helps to open doors if you're the son or daughter of someone famous, but the burden is that when you go in, they expect you to be just as good as your father."

Miss Costello's most heartbreaking personal and acting experience came when she had rehearsed three months for a part in the play "Waltz of the Toreadors" in New York.

"We had rehearsed in dumpy, dumpy theaters," she said, "and I kept writing home to dad about how beautiful the theaters were. He said he was coming to see me, and I panicked. Then the night before the show opened, I got the news that dad was in the hospital, and I rushed home."

13,090 Turkey Lunches Served

Some 13,090 public school children enjoyed a turkey dinner in the school cafeterias on the Tuesday before Thanksgiving, according to figures compiled in the office of Mrs. Gladys M. Eaton, supervisor of cafeterias in Allegany County.

The number of 328 fewer than the 13,418 children served a year ago before Thanksgiving. That was a two-and-one-half per cent drop from the previous year. There also were 644 adult lunches served that day.

Cranberry lovers may argue that the absence of cranberries from the menu was the reason for the decline. Spiced apple slices were served as a substitute.

South Africa Still Banishes Offenders

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — Seventy-five South Africans are living in exile today within their own country. By government order they are separated from their friends and kept out of touch with the world.

The South African system of banishment is peculiar in the modern world, and came in for attention recently in the case of Mrs. Elizabeth Mafeking, a trade union leader. The government ordered her to move from her home in the gracious, old-world town of Paarl near Cape Town to a government farm in the arid Vryburg district.

Mrs. Mafeking, the mother of 11 children who was accused of having visited behind the Iron Curtain, chose instead to flee to the mountains of Basutoland, a tiny British protectorate in the heart of South Africa.

Her alternative would have been a brick hut on the edge of the Kalahari desert, one of 12 built recently to house those who have incurred banishment by offending the South African government.

The number and location of all such "camps" has not been disclosed, but one is known to be at Frenchdale, where the Basuto chief Mopeii was banished in 1957. Mopeii had fought against the official agricultural policy on grazing rights.

Today he lives at Frenchdale with his elderly wife, suffering from epilepsy and asthma. The nearest telephone is 12 miles away. Once wealthy, he is utterly destitute, but remains a symbol of rural opposition.

The same applies to three members of the Thembuland royal family. They were exiled last year from the green hills of the Transkei in the Eastern Cape to the harsh northwest after openly rejecting the government's scheme of native administration.

The Sudan comprises nearly one million square miles, an area one-third that of the United States, yet its population is about the size of the state of Ohio.

"I'll never forget how he kept repeating that when he coached me for my first TV appearance," said Miss Costello, a shy but sultry-looking brunette beauty of 21.

"He got me up at four in the morning and said, 'Come on, let's go over your lines.' I mumbled, 'I know them, daddy, I know them.' But he insisted.

"He got me up. And he paced up and down the room in his bathrobe, with a dead cigar in his mouth, his glasses on, shouting and repeating, 'Be humble, be humble'."

Miss Costello, who has been tested by Paramount and who opens a singing engagement at Chicago's Cloister club in February, said her father was proud of her because she tried to be a success on her own.

"I decided to become an actress two years ago, and we made a sort of agreement," she said. "He would give me no money when I started, studying and all. So I sold my car for $1,800 and went to New York.

"My mother kept $500 of my money and it was a good thing because a month after I got to New York, I had about $300 left. So I moved into an apartment with five other girls—a stewardess, two secretaries, a nurse and an actress.

"I appeared on the Jack Paar and Steve Allen shows, and after each one dad called me — never to tell me what was right, just what was wrong. For instance, he'd say, 'Your face was turned the wrong way.' We were very proud of each other."

Miss Costello, who wore blue jeans and a light blue skirt while being interviewed during dinner in the apartment of musical conductor Buddy Bregman, went on:

"My father never took me anywhere to get a job. He never called up anyone and said, 'Could you give my daughter a small part?' Even in high school, I had to try out for parts in his pictures along with everyone else."

Miss Costello, who was in five of her father's comedies, explained:

"A couple of times, I thought I had parts sewed up, and I didn't get them. I just plain flopped. The main reason I tried for the parts was so I could earn summer vacation money."

The actress said that although she is proud of being Lou Costello's daughter, "I get irritated when I walk into a producer's office and he spends almost our entire interview talking about my father.

"I'd like people to realize I can get by on my own.

"It helps to open doors if you're the son or daughter of someone famous, but the burden is that when you go in, they expect you to be just as good as your father."

Miss Costello's most heartbreaking personal and acting experience came when she had rehearsed three months for a part in the play "Waltz of the Toreadors" in New York.

"We had rehearsed in dumpy, dumpy theaters," she said, "and I kept writing home to dad about how beautiful the theaters were. He said he was coming to see me, and I panicked. Then the night before the show opened, I got the news that dad was in the hospital, and I rushed home."

13,090 Turkey Lunches Served

Some 13,090 public school children enjoyed a turkey dinner in the school cafeterias on the Tuesday before Thanksgiving, according to figures compiled in the office of Mrs. Gladys M. Eaton, supervisor of cafeterias in Allegany County.

The number of 328 fewer than the 13,418 children served a year ago before Thanksgiving. That was a two-and-one-half per cent drop from the previous year. There also were 644 adult lunches served that day.

Cranberry lovers may argue that the absence of cranberries from the menu was the reason for the decline. Spiced apple slices were served as a substitute.

South Africa Still Banishes Offenders

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — Seventy-five South Africans are living in exile today within their own country. By government order they are separated from their friends and kept out of touch with the world.

The South African system of banishment is peculiar in the modern world, and came in for attention recently in the case of Mrs. Elizabeth Mafeking, a trade union leader. The government ordered her to move from her home in the gracious, old-world town of Paarl near Cape Town to a government farm in the arid Vryburg district.

Mrs. Mafeking, the mother of 11 children who was accused of having visited behind the Iron Curtain, chose instead to flee to the mountains of Basutoland, a tiny British protectorate in the heart of South Africa.

Her alternative would have been a brick hut on the edge of the Kalahari desert, one of 12 built recently to house those who have incurred banishment by offending the South African government.

The number and location of all such "camps" has not been disclosed, but one is known to be at Frenchdale, where the Basuto chief Mopeii was banished in 1957. Mopeii had fought against the official agricultural policy on grazing rights.

Today he lives at Frenchdale with his elderly wife, suffering from epilepsy and asthma. The nearest telephone is 12 miles away. Once wealthy, he is utterly destitute, but remains a symbol of rural opposition.

The same applies to three members of the Thembuland royal family. They were exiled last year from the green hills of the Transkei in the Eastern Cape to the harsh northwest after openly rejecting the government's scheme of native administration.

The Sudan comprises nearly one million square miles, an area one-third that of the United States, yet its population is about the size of the state of Ohio.

Telephone Rate Refund Plea Gets PSC Study

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Public Service Commission has taken under advisement a petition by the people's counsel for the return of some 6 million dollars to telephone customers.

In arguments before the PSC Wednesday, the petitioners claimed the money was excess revenue earned by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. above the rate of return authorized in 1958.

But attorneys for the utility claimed such a refund order by the PSC might be "deprivation of property without due process."

The people's counsel also asked the PSC to reopen the 1958 case setting the rate of return at 6.25 per cent.

Wilfred T. McQuaid, special counsel, charged the schedule of rates filed by the company was producing revenue at a rate of better than 7 per cent.

Meanwhile, the telephone company the same day reported a profit increase of one million dollars this year over 1958 and was authorized to issue 45 million dollars of common stock and debentures to finance plant expansion.

The utility's financial statement for the first 10 months of 1959 showed a profit of $15,570,000 as compared with $'4,465,000 for the same period last year.

W.Va. Guard Commander Defends New Armories

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—State Adj. Gen. William E. Blake looked on West Virginia's National Guard armory construction program Thursday as a contribution to the economy of some of the state's distressed areas.

Blake said construction of armories at Richwood, Salem and Dunbar required a total of 60,541 man hours of work in labor surplus areas.

"The wages paid in the construction of these armories will feed and clothe a number of children who may have not otherwise been provided for sufficiently," Blake said.

On Wednesday, Blake accused the Charleston Gazette of "a deliberate and calculated misrepresentation" in an editorial criticizing proposed construction of more armories in the state. It said the National Guard had "served its purpose" and should be disbanded.

Blake said Thursday six armories approved by the State Armory Board in July, 1957, have been completed. Nine more will be under contract by next March and eight are planned for the 1960-61 fiscal year.

The 23 new armories will cost about $5,586,000, of which 75 per cent will be paid for by the federal government. Besides the Dunbar, Richwood and Salem armories, the other three completed are in Williamson, Moundsville and Parkersburg.

Expected to be under contract by the end of the year are installations at Ronceverte, Princeton, Keyser, Logan, Gassaway and Weston. And by March contracts will have been signed for armories at Beckley, Clarksburg and Welch, Blake said.

The 1960-61 program calls for armories at Hinton, Montgomery, Elkins, Morgantown, Spencer, Charleston, Kingwood and St. Albans.

Tank's Visit To Newspaper 'Coincidence'

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A West Virginia National Guard M-47 medium tank parked across the street from the Charleston Gazette Thursday afternoon. Several employes waved white flags in surrender fashion from windows.

State Adj. Gen. William E. Blake said it was "just a coincidence" that the tank parked near the newspaper, then he added: "The wicked flee when no man pursueth."

The Gazette Wednesday carried an editorial suggesting that the National Guard be disbanded and specifically criticized proposed construction of more Guard armories in West Virginia.

Blake, in reply, issued a strongly-worded statement accusing the newspaper of irresponsibility.

The tank, which carried a crew of five, remained in the parking lot about 45 minutes. It then was escorted by a Charleston police cruiser back to a Guard garage.

Storm Capsizes Tug On Mercy Mission

LONDON (UPI—A Swedish tug racing to aid a stricken freighter capsized in Sweden's Gulf of Bothnia off Sweden Thursday night with eight men aboard.

The tug, the Titan, was trying to reach the freighter Birgitta when it apparently was turned over in high waves remaining from a five day storm.

There was no immediate word that any had survived.

Before the tug's accident, the storm that lashed the Continent and its waters with high winds, rain, ice and snow had taken a toll of 132 lives.

Proposal To Reorganize Marshall College Studied

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A plan for reorganizing Marshall College will be presented to the State Board of Education next week as a highlight of the agency's two-day meeting.

After convening Monday here the board will depart at midmorning for the college campus at Huntington. Marshall President Stewart H. Smith will present proposals for improving the college and the board will spend the remainder of the day touring the campus.

Smith's remarks will cover a plan that has been two to three years in the making. It was not known whether he would include a recommendation Marshall become a university. Such a proposal was advanced by an independent organization which studied West Virginia's system of higher education more than a year ago.

Before going to Marshall, the board will receive reports from State School Supt. R. Virgil Rohrbough. A committee also will report on its study of Salem College, which does not have accreditation.

On Tuesday, the board returns to Charleston to consider final plans and specifications for a new classroom - science building at West Liberty College and preliminary plans and cost estimates for renovating the administration building at Concord College.

Board Secretary H. K. Baer will present a study of college faculty salaries, comparing those of the various institutions. Baer also will report on a five - year study of state college expenditures.

Also on Tuesday the council of presidents of state colleges and West Virginia University will make a report.

Western Kentucky Beats Seton Hall, Detroit Is Victor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Veteran forward Al Ellison scored 36 points to lead unbeaten Western Kentucky to a 78-69 victory over Seton Hall Thursday night after the University of Detroit romped to an easy 85-67 victory over Iona College.

In leading the Hilltoppers to their straight win, Ellison broke the game apart with six minutes to go when he netted seven straight points to give Western Kentucky a substantial lead.

Earlier, Seton Hall, trailing throughout most of the second half, went ahead on three straight field goals by Al Senavitis and Ken Walker.

But at that point, the Pirates lost John Reilly, their big man as the result of a hand injury and then Ellison took charge.

Ellison's steady shooting and floor work in the first half helped the Hilltoppers to a 33-30 midway lead.

Georgia Eleven Voted Comeback Team Of The Year

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Last year Georgia was the patsy of the Southeastern Conference, loser of 6 of its 10 games and 10th place finisher in the league of 12.

During the past season the Bulldogs negotiated a sudden and surprising reversal. They won 9 games of 10, captured the conference championship over such powers as Louisiana State and Mississippi and won a spot in the Orange Bowl against Missouri.

The achievement, in the opinion of sports writers and broadcasters voting in the Associated Press' postseason poll, earned the Georgians the title of "Comeback Team of the Year" in college football.

As a natural course it followed that the Bulldogs' coach, a Bulldog-like individual named Wally Butts, should be hailed as "Comeback Coach of the Year."

Georgia collected 55 of the 180 votes and more than twice as many as the runner-up, Washington, which drew 27. Iowa State and Pennsylvania were tied for third with 23 each. Alabama was next with 18.

Velella Is Indicted On Charge Of Perjury

Lawyer Is Alleged "Front" For Salerno, Underworld Figure

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Vincent J. Velella, Harlem lawyer and politician who holds the contract for the return Ingemar Johansson-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title fight, Thursday was indicted by a New York County grand jury on a two-count charge of perjury.

As soon as word of the action reached Goteborg, Sweden, Edwin Ahlquist, advisor of world champion Johansson, said Velella "must be counted out now" from the rematch.

Ahlquist said there is a special escape clause in the contract which declares the pact invalid if anyone in the American promotional group is found guilty of a crime or of associating with unlawful elements.

The Swedish promoter said he was mailing a copy of Johansson's return contract signed with Velella as well as a copy of the contract for the first fight to the office of New York district attorney Frank Hogan.

The indictments against Velella stem from a double-barrelled investigation by the grand jury and the New York State Athletic Commission into alleged irregularities in the promotion of the June fight. At the same time the authorities stressed there was no question of any skullduggery in the fight itself.

Velella, 45, head of the Rosensohn Enterprises, Inc. fight firm, was alleged by the district attorney's office to have been a "front" for Anthony (Fat Tony) Salerno, an ex-convict and underworld figure, in the June promotion.

Conviction on first degree perjury indictments could bring five year prison terms and $5,000 fines on each count.

McKinley Cowsen had 21 points for DePaul.

Western Kentucky Beats Seton Hall, Detroit Is Victor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Veteran forward Al Ellison scored 36 points to lead unbeaten Western Kentucky to a 78-69 victory over Seton Hall Thursday night after the University of Detroit romped to an easy 85-67 victory over Iona College.

In leading the Hilltoppers to their straight win, Ellison broke the game apart with six minutes to go when he netted seven straight points to give Western Kentucky a substantial lead.

Earlier, Seton Hall, trailing throughout most of the second half, went ahead on three straight field goals by Al Senavitis and Ken Walker.

But at that point, the Pirates lost John Reilly, their big man as the result of a hand injury and then Ellison took charge.

St. Michael's Five Tops Westernport; St. Mary's Winner

Gregory Skidmore's field goal with 17 seconds remaining enabled St. Patrick's to eke out a 29-27 decision over SS. Peter & Paul last night in the second game of a twin bill as the Catholic Youth Basketball League campaign opened at SS. Peter & Paul gym.

St. Michael's defending champions of Frostburg won the first game of the doubleheader, defeating St. Peter's of Westernport, 43-23.

At St. Mary's gym, St. Patrick's of Mt. Savage went down to defeat at the hands of St. Mary's Gaels, 21-22.

In the thrillnig nightcap on the Fayette Street court, the score was knotted at 25-all with 30 seconds remaining when Tony Scaletta's basket put the "Fighting Irish" in front. Mike Kelly sank a pair of foul shots for SS. Peter & Paul to tie it up at 27-27. Then Skidmore broke up the ball game with a field goal.

Kelly was the game's high scorer with 14 points. Skidmore of St. Patrick's and Madden of SS. Peter & Paul had nine points each.

Dick Delaney with 17 points to his credit sparked St. Michael's to its first win of the season and extended its two-year win streak to 17 games. Ferguson headed Westernport with 10 markers.

Georgia Eleven Voted Comeback Team Of The Year

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Last year Georgia was the patsy of the Southeastern Conference, loser of 6 of its 10 games and 10th place finisher in the league of 12.

During the past season the Bulldogs negotiated a sudden and surprising reversal. They won 9 games of 10, captured the conference championship over such powers as Louisiana State and Mississippi and won a spot in the Orange Bowl against Missouri.

The achievement, in the opinion of sports writers and broadcasters voting in the Associated Press' postseason poll, earned the Georgians the title of "Comeback Team of the Year" in college football.

As a natural course it followed that the Bulldogs' coach, a Bulldog-like individual named Wally Butts, should be hailed as "Comeback Coach of the Year."

Georgia collected 55 of the 180 votes and more than twice as many as the runner-up, Washington, which drew 27. Iowa State and Pennsylvania were tied for third with 23 each. Alabama was next with 18.

Velella Is Indicted On Charge Of Perjury

Lawyer Is Alleged "Front" For Salerno, Underworld Figure

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Vincent J. Velella, Harlem lawyer and politician who holds the contract for the return Ingemar Johansson-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title fight, Thursday was indicted by a New York County grand jury on a two-count charge of perjury.

As soon as word of the action reached Goteborg, Sweden, Edwin Ahlquist, advisor of world champion Johansson, said Velella "must be counted out now" from the rematch.

Ahlquist said there is a special escape clause in the contract which declares the pact invalid if anyone in the American promotional group is found guilty of a crime or of associating with unlawful elements.

The Swedish promoter said he was mailing a copy of Johansson's return contract signed with Velella as well as a copy of the contract for the first fight to the office of New York district attorney Frank Hogan.

Johansson won the title from Patterson on a third-round technical knockout at Yankee Stadium last June 26.

The indictments against Velella stem from a double-barrelled investigation by the grand jury and the New York State Athletic Commission into alleged irregularities in the promotion of the June fight. At the same time the authorities stressed there was no question of any skullduggery in the fight itself.

Velella, 45, head of the Rosensohn Enterprises, Inc. fight firm, was alleged by the district attorney's office to have been a "front" for Anthony (Fat Tony) Salerno, an ex-convict and underworld figure, in the June promotion.

Conviction on first degree perjury indictments could bring five year prison terms and $5,000 fines on each count.

DePaul Defeats Bowling Green

BOWLING GREEN, O. (UPI) — DePaul University's Blue Demons defeated the Falcons of Bowling Green, 74-68, here Thursday night for their third straight victory before 2,400 fans.

DePaul, which led most of the game, including 38-29 at the half, had to revert to possession-type ball in the closing minutes to fight off a fired-up Falcon team.

Bowling Green's All-American candidate at guard, Jim Darrow, was game's high scorer with 32 points, to give him a four-game total of 139 points. Teammate Rex Leach pumped in 22 points.

McKinley Cowsen had 21 points for DePaul.

NFL Opposes TV In City Where Title Contest Is Staged

Colts' Fans Are Drawing Up Petition

Gunsel Says League Must Protect Those Who Purchase Tickets

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Commissioner Austin Gunsel said Thursday it was unlikely the National Football League would relax its rule against free televising of its championship game in the city where the game is played.

Gunsel said it is league policy to "protect those people who pay for tickets to the game. We can't take their money and then offer the game free in that area on television."

Gunsel's statement came after he was informed of a petition by persons in Baltimore to have the championship game televised there. The petition is in anticipation of the Baltimore Colts clinching the Western Division title this Saturday.

Calls For Blackout

If the Colts do, they will meet the New York Giants, Eastern champions, in Baltimore Dec. 27. Under NFL rules the game would be blacked out for a 75-mile area around Baltimore.

Gunsel said the Baltimore petition is academic at the moment because both the Chicago Bears and the San Francisco 49ers still have a mathematical chance at the Western title. The league championship game will be played in the home of the Western winner.

Gunsel indicated there is a possibility that the National Broadcasting Co., which has television rights to the title game, might consider closed-circuit televising the game, should there be such a demand in Baltimore, Chicago or San Francisco.

He said such closed circuit televising would have to be by mutual consent between NBC and the NFL. He did not indicate any opposition to paid, closed circuit viewing.

But in New York, Tom Gallery, NBC sports director, said flatly, "There will be no closed circuit TV. NBC owns all rights and has sold these rights to a sponsor. If we were going to televise in Baltimore or any other home city, we would put the game on free.

Must Protect Buyers

"We agree with Bert Bell (the late NFL commissioner) that the game belongs to the fans, but we must first protect the ticket-buying fans. The league cannot ask people to buy tickets for a game that could be played in adverse weather conditions and then have us put the game on free for the people at home."

Last year New York fans also sought open televising of the championship game there between the Giants and Baltimore. There was none.

The Baltimore petition is based also on the expectation that only 7,000 tickets will be available for general purchase in that city.

Memorial Stadium in Baltimore seats 57,557. There are 40,000 season ticket holders who have first call on the title game ducats. In addition, the Giants, league owners and other league workers would get first crack at about 10,000 other tickets.

Thornton Gets Extra Year Of Eligibility

CHICAGO (AP) — Northwestern's football fortunes for the next two years shot skyward Thursday when the Big Ten granted the Wildcats' star quarterback, Dick Thornton, an extra year of eligibility.

A year's eligibility was restored because Thornton played only 9 seconds in conference competition before injury shelved him for the season.

The Thornton case stirred considerable anxiety among coaches in the conference who looked upon the 6-1, 190-pound star as a potential All-America since his sensational sophomore debut in 1958.

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cincinnati Reds said Thursday outfielder Lou Jackson will be sent directly to their Havana farm club in the International League by the Chicago Cubs.

Jackson was one of three players traded to the Reds by the Cubs last week for third baseman Frank Thomas. Others in the deal were pitcher Bill Henry and outfielder Lee Walls.

Attendance Up 613 — Valley's 29 Is Low
Triumph Honors Joe — "Sal" Coach Of Year

By C. V. BURNS

A TOTAL of 7,059 persons paid to witness the Thanksgiving Day city championship football game between Allegany and Fort Hill, according to Victory D. Heisey, principal of Fort Hill High School.

This was the largest turnout in four years and was 613 more than attended in 1958 when 6,446 paid to see the contest.

Mr. Heisey pointed out there has been a notable increase in student paid admissions while adult attendance is on the decline. This year, 4,107 students purchased tickets while the adult admissions totaled 2,952.

Net receipts were $5,317.50 and when split each school received $2,658.75. Last year the net gate was $4,851.14 and each school's share was $2,425.

Peak year was 1948 when 9,792 paid and the schools split an $8,000 melon. The low for the past 15 years was the 4,794 paid admissions in 1957.

THE record-breaking feats of Joseph W. Hemmis, Cumberland's motorcycle hill climbing ace, are being publicized internationally by the Triumph Corporation of England, manufacturers of the Triumph motorcycle which Hemmis has ridden to fame the past six years.

Posters with Hemmis' photograph have been distributed in this country and Europe, citing the record-smashing performances of Cumberland's slant riding star.

This was Hemmis' greatest year since he started riding in 1946.

The local B. & O. railroad employe won the national point title with 119 tallies, captured the U.S. professional hill climbing crown at Muskegon, Michigan, in the record time of 6.74 seconds and wound up a glorious year by taking the Canadian national title at Kitchener, Ontario.

Hemmis hung up a total of 11 new hill records at Frederick and Cumberland, Md.; East Palestine, Ohio; Albany, Rochester, Utica and Hornell, N.Y., Williamsport, York and Vandergrift, Pa., and Muskegon.

This year Joe participated in a total of 37 events in 18 different cities in the states of Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York and Maryland and Canada, and finished "out of the money" only once. That was at Utica, N.Y., where carburetor trouble forced him to withdraw. He finished first 31 times and was second on five occasions.

Hemmis probably owns the longest winning streak on record. His victory in Canada was his 17th in a row.

Here is Hemmis' 1959 record:

Tony Canzoneri, Former Ring Champ, Found Dead

Louisiana Native Won Three Titles, Retired In 1939

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tony Canzoneri, former featherweight and lightweight boxing champion of the world, was found dead here Tuesday night in his hotel room. He was 51.

Officials of the Hotel Bryant, where Canzoneri was a permanent guest, said that an investigation was made when Canzoneri was not seen about the hotel for "a couple of days" and the ex-champion was found dead in his room. Cause of death was not immediately known.

Canzoneri reigned as featherweight champion from Feb. 10, 1928 until Sept. 28, 1928 and as lightweight champion from Nov. 14, 1930 until he lost to Barney Ross on June 23, 1933 and then recaptured the lightweight crown from Lou Ambers May 10, 1935, and lost it back to Ambers, Sept. 3, 1936.

Canzoneri, who was born at Slidell, La., on Nov. 6, 1908, began fighting professionally in New York early in 1925 at the age of 16. He fought for 15 years and retired late in 1939.

Tony was one of the most respected fighters in ring history because of his combined boxing, punching ability and his aggressiveness.

In Various Enterprises

After his retirement, Tony engaged in various enterprises including a clothing store and two restaurants. He also was in show business several years as a partner comedian with Joey Adams. At the time of his death he had an interest in a Broadway bar and grill, the Paddock.

During his career he was knocked out only once, in his final fight with the late Al (Bummy) Davis on Nov. 1, 1939. Davis stopped him in the third round. Tony retired after that.

Canzoneri's parents moved to New Orleans when he was two years old. When 11, as a bootblack, he learned to fight in order to protect his locations. Because he was smaller than most boys of his age, he nearly always was pitted against odds in weight and height. Because of his successes in street altercations, he began hanging around the Gayosa Gymnasium in New Orleans. By the time he was 13 he had won 17 amateur bouts.

Impressed Pete Herman

Later, Pete Herman of New Orleans, who was then bantamweight champion, was impressed by Tony's prowess and sent him to New York with a letter to Sammy Goldman, who managed Tony throughout his career.

As a professional Tony boxed the top bantamweights, featherweights, lightweights and welterweights of his era.

In addition to his legitimate featherweight and lightweight crowns, he also won the synthetic junior welterweight championship by knocking out Jackie Kid Berg of England in 1931. He lost that honor to Johnny Jadick of Philadelphia in 1932.

Lambert Winners Will Be Honored

The Cotton Bowl - bound Orangemen also were named the nation's No. 1 team by the United Press International Board of Coaches and their coach, Ben Schwartzwalder, was named 1959 college football coach of the year.

The Lambert Cup is the symbol of Eastern small college football supremacy. The Blue Hens ranked fourth in the UPI small college ratings.

NFL Opposes TV In City Where Title Contest Is Staged

Colts' Fans Are Drawing Up Petition

Gunsel Says League Must Protect Those Who Purchase Tickets

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Commissioner Austin Gunsel said Thursday it was unlikely the National Football League would relax its rule against free televising of its championship game in the city where the game is played.

Gunsel said it is league policy to "protect those people who pay for tickets to the game. We can't take their money and then offer the game free in that area on television."

Gunsel's statement came after he was informed of a petition by persons in Baltimore to have the championship game televised there. The petition is in anticipation of the Baltimore Colts clinching the Western Division title this Saturday.

Calls For Blackout

If the Colts do, they will meet the New York Giants, Eastern champions, in Baltimore Dec. 27. Under NFL rules the game would be blacked out for a 75-mile area around Baltimore.

Gunsel said the Baltimore petition is academic at the moment because both the Chicago Bears and the San Francisco 49ers still have a mathematical chance at the Western title. The league championship game will be played in the home of the Western winner.

Gunsel indicated there is a possibility that the National Broadcasting Co., which has television rights to the title game, might consider closed-circuit televising the game, should there be such a demand in Baltimore, Chicago or San Francisco.

He said such closed circuit televising would have to be by mutual consent between NBC and the NFL. He did not indicate any opposition to paid, closed circuit viewing.

But in New York, Tom Gallery, NBC sports director, said flatly, "There will be no closed circuit TV. NBC owns all rights and has sold these rights to a sponsor. If we were going to televise in Baltimore or any other home city, we would put the game on free.

Must Protect Buyers

"We agree with Bert Bell (the late NFL commissioner) that the game belongs to the fans, but we must first protect the ticket-buying fans. The league cannot ask people to buy tickets for a game that could be played in adverse weather conditions and then have us put the game on free for the people at home."

Last year New York fans also sought open televising of the championship game there between the Giants and Baltimore. There was none.

The Baltimore petition is based also on the expectation that only 7,000 tickets will be available for general purchase in that city.

Memorial Stadium in Baltimore seats 57,557. There are 40,000 season ticket holders who have first call on the title game ducats. In addition, the Giants, league owners and other league workers would get first crack at about 10,000 other tickets.

Thornton Gets Extra Year Of Eligibility

CHICAGO (AP) — Northwestern's football fortunes for the next two years shot skyward Thursday when the Big Ten granted the Wildcats' star quarterback, Dick Thornton, an extra year of eligibility.

A year's eligibility was restored because Thornton played only 9 seconds in conference competition before injury shelved him for the season.

Attendance Up 613 — Triumph Honors Joe — Valley's 29 Is Low — "Sal" Coach Of Year

By C. V. BURNS

A TOTAL of 7,059 persons paid to witness the Thanksgiving Day city championship football game between Allegany and Fort Hill, according to Victory D. Heisey, principal of Fort Hill High School.

This was the largest turnout in four years and was 613 more than attended in 1958 when 6,446 paid to see the contest.

Mr. Heisey pointed out there has been a notable increase in student paid admissions while adult attendance is on the decline. This year, 4,107 students purchased tickets while the adult admissions totaled 2,952.

Net receipts were $5,317.50 and when split each school received $2,658.75. Last year the net gate was $4,851.14 and each school's share was $2,425.

Drivers Exceed 100 MPH Tuning Up For Big Race

Grand Prix Of U.S. Is Set For Saturday

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Tuning up for Saturday's world championship Grand Prix of the United States, the world's greatest road race drivers showed Sebring fans dazzling speeds Thursday.

England's Stirling Moss, world's second-ranking Grand Prix driver, raced around the torturous Sebring Airfield course in 104 miles per hour in a black Cooper Climax.

Australian Jack Brabham, No. 1 ranking driver in the world championship competition, was clocked in 101 m.p.h. in another Cooper Climax. Tony Brooks of Britain and Count Wolfgang von Tripp of Germany were timed in a fraction under 101 in their Italian Ferraris.

The fenderless, single seat cars, which are limited to 2½ liters in engine size, will run at 1:30 p.m. (EST) Saturday in the final 1959 race of the Grand Prix season. Brabham has a good lead in the battle for the coveted world title. Moss and Brooks have mathematical chances to overtake the Australian.

Experts predict the winner Saturday will average close to 100 miles an hour for the 218.4-mile distance, although the 5.2-mile course has a dozen sharp corners, including hairpin and S turns.

Speeds on the straightaways will hit 150 to 170 miles an hour.

TO TIGERS—Among deals made at the winter meetings was one which sent Chico Fernandez (above), flashy-fielding Phillie shortstop, to the Tigers for Ted Lepcio and two minor league players. The Tigers also got pitcher Ray Semproch in the deal. (Central Press)

Basilio, Ortiz Get Demotions

Both Take Drop In Ring Ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — Former middleweight champion Carmen Basilio and lightweight Carlos Ortiz will have to get busy if they want to stay high up in the ring ratings.

Both were demoted in the latest monthly ring ratings released Thursday. Idleness was the reason.

Basilio was dropped from third to fifth in the 160-pound division, changing places with Germany's Gustav Scholz, the European champion. Ortiz, the junior welterweight champion, lost his No. 1 position among the lightweight contenders. Paolo Rosi, Italian-born New Yorker, was boosted to the top position and Ortiz was dropped to second.

Giants Are Not Through Trading

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Owner Horace Stoneham of the San Francisco Giants said Thursday, "We're not through dealing yet. We still have some unfinished business with the Cardinals and maybe the Cubs too."

Stoneham and the San Francisco contingent returned Wednesday night from the baseball meetings in Florida. The owner indicated further trades involving the Giants probably would wait until spring training.

Talks with the St. Louis club involved second baseman Don Blasingame of the Cardinals and Daryl Spencer, Giants infielder.

Chicago White Sox Sign Mike Garcia

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago White Sox Thursday signed pitcher Mike Garcia, recently released by the Cleveland Indians, as a free agent for the 1960 season.

Garcia, who had a 3-6 record with the Indians in 1959, pitched only 27 innings and gave up 72 hits, striking out 49 and walking 31. He appeared in 29 games, eight as a starter, and hurled one complete game.

Garcia, who missed most of the 1958 season due to a back injury, was a star on the Cleveland pitching staff for nine seasons, winning 138 and losing 90.

Now 36, Garcia pitched in the 1953 all star game and the 1954 World Series.

The Commission took the action after receiving requests from Waterford Park, Wheeling Downs, Charles Town Raceway and Shenandoah Downs.

It said a further study of the request was necessary before the dates were awarded.

Mt. Savage, Beall, Keyser And Bruce Play Home Games

The 1959-60 edition of LaSalle High School basketball teams makes its home debut tonight when it plays Berlin-Brothersvalley (Pa.) High School at 8 o'clock at SS. Peter & Paul gym.

With George Geatz at the helm for the sixth year, LaSalle got off to a good start by winning its first two games away from home. The Explorers defeated Fort Ashby, 67-63, and turned back the Ridgeley Blackhawks, 53-50.

Berlin is coached by John Lichvar with Frank Madey as his assistant.

Four of the six teams in the W.M.I. League, namely, Valley, Mt. Savage, Beall and Bruce are slated to swing into action tonight in non-league games.

Ridgeley (1-3) tackles the Indians (1-0) at Mt. Savage, Beall High's Mountaineers (0-1) host the Piedmont High Lions (2-0), Valley's Black Knights (0-1) visit Keyser (1-0) and Southern's Highlanders (1-0) will test the Bulldogs at Bruce High School.

Five Potomac Valley Conference games also are on tonight's slate. Moorefield is at Franklin, Mathias at Petersburg, Romney at Fort Ashby, Wardensville at Berkeley Springs and West Virginia School for the Deaf at Capon Bridge.

Other high school games on tap include Clear Spring at Flintstone, Rockwood at Northern in Garrett county, Hyndman at Meyersdale, Mountaineer at Belington and Chambersburg at South High, Hagerstown.

Shepherd College entertains the floormen of Wheeling College tonight at Cresaptown.

READY FOR HOME OPENER—With two wins dangling from their belts, both scored on the road, LaSalle High School's Explorers make their home debut tonight when they tackle the cagers of Berlin-Brothersvalley High School of Pennsylvania on SS. Drivers Exceed 100 MPH Tuning Up For Big Race

Grand Prix Of U.S. Is Set For Saturday

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Tuning up for Saturday's world championship Grand Prix of the United States, the world's greatest road race drivers showed Sebring fans dazzling speeds Thursday.

England's Stirling Moss, world's second-ranking Grand Prix driver, raced around the torturous Sebring Airfield course in 104 miles per hour in a black Cooper Climax.

Australian Jack Brabham, No. 1 ranking driver in the world championship competition, was clocked in 101 m.p.h. in another Cooper Climax; Tony Brooks of Britain and Count Wolfgang von Tripp of Germany were timed in a fraction under 101 in their Italian Ferraris.

The fenderless, single seat cars, which are limited to 2½ liters in engine size, will run at 1:30 p.m. (EST) Saturday in the final 1959 race of the Grand Prix season. Brabham has a good lead in the battle for the coveted world title. Moss and Brooks have mathematical chances to overtake the Australian.

Experts predict the winner Saturday will average close to 100 miles an hour for the 218.4-mile distance, although the 5.2-mile course has a dozen sharp corners, including hairpin and S turns.

Speeds on the straightaways will hit 150 to 170 miles an hour.

TO TIGERS—Among deals made at the winter meetings was one which sent Chico Fernandez (above), flashy-fielding Phillie shortstop, to the Tigers for Ted Lepcio and two minor league players. The Tigers also got pitcher Ray Semproch in the deal. (Central Press)

Basilio, Ortiz Get Demotions

Both Take Drop In Ring Ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — Former middleweight champion Carmen Basilio and lightweight Carlos Ortiz will have to get busy if they want to stay high up in the ring ratings.

Both were demoted in the latest monthly ring ratings released Thursday. Idleness was the reason.

Basilio was dropped from third to fifth in the 160-pound division, changing places with Germany's Gustav Scholz, the European champion. Ortiz, the junior welterweight champion, lost his No. 1 position among the lightweight contenders. Paolo Rosi, Italian-born New Yorker, was boosted to the top position and Ortiz was dropped to second.

Giants Are Not Through Trading

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Owner Horace Stoneham of the San Francisco Giants said Thursday, "We're not through dealing yet. We still have some unfinished business with the Cardinals and maybe the Cubs too."

Stoneham and the San Francisco contingent returned Wednesday night from the baseball meetings in Florida. The owner indicated further trades involving the Giants probably would wait until spring training.

Talks with the St. Louis club involved second baseman Don Blasingame of the Cardinals and Daryl Spencer, Giants infielder.

NEW YORK (AP)—The Armed Forces Press, Radio and Television Service announced Thursday it will broadcast the Liberty Bowl football game between Alabama and Penn State Dec. 19.

Chicago White Sox Sign Mike Garcia

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago White Sox Thursday signed pitcher Mike Garcia, recently released by the Cleveland Indians, as a free agent for the 1960 season.

Garcia, who had a 3-6 record with the Indians in 1959, pitched only 27 innings and gave up 72 hits, striking out 49 and walking 31. He appeared in 29 games, eight as a starter, and hurled one complete game.

Garcia, who missed most of the 1958 season due to a back injury, was a star on the Cleveland pitching staff for nine seasons, winning 138 and losing 90.

Now 36, Garcia pitched in the 1953 all star game and the 1954 World Series.

Legion Auxiliary Sets Yule Party

PIEDMONT — Kelly-Mansfield Unit 52, American Legion Auxiliary will hold their annual Christmas party and monthly meeting Friday evening at the post home.

A program of rehabilitation will be presented. Gold Star members will be guests and jingle gifts will be exchanged.

The unit sent homemade candy to the Baker VA Center, Martinsburg.

we did last year. Quality. Taste."

The voice shifted into high gear: "Our show isn't different from other shows of its kind only perhaps in one respect we've got better scripts and we're honest honesty pays off two guys write the scripts and they don't write in a dishonest emotion it's got fun and it's got that underlying schmaltz but it's Americana."

Everyone take a breath.

"They call my show a soft show. I quite agree. It ain't nothin' spectacular. But the Bible's still the best seller and the run on books like 'From Here to Eeternity' don't last long. Doing pictures used to bore the bejabbers out of me and now I work ten times as hard and I'm never bored. Of course, to me the most important thing is the loot. I don't want any streets named after me. I just don't want to be broke again."

Hollywood

until her doctor put his foot down and called the studio that she would not be able to report for at least a few days for "Let No Man Write My Epitaph."

This is another big upset for Shelley who has had more than her share since coming back to Hollywood from New York six weeks ago. "Epitaph" is her first movie in a year and she had so hoped everything would go right. Also, she's been worried about Tony Franciosa since his automobile accident. And she misses her little girl who is in school in New York.

So many requests have come to me asking for Dr. Tom Dooley's address from generous people who want to contribute to this great humanitarian's cause to help the suffering people in Laos. I can only say he will be at the Waldorf-Astoria until the 16th, when he leaves for Lourdes on his way back to spend Christmas at his hospital.

We can only hope that Dr. Tom's own prayers and the prayers of people all over the world will help him regain his health. I am so happy that his books have been sold to 20th Century-Fox as this will enable him to buy more hospital equipment and carry on his fine work.

It would certainly be ironical if Katharine Hepburn comes up for an Oscar in "Suddenly Last Summer." She hated her assignment so much that when she left she had a few thousand words to say to her agent for putting her in this picture.

Katherine, who is one of our great ladies of the screen and stage, didn't like her part, didn't like working with the other actors and didn't like her director, I suppose I will get a long telegram from Joseph Mankiewicz, who directed the picture, denying this, but I happen to know Katy was very unhappy. The funny thing is she gives a terrific performance and is just great. Both she and Elizabeth Taylor are much better than the Tennessee Williams story.

When Marilyn Monroe failed to show up to make a test with Stephen Boyd for "Let's Fall In Love", there were all sorts of whispers. Actually the studio says Marilyn had a cold and was really sick when she didn't appear for two days.

However, the test was made of Boyd without Marilyn and will be passed upon by Buddy Adler and Jerry Wald. It is to be hoped that a leading man is found soon so that work can proceed since it is costing a fortune what with Marilyn's high salary going on.

we did last year. Quality. Taste."

The voice shifted into high gear: "Our show isn't different from other shows of its kind only perhaps in one respect we've got better scripts and we're honest honesty pays off two guys write the scripts and they don't write in a dishonest emotion it's got fun and it's got that underlying schmaltz but it's Americana."

Everyone take a breath.

"They call my show a soft show. I quite agree. It ain't nothin' spectacular. But the Bible's still the best seller and the run on books like 'From Here to Eeternity' don't last long. Doing pictures used to bore the bejabbers out of me and now I work ten times as hard and I'm never bored. Of course, to me the most important thing is the loot. I don't want any streets named after me. I just don't want to be broke again."

until her doctor put his foot down and called the studio that she would not be able to report for at least a few days for "Let No Man Write My Epitaph."

This is another big upset for Shelley who has had more than her share since coming back to Hollywood from New York six weeks ago. "Epitaph" is her first movie in a year and she had so hoped everything would go right. Also, she's been worried about Tony Franciosa since his automobile accident. And she misses her little girl who is in school in New York.

So many requests have come to me asking for Dr. Tom Dooley's address from generous people who want to contribute to this great humanitarian's cause to help the suffering people in Laos. I can only say he will be at the Waldorf-Astoria until the 16th, when he leaves for Lourdes on his way back to spend Christmas at his hospital.

We can only hope that Dr. Tom's own prayers and the prayers of people all over the world will help him regain his health. I am so happy that his books have been sold to 20th Century-Fox as this will enable him to buy more hospital equipment and carry on his fine work.

It would certainly be ironical if Katharine Hepburn comes up for an Oscar in "Suddenly Last Summer." She hated her assignment so much that when she left she had a few thousand words to say to her agent for putting her in this picture.

Katherine, who is one of our great ladies of the screen and stage, didn't like her part, didn't like working with the other actors and didn't like her director, I suppose I will get a long telegram from Joseph Mankiewicz, who directed the picture, denying this, but I happen to know Katy was very unhappy. The funny thing is she gives a terrific performance and is just great. Both she and Elizabeth Taylor are much better than the Tennessee Williams story.

When Marilyn Monroe failed to show up to make a test with Stephen Boyd for "Let's Fall In Love", there were all sorts of whispers. Actually the studio says Marilyn had a cold and was really sick when she didn't appear for two days.

However, the test was made of Boyd without Marilyn and will be passed upon by Buddy Adler and Jerry Wald. It is to be hoped that a leading man is found soon so that work can proceed since it is costing a fortune what with Marilyn's high salary going on.

Market Resumes Uptrend But Gain Is Modest One

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market Thursday resumed the uptrend following Wednesday's setback but the overall gain was a modest one.

The advance was steady from the opening with support centering on the drugs and electronics, the two groups which combined to lead the market down the day before.

The list encountered profit-taking near the close that brought a number of issues down sharply from their best levels of the day. Electronics were especially hard-hit but still finished with a number of good features.

Tuesday's recovery pitch, which brought the industrial stock average within 2.71 points of the all-time Aug. 3 peak has been diagnosed as a simple case of concentration—that is in a relatively few "blue chips" rather than an exceptional demand right down the line.

Brokers noted that the affect of this pattern was evident on Wednesday when instead of continuing the forward drive, stock prices generally eased. They agreed the action indicated the beginning of another consolidation phase that is likely to continue over the near-term.

The industrial stock average registered its 14th advance in the last 16 sessions, and the rails their ninth in the last 10.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Soybean futures prices tumbled as much as 4 cents on a late burst of commission house selling Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Other grains were mixed.

Selling increased in soybeans on reports of further curtailments of processing plants. The nearby contracts suffered the greatest losses.

At the final bell, wheat was off ⅜ to up ¼; corn off ¼ to up ¼; oats off ⅛ to up ½; rye off 1¾ to up 1; and soybeans off 1⅛ to 4.

A moderately active trade in flour by bakers and mills firmed the wehat market early. Prices closed mostly steady. Commission houses were also buyers, and a small export trade was reported. Offerings were light.

Weekly government crop reports stressed a need for surface moisture in the southwest winter wheat area.

Corn rallied from earlier low levels. Prices were steady. Commercial houses traded on both sides of the market.

Oats were also steady. Local traders did most of the buying, and offerings were light. Export subsidies were granted on 150,000 bushels of oats.

Rye weakened under liquidation and stop loss selling. The Winnipeg market was also weak. Spreaders were active.

Most of the buying of soybeans came on resting orders. The local CCC office sold 284,000 bushels of beans Wednesday.

Meals were lower.

Germany was said to have bought 12,500 bushels of hard wheat.

Outside markets were mixed.

Market Resumes Uptrend But Gain Is Modest One

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market Thursday resumed the uptrend following Wednesday's setback but the overall gain was a modest one.

The advance was steady from the opening with support centering on the drugs and electronics, the two groups which combined to lead the market down the day before.

The list encountered profit-taking near the close that brought a number of issues down sharply from their best levels of the day. Electronics were especially hard-hit but still finished with a number of good features.

Tuesday's recovery pitch, which brought the industrial stock average within 2.71 points of the all-time Aug. 3 peak has been diagnosed as a simple case of concentration—that is in a relatively few "blue chips" rather than an exceptional demand right down the line.

Brokers noted that the affect of this pattern was evident on Wednesday when instead of continuing the forward drive, stock prices generally eased. They agreed the action indicated the beginning of another consolidation phase that is likely to continue over the near-term.

The industrial stock average registered its 14th advance in the last 16 sessions, and the rails their ninth in the last 10.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Soybean futures prices tumbled as much as 4 cents on a late burst of commission house selling Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Other grains were mixed.

Selling increased in soybeans on reports of further curtailments of processing plants. The nearby contracts suffered the greatest losses.

At the final bell, wheat was off ⅝ to up ¼; corn off ¼ to up ¼; oats off ⅛ to up ½; rye off 1¾ to up 1; and soybeans off 1⅝ to 4.

A moderately active trade in flour by bakers and mills firmed the wehat market early. Prices closed mostly steady. Commission houses were also buyers, and a small export trade was reported. Offerings were light.

Weekly government crop reports stressed a need for surface moisture in the southwest winter wheat area.

Corn rallied from earlier low levels. Prices were steady. Commercial houses traded on both sides of the market.

Oats were also steady. Local traders did most of the buying, and offerings were light. Export subsidies were granted on 150,000 bushels of oats.

Rye weakened under liquidation and stop loss selling. The Winnipeg market was also weak. Spreaders were active.

Most of the buying of soybeans came on resting orders. The local CCC office sold 284,000 bushels of beans Wednesday.

Meals were lower.

Germany was said to have bought 12,500 bushels of hard wheat.

Outside markets were mixed.

Service Clubs Will Vie For Kettle Award

Salvation Army To Give Lectern

Members of local clubs will have a special incentive for testing the leather of their lungs when they man the Christmas Cheer kettles of the Salvation Army in Cumberland this year.

Always enthusiastic in their efforts to "sweeten the pot" for the unfortunate at Christmas time, this year they will be vying for a specially designed lectern which is being built by the Red Shield Boys Club of the Salvation Army.

The club showing the greatest return during its appointed hours at the kettles will receive the lectern, which will bear the inscription, "Salvation Army Christmas Honor Award," and the name of the winning club.

All rival clubs meeting at the Central YMCA will be reminded weekly of the winner, since the lectern will be set at the head table at all meetings, with the inscription turned toward the assembled members.

The Cumberland Rotary Club kicks off the contest tomorrow afternoon, to be followed at various times by the Optimists of Cumberland and Bedford Road, the Kiwanis, Lions and Civitan Clubs, the Jaycees, and Post 13, American Legion. All clubs have been allotted an equal amout of time at the kettles.

The award will rotate each year, but since it is sure to show signs of wear—from the sweaty hands of nervous speakers, the gavel-swinging of enthusiastic chairmen, the marks and stains left by water-sloshers—it will be refinished each December by the Red Shield Boys Club and the name of the new winner will be inscribed on the newly polished surface.

The lectern was designed and the more difficult work done on it by two brothers, Isaac and Earl Judy, employes of the Buckanan Lumber Company.

Other groups that will help with the kettle program are the Ali Ghan Shrine Band and the Salvation Army Mens' Club. Members of the South Cumberland Business and Civic Association will man the kettles for two days on Virginia Avenue. These groups have volunteered their services outside the lectern competition.

The Salvation Army is one of the 31 participating services of County United Fund, and Captain Fred Overton, commander, last night said that the kettle program is just one of the many ways in which United givers volunteer their time in order to expand the value and effectiveness of CUF services.

New GI Pension Plan Explained By VA Officer

The new veterans pension law which is effective next July 1 in no way changes the basic eligibility for a veteran seeking a pension, Samuel J. Weston, local Veterans Administration representative said yesterday.

A veteran must still be totally and permanently disabled from causes not traceable to his service, must have 90 days or more of honorable wartime service, and an income below prescribed limits.

Extending the present income limits of $1,400 a year for a single veteran and $2,700 a year for a veteran with a wife or child to $1,800 and $3,000 respectively, the new pension law attempts to relate the amount of pension to need.

Veterans with higher income will receive lower pension payments and those with smaller incomes will receive larger pensions when the law becomes effective.

Widows of World War II and Korean war veterans, under the new law, no longer will be required to show that the deceased veteran has a service-connected disability. Like widows of World War I veterans, they will have to show only that the veteran had 90 days' honorable service in wartime. Widows must also come within the income limitation.

The new pension law does not affect compensation beneficiaries under programs administered by the VA, Mr. Weston said.

Information on these pension changes and other VA programs for veterans and their families or dependents may be obtained at the VA office, third floor of the Cumberland Post Office.

Anyone interested in purchasing candy may call Mrs. Bradshaw at RE 8-8981, or Mrs. Regina Collins at RE 8-9136. After 5 p. m. orders will be taken at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eston Turner, RE 8-8920.

JCs Endorse Thomas For President

Members of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, who attended a recent Maryland board of directors meeting in Dundalk, were among those who endorsed Howard Thomas of Silver Spring as the state nominee for national president of the Jaycees.

Mr. Thomas is national vice president of the district comprising Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio and Delaware. This is the first time a Marylander has thrown his hat into the ring, according to Frederick J. Hill, of 301 Washington Street, member of the state board of directors, who was among the delegates from Cumberland.

Next June during the annual convention in St. Louis, one of the 10 candidates will be elected president of the national organization.

The successful candidate will reside in the Jaycee "White House" in Tulsa, Okla., for a year.

After the meeting at the Sparrows Point Country Club the Jaycees were taken on a tour of the Bethlehem Steel plant.

Teacher Pay Propositions Discussed Here

Will Be Reviewed By School Board

A delegation from the Allegany County Teachers Association met yesterday afternoon with Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster to discuss three series of proposed county teacher pay increases for the 1960-61 fiscal year.

Mr. Webster said one series of locally-paid increases was based on the adoption by the General Assembly of the recommendations of the State Teachers Association. It has been estimated that on a state-wide basis, the association-requested pay raises would require at least $13 million.

A second local proposal was based on the adoption by the General Assembly of the recommendations of a fiscal study committee headed by Senator William S. James, Harford County Democrat. This committee recommended teacher raises for the most experienced teachers at a state cost of about $5 million.

Governor J. Millard Tawes Wednesday endorsed the James Committee proposal. Last January, Mr. Tawes endorsed the full $400 average increase for all certified teachers which the association had requested. However, the House and Senate deadlocked over the issue and the bill was scuttled just before adjournment.

The third proposition of the county teachers was devised on the assumption that no statewide teacher pay increases would be granted by the General Assembly in Annapolis in February.

Mr. Webster said he will present all three proposals to the County Board of Education for consideration next Tuesday afternoon.

Conferring with the superintendent of schools yesterday were Roy E. Pepper, seventh grade English teacher at Beall Elementary School and county association president; Dr. W. Ardell Haines, principal of Allegany High School and chairman of the association's legislative committee; Miss Dorothy Willison, Allegany High School music teacher; John E. Frank, Fort Hill High School mathematics teacher; John D. Kelly, Beall High School mathematics teacher; James D. Preaskorn, guidance director and driver education teacher at Valley High School, and Miss Sara E. Wright, principal of John Humbird Elementary School.

Health Official Pleased With Filter Plant

A representative of the Pennsylvania State Department of Health who visited here yesterday went back home well pleased with the operations of the city's filtration plant at Lake Gordon, which purifies the water supply provided for some Pennsylvanians.

Franklin J. Blaney, sanitation engineer for Cumberland, conferred with the representative and took him on an inspection tour of the filtration plant.

The two men also discussed what the city has in mind regarding improvements to the plant. The representative took with him some water samples which will be tested at Lewistown, said Mr. Blaney.

Mr. Blaney said that there are about 10 or 15 Pennsylvania families who have taps into the water line from the plant to Cumberland customers.

Mr. Blaney pointed out that a representative from the Pennsylvania State Department of Health makes an inspection trip every six or eight months.

Locally, daily tests of water are taken by the Health Department, which keeps a "constant vigil" on the purity of the water, said Mr. Blaney.

Forestry Camp Cannot Provide Christmas Trees

Ralph D. Swauger, director of the Boys Forestry Camp at Lonaconing, said the camp is being besieged with requests for Christmas trees.

He and other personnel of the camp have no legal authority to sell or give away trees from state-owned land, the director explained. Such requests should be made through the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks, which maintains a district office in the Allegany County Court House.

Mr. Swauger said requests should not be made at the camp.

Boy Found Guilty In Local Thefts

Speaker Gets 'Unfriendly' Reception Here

A man identified as Dr. Josef Sorrocos, a native of Russia now employed as an exchange professor in the United States, received an "unfriendly" reception when he addressed the Men's Club of First Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Sorrocos told the Presbyterian men that everything in Russia is better than in the United States.

Before the group could actually do violence to Dr. Sorrocos, J. Wallace Close, president of the club, hastened to tell the group that the speaker really was H. D. McGinnis, a retired explosives engineer for the Dupont Company, who is now retired and lives in Morgantown, W. Va.

Mr. McGinnis told the men that he has delivered this talk about 2,300 times and has almost been thrown out of some meetings. He cautioned the men to be on the alert for phony persons. Rev. Maurice D. Robertson, pastor, gave the invocation and his assistant, Rev. Emil G. Teyssier, had the benediction.

Army, WAC Offer Holiday Delay In New Enlistments

Applicants for enlistment in the Army or the Woman's Army Corps may take as much as a 16-day pre-induction leave before reporting for basic training, M/Sgt. Virgil M. Smith, local recruiter, said yesterday.

This will give young people interested in starting their military service an opportunity to remain at home for Christmas or New Year or both, and at the same time begin accumulating time on their enlistments, he explained.

Applicants, at their request between now and January 1, will be examined and enlisted at the main recruiting station in Fairmont, W. Va., and then returned home as members of the Army on leave, the recruiter explained.

Family Fallout Shelter Booklet Now Available

"The Family Fallout Shelter," an illustrated 32-page booklet, has been placed in public buildings including the Allegany County Court House and Post Office for the benefit of residents who would like to read up on the subject matter.

The contents of the booklet include "Fallout shelter is needed everywhere," "The Shelters," "Living in a shelter," If an attack finds you without a prepared shelter," 'Shelter in apartment buildings," and "Why prepare a shelter now?"

"Adequate shielding is the only effective means of preventing radiation casualties."

The booklet, prepared for distribution by the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization points out that important considerations common to each type of shelter are arrangement of the entrance, ventilation, radio reception and lighting.

In the appendix of the booklet are illustrated drawings for fallout shelters; shelter checklist and suggestions for contracts.

It is pointed out in the introduction that the shelters can serve a dual purpose—protection from tornadoes and other severe storms in addition to protection from fallout.

However the protection must be provided before, not after, the sirens sound, says Leo A. Hugh, director of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization.

Petry Inspects Advanced Classes In Pittsburgh Area

It certainly isn't news when Jack A. Petry, supervisor of high schools in Allegany County, visits high schools in this county. He does it every week.

But Wednesday he visited two high schools in Allegheny County and the change in spelling makes it news. As most people know, Allegheny County in Pennsylvania is in the Pittsburgh area.

Mr. Petry visited Thomas Jefferson and North Allegheny high schools in the Pittsburgh area to sit in and observe advanced science and mathematics classes in action there. He attended an eighth grade algebra class, a subject usually reserved for ninth graders; advanced biology, advanced chemistry and advanced mathematics classes.

Allegheny County has done a great deal of work in encouraging the gifted students to expend greater effort. There is much around Pittsburgh to encourage serious study on the part of gifted students. There are a number of outstanding universities in the area, museums and research centers for a number of major American industries.

Mr. Petry was led on his visit to the Allegheny County schools by Dr. A. Glenn Clark, assistant superintendent of schools. Mr. Petry and Dr. Clark formerly taught together in Coraopolis, Pa.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster has started a curriculum study here in an effort to ascertain the best ways to encourage the gifted students. It was in conjunction with this study that Mr. Petry was sent to Pittsburgh. Mr. Webster, Assistant Superintendent Richard T. Rizer and Mr. Petry are planning another trip to Pittsburgh in a few weeks.

New GI Pension Plan Explained By VA Officer

The new veterans pension law which is effective next July 1 in no way changes the basic eligibility for a veteran seeking a pension, Samuel J. Weston, local Veterans Administration representative said yesterday.

A veteran must still be totally and permanently disabled from causes not traceable to his service, must have 90 days or more of honorable wartime service, and an income below prescribed limits.

Extending the present income limits of $1,400 a year for a single veteran and $2,700 a year for a veteran with a wife or child to $1,800 and $3,000 respectively, the new pension law attempts to relate the amount of pension to need.

Veterans with higher income will receive lower pension payments and those with smaller incomes will receive larger pensions when the law becomes effective.

Widows of World War II and Korean war veterans, under the new law, no longer will be required to show that the deceased veteran has a service-connected disability. Like widows of World War I veterans, they will have to show only that the veteran had 90 days' honorable service in wartime. Widows must also come within the income limitation.

The new pension law does not affect compensation beneficiaries under programs administered by the VA, Mr. Weston said.

Information on these pension changes and other VA programs for veterans and their families or dependents may be obtained at the VA office, third floor of the Cumberland Post Office.

Teacher Pay Propositions Discussed Here

Will Be Reviewed By School Board

A delegation from the Allegany County Teachers Association met yesterday afternoon with Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster to discuss three series of proposed county teacher pay increases for the 1960-61 fiscal year.

Mr. Webster said one series of locally-paid increases was based on the adoption by the General Assembly of the recommendations of the State Teachers Association. It has been estimated that on a state-wide basis, the association-requested pay raises would require at least $13 million.

A second local proposal was based on the adoption by the General Assembly of the recommendations of a fiscal study committee headed by Senator William S. James, Harford County Democrat. This committee recommended teacher raises for the most experienced teachers at a state cost of about $5 million.

Governor J. Millard Tawes Wednesday endorsed the James Committee proposal. Last January, Mr. Tawes endorsed the full $400 average increase for all certified teachers which the association had requested. However, the House and Senate deadlocked over the issue and the bill was scuttled just before adjournment.

The third proposition of the county teachers was devised on the assumption that no statewide teacher pay increases would be granted by the General Assembly in Annapolis in February.

Mr. Webster said he will present all three proposals to the County Board of Education for consideration next Tuesday afternoon.

Conferring with the superintendent of schools yesterday were Roy E. Pepper, seventh grade English teacher at Beall Elementary School and county association president; Dr. W. Ardell Haines, principal of Allegany High School and chairman of the association's legislative committee; Miss Dorothy Willison, Allegany High School music teacher; John E. Frank, Fort Hill High School mathematics teacher; John D. Kelly, Beall High School mathematics teacher; James D. Preaskorn, guidance director and driver education teacher at Valley High School, and Miss Sara E. Wright, principal of John Humbird Elementary School.

Health Official Pleased With Filter Plant

A representative of the Pennsylvania State Department of Health who visited here yesterday went back home well pleased with the operations of the city's filtration plant at Lake Gordon, which purifies the water supply provided for some Pennsylvanians.

Franklin J. Blaney, sanitation engineer for Cumberland, conferred with the representative and took him on an inspection tour of the filtration plant.

The two men also discussed what the city has in mind regarding improvements to the plant. The representative took with him some water samples which will be tested at Lewistown, said Mr. Blaney.

Mr. Blaney said that there are about 10 or 15 Pennsylvania families who have taps into the water line from the plant to Cumberland customers.

Mr. Blaney pointed out that a representative from the Pennsylvania State Department of Health makes an inspection trip every six or eight months.

Locally, daily tests of water are taken by the Health Department, which keeps a "constant vigil" on the purity of the water, said Mr. Blaney.

Forestry Camp Cannot Provide Christmas Trees

Ralph D. Swauger, director of the Boys Forestry Camp at Lonaconing, said the camp is being besieged with requests for Christmas trees.

Mr. Swauger said requests should not be made at the camp.

Speaker Gets 'Unfriendly' Reception Here

A man identified as Dr. Josef Sorrocos, a native of Russia now employed as an exchange professor in the United States, received an "unfriendly" reception when he addressed the Men's Club of First Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Sorrocos told the Presbyterian men that everything in Russia is better than in the United States.

Before the group could actually do violence to Dr. Sorrocos, J. Wallace Close, president of the club, hastened to tell the group that the speaker really was H. D. McGinnis, a retired explosives engineer for the Dupont Company, who is now retired and lives in Morgantown, W. Va.

Mr. McGinnis told the men that he has delivered this talk about 2,300 times and has almost been thrown out of some meetings. He cautioned the men to be on the alert for phony persons. Rev. Maurice D. Robertson, pastor, gave the invocation and his assistant, Rev. Emil G. Teyssier, had the benediction.

Applicants for enlistment in the Army or the Woman's Army Corps may take as much as a 16-day pre-induction leave before reporting for basic training, M/Sgt. Virgil M. Smith, local recruiter, said yesterday.

This will give young people interested in starting their military service an opportunity to remain at home for Christmas or New Year or both, and at the same time begin accumulating time on their enlistments, he explained.

Applicants, at their request between now and January 1, will be examined and enlisted at the main recruiting station in Fairmont, W. Va., and then returned home as members of the Army on leave, the recruiter explained.

Family Fallout Shelter Booklet Now Available

"The Family Fallout Shelter," an illustrated 32-page booklet, has been placed in public buildings including the Allegany County Court House and Post Office for the benefit of residents who would like to read up on the subject matter.

The contents of the booklet include "Fallout shelter is needed everywhere," "The Shelters," "Living in a shelter," If an attack finds you without a prepared shelter," 'Shelter in apartment buildings," and "Why prepare a shelter now?"

"Adequate shielding is the only effective means of preventing radiation casualties."

The booklet, prepared for distribution by the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization points out that important considerations common to each type of shelter are arrangement of the entrance, ventilation, radio reception and lighting.

In the appendix of the booklet are illustrated drawings for fallout shelters; shelter checklist and suggestions for contracts.

It is pointed out in the introduction that the shelters can serve a dual purpose—protection from tornadoes and other severe storms in addition to protection from fallout.

However the protection must be provided before, not after, the sirens sound, says Leo A. Hugh, director of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization.

Petry Inspects Advanced Classes In Pittsburgh Area

A few letters can make a big difference.

It certainly isn't news when Jack A. Petry, supervisor of high schools in Allegany County, visits high schools in this county. He does it every week.

But Wednesday he visited two high schools in Allegheny County and the change in spelling makes it news. As most people know, Allegheny County in Pennsylvania is in the Pittsburgh area.

Mr. Petry visited Thomas Jefferson and North Allegheny high schools in the Pittsburgh area to sit in and observe advanced science and mathematics classes in action there. He attended an eighth grade algebra class, a subject usually reserved for ninth graders; advanced biology, advanced chemistry and advanced mathematics classes.

Allegheny County has done a great deal of work in encouraging the gifted students to expend greater effort. There is much around Pittsburgh to encourage serious study on the part of gifted students. There are a number of outstanding universities in the area, museums and research centers for a number of major American industries.

Mr. Petry was led on his visit to the Allegheny County schools by Dr. A. Glenn Clark, assistant superintendent of schools. Mr. Petry and Dr. Clark formerly taught together in Coraopolis, Pa.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster has started a curriculum study here in an effort to ascertain the best ways to encourage the gifted students. It was in conjunction with this study that Mr. Petry was sent to Pittsburgh. Mr. Webster, Assistant Superintendent Richard T. Rizer and Mr. Petry are planning another trip to Pittsburgh in a few weeks.
